828 Mines Shut Down, Affecting Population of 500,000—Workers Hail Vacation.

BOTH SIDES DEFEND COURSE

COOLIDGE SEES HAMMOND

Latter Advises President to Recommend to Congress Enactment of Commission's Proposals.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Tuesday, Sept. 1.—The anthracite strike is on. Midnight saw the "whole region" idled the last of the 150,000 miners affected by the suspension order left the pits.

"The walkout is 100 per cent.," was what went flashed early this morning from union leaders over Lykens to the south to Scranton in the north to President John L. Lewis at the headquarters of the United Mine Workers in this city. This word was supported by the reports. The first miners to blow out their carbide lamps and "call it a day" were the 125,000 union men whose shifts ended at 2 P. M. yesterday. They fired their last blasts in the morning and spent the rest of the day helping their laborers get the coal to the surface. At midnight 16,000 more quit, leaving 8,000 maintenance men in the pits.

Expiration of the wage contract at midnight, according to reports that reached this city, was followed by a complete shutdown of mining operations in every breaker, colliery and washery in the 500 square miles of anthracite territory.

Opponents Issue Statements.

Today miners and their families begin their first real vacation in two years. The miners of the ten anthracite districts will spend the day waiting for the sound of the repair men's hammers and the lonely visit of the maintenance men whose duty it will be to protect the property from fire or flood. Not one of the 828 mines will be operated today. Fishing and sports will engage the attention of the strikers. Some will tend their gardens and others will assist in harvesting crops. A few have gone to farms in other sections.

Leaders of the mine workers and the anthracite operators issued statements yesterday, each charging the other with responsibility for the strike. Major W. W. Inglis, President of the Glen Alden Coal Company and chairman of the Anthracite Operators' Conference, said the strike meant a loss of $1,200,000 daily in wages to the mine workers and declared it was caused by the refusal of the miners' leaders to accept the contract which while it was being negotiated.

The strike order shuts down 828 mines and 272 collieries owned by 135 companies. The operators of the district affected employed 70,000 men and boys last year, who mined in Luzerne, Lackawanna and Schuylkill Counties. The greater part of the coal is produced by these eight companies:

Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron Company, with 46 collieries; Lehigh Valley Coal Company, 23 collieries; Glen Alden Coal Company, 17 collieries; Hudson Coal Company, 19 collieries; Susquehanna Collieries Company, 10 collieries; Pennsylvania Coal Company, 9 collieries, and Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company, 6 collieries.

A population of 500,000 depending directly on mining will be affected by the strike. These include 10,000 railroad men handling coal and working in repair shops. The operators estimate that their overhead during the strike will amount to approximately $200,000 a day. If this loss is passed on to the public the consumer will pay nearly $6,500,000 for every month of idleness.

Lewis Defends Strike.

Late tonight President Lewis of the miners issued the following statement:

"The suspension in the anthracite anthracite region becomes a fact today and will be completely effective. The mine workers deeply regret that no other course is open to them than to suspend mining operations but point to the fact that the responsibility must lie with the anthracite operators, who have consistently refrained from any good-faith attempt to negotiate an agreement.

"It is well known that they met us in the Atlantic City meeting an impossible barrier to successful negotiations—that is, their methodical and cold-blooded declaration that all of the Mine Workers' demands were rejected that disturbed the factor of mine costs. In addition, they rejected the Mine Workers' demand for complete recognition of the union for specious sentimental reasons. They are again engaged in their time-honored and traditional occupation of levying all of the tariff which the traffic will bear.

"For a month past, throughout the

Thinking Lewis an Operator, Strike-Breaker Asks for Job

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31 (AP).—Mistaking the headquarters of the United Mine Workers at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel today for the offices of the anthracite mine owners, a hooded seeking work in the coal fields during the coming suspension tackled John L. Lewis, International Union President, for a job.

Mr. Lewis, en route to the elevator after the struggle, collided with Dr. Joseph S. Gross, who, thinking that the stranger had ill at ease, mistook him for a mine worker and asked if he could do anything for him. The man explained that he supposed there would be wage premiums at the mines because of the industrial condition, and that he was ready to "sign up" and leave at once.

The look apparently failed to set a chance come over the face of the miners' leader, and proceeded to offer as credentials that he was a man of experience, and had served for some time as a strike-breaker during the last strike of railroad shopmen.

The comment of Mr. Lewis upon appraising him of his error and he left the hotel without delay.

ITALY AND RUMANIA TO FUND THEIR DEBT

Finance Minister Volpi, Likely to Head Italian Delegation, Expected Oct. 15.

Bucharest May Empower Interparliamentary Conference Delegates to Negotiate.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Announcement that an Italian commission, probably headed by Count Volpi, the Italian Finance Minister was expected to arrive in Washington about Oct. 15 to discuss that country's debt to the United States, was made at the Treasury this afternoon.

Simultaneously it was learned that Rumania appeared to believe the Italian Government was now ready to talk business with the United States over its obligations of $2,164,562,000, of which $160,674,000 has accrued interest, an amount [illegible] try by Great Britain and France.

The fact that Italy seems ready to arrange a settlement brings gratification to members of the American Debt Commission, who are prepared to meet the Italian Commissioners with all kindness but to withstand demands for treatment comparable to that granted to the Belgians at Ambassador Houghton's recent [illegible] be able to conclude his negotiations concerning the French debt in nine days' time brought the response at the Treasury that this would be perfectly easy of accomplishment. It is believed that Premier Mussolini will send the Finance Minister arrive with proposals acceptable of acceptance.

No meeting of the American Debt Commission is in advance of the visit of the Premier has been set, it is understood.

French arrive with their proposals rather than to try to discuss the situation ahead of time.

Special Two Discussed Debts.

One of the close students of the international situation, Senator Fess of Ohio, stated today that the salutary effect of the final settlement with Belgium could not be overestimated.

If any country had the slightest ground for such claim, which the United States denies in toto, it was Belgium," he said. "Her decision to respect her international obligations and maintain her honor both at home and abroad silences the cheap clap-trap frequently heard around the chancelleries of European capitals that the United States exacts the Allies to pay for the uniforms in which her soldiers died. It ought to put an end to the talk of men in high position resenting 'signing on the dotted line.' These obligations, the prayer of the hard-pressed nations when the dotted line was better known as the Hindenburg line, which without our assistance would have ripened the Anglican Channel.

Tracing the effect of the settlements upon the United States, Senator Fess said the items applied to the public debt of this country, including interest ($985,000,000) and sinking fund ($472,000,000) amounted to $1,457,000,000 or 57 per cent. of the total annual expenditure of more than $3,000,000,000.

"At the end of the next fiscal year the public debt was slightly over $20,000,000,000, having been reduced from its peak of $26,500,000,000 in 1919," he stated. "The total loans to Europe were

B. L. HANEY DEFIES COOLIDGE'S DEMAND TO QUIT SHIP BOARD

WANTS DISPUTES TO END

HANEY DEFENDS HIS ACTS

Oregon Democrat Asserts the President Knew His Views When Reappointing Him.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Differences within the United States Shipping Board and between that body and the Emergency Fleet Corporation came to a head last Thursday with a demand by President Coolidge for the resignation of Bert E. Haney, Democrat, of Oregon, a member of the Board, and the refusal of Mr. Haney to retire as requested.

The President acted because of Commissioner Haney's repeated attempts to have Admiral Leigh C. Palmer, President of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, removed from office by the Board. His telegram to Commissioner Haney declared that the latter's position in this regard was contrary to any understanding reached between them prior to his reappointment in June, a statement which was denied by Mr. Haney.

When asked for a statement on the situation this evening, Mr. Haney made public his letter in reply to the President's telegram, stating that it completely set forth his position.

Just what steps President Coolidge will take to enforce his demand for Mr. Haney's resignation is not known. Under the law the President may remove for "cause," and under this heading come malfeasance, incompetence and neglect.

Mr. Haney was appointed a Shipping Board Commissioner by President Harding in June, 1922, as the successor of former Senator George E. Chamberlain of Oregon, whose term of office expired on that date. He was subsequently appointed by President Harding for a two-year term in June of this year. Indications are that Mr. Haney will be compelled to retire in December, as he was not confirmed by the Senate. He is now serving under a recess designation which will lapse with the meeting of the Senate in December.

Mr. Haney was born in Illinois in 1870 and was graduated from the University of Oregon in 1894. He was admitted to the Oregon bar in 1895 and practiced law in Portland until 1917, when he was appointed Collector of Internal Revenue for the district of Oregon. He resigned this office in 1921 to become Director of the Bureau of Efficiency of the State of Oregon.

Mr. Haney's letter to the President follows:

Washington, Aug. 28, 1925.

The President, Executive Office.

Dear Mr. President:

I am in receipt of your telegram of the 27th instant, reading as follows:

"It having come to my attention that you are proposing to remove Admiral Palmer, contrary to the understanding I had with you when I reappointed you, your resignation from the United States Shipping Board is requested."

When you honored me last June by tendering a reappointment, I stated that I was reluctant to accept, not only for personal business reasons, but because I was not in sympathy with retaining President Palmer at the head of the Fleet Corporation.

At your request, the reasons for my opposition to President Palmer were fully and frankly stated and were in substance as follows:

First, without questioning his ability as a naval officer, I considered him incompetent from temperament

Italian Submarine Reported Missing

After the Naval Manoeuvres Off Sicily

ROME, Aug. 31 (AP).—The Italian submarine Sebastiano Veniero disappeared during last week's naval manoeuvres off Sicily and has not been heard from.

An official announcement today states that destroyers, dirigibles, submarines and motor boats have searched the Sicilian coast day and night since the disappearance of the submarine without success.

The Sebastiano Veniero was ordered to lie in ambush off the east coast of Sicily between Cape Passero and Cape Murro di Porco during the manoeuvres, and when last seen, on Tuesday, was on the way to fulfill this assignment.

She was commanded by Frigate Captain Paolo Vandone, who saw extensive service during the World War and was considered one of the best experts on undersea craft in the Italian Navy. The submarine was believed to be in perfect condition before the manoeuvres.

The Sebastiano Veniero, built under the Italian naval program of 1914, is 213 feet in length, has an armament of six torpedo tubes and two 14-pounder guns and has a cruising radius on the surface of 1,500 miles. She displaces 747 tons on the surface and 925 tons submerged.

Mitchell's Coolness Saves Life in Crash; Goes On to His Work, Calling It Part of Job

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Aug. 31 (AP).—[illegible] the locomotive carrying it over in a headedness saved the life of Colonel William F. Mitchell, chief of the Eighth Corps air forces, when an airplane which he was piloting crashed here this morning. He was unscratched, but his plane was a wreck. Harry Short, civilian airplane expert, who accompanied Colonel Mitchell, also escaped uphart. The accident occurred while Colonel Mitchell was taking off from the old remount station and in full view of the entire staff of the Eighth Corps area, present to inspect the field for aviation [illegible] motor cut out at about 100 feet up. Beneath the machine was a maze of trees, ditches and fences. Colonel Mitchell gently set the machine down in the best cleared space he could locate. The undercarriage of the plane plowed into the ground, Colonel Mitchell tripped his belt, crawled from beneath the wreckage and grinned as he waved to the official group as a signal that he had not been injured. Then he motored to Fort Sam Houston and plowed into a huge pile of correspondence on his desk.

"That's something we have to face every day," declared Colonel Mitchell. "I have made two of those landings at [illegible] again. My motor went dead without a moment's warning and I had to set the plane down in a fence corner.

"We had reached an altitude of about eighty feet and were near the edge of [illegible] ficient altitude or speed to enable me to turn back toward the field. I was compelled to land straight ahead, narrowly missing wagons and teams crossed in [illegible] the field. The heavy crash [illegible] plane proved to be of good service."

BROADWAY SUFFERS AS PIER FIRE SMOKES

Hundred Overcome at Blaze That Sends Pall Over Mid-Manhattan for Five Hours.

FIREMEN FALL INTO RIVER

Two Liners Towed to Safety as Flames Are Fought From Rafts and Fleet of Tugs.

For more than five hours last night mid-Manhattan suffered from smoke that drifted from a fire in a North River pier, while firemen on rafts on the decks of fireboats sought to subdue one of the most stubborn blazes in the city for a long time.

The fire was in the underpinning of Pier A, at the foot of Albany Street. When it started two passenger steamships were moored at the pier. Both were towed safely out into the river, one with [illegible] passengers.

At midnight the fire was still burning, but under control, while a crowd of 5,000 watched from every vantage point. Fifteen companies, assisted into the [illegible] and others stationed to the north [illegible] by apparatus and [illegible] In all more than 100 men suffered from the smoke and [illegible] treatment.

Police reserves in the [illegible] were called out to handle the crowd that gathered to watch the fire.

A pall of smoke from the burning [illegible] away from the river and across the city and smoke drifted in through open windows and doors of theatres, hotels and office buildings in the uptown district. Washington Square. An acrid odor accompanied the smoke.

The Two Liners Towed Away.

The first tug to arrive at the pier [illegible] and the Furniss, Bermuda Line, and a passenger vessel of each line was tied up there when the flames were discovered by the guards.

Fire from the pier spread to the [illegible] and the two vessels were towed to midstream, where they anchored.

The first firemen to arrive made little to stop the spread of the flames. The burning material was under a thick concrete flooring and the fire could be attacked only from the sides of the pier and with little effect.

Second and third alarms were sounded in rapid succession and a call for fireboats was sent in.

The James Duane was the first fireboat to arrive, and, assisted by four New York Central tugs, the Navy Tug 20 and several other tugs, attacked the [illegible] was pouring. The firemen on the Duane were able to shoot strong streams of water, but the men on the other tugs had only small equipment.

Fire Through Concrete Floor.

As more fireboats and land fire apparatus and men failed to check the flames, Acting Chief "Smoky Joe" Martin summoned an emergency crew from the Consolidated Gas Company with electric drills. Holes were cut through the fifteen-inch concrete floor and streams of water thrown on the fire. Chief Martin also put squads of men on rafts where they could fight the flames from the river.

A rising tide spurred on the flames instead of putting them out. It narrowed the space between the surface of the water and the bottom of the pier floor, and the flames, instead of eating down, spread inward. By 9 o'clock

Navy Believes Combination Will Prove able for a New Record—PN-1 Will Follow Alone.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31 (AP).—Two giant naval seaplanes, the PN-9 No. 1 and the PN-9 No. 3, darted out of San Pablo Bay, a northern arm of San Francisco Bay, [illegible] this afternoon and flew into the Pacific Ocean, bound for Hawaii, 2,100 nautical miles away.

The PN-9, No. 1, was making satisfactory progress at 11:30 o'clock tonight. A report from the PN-9 No. 3 was expected momentarily from the McCawley.

Commander John Rodgers, flight unit commander, sent a wireless message from the No. 1 to the destroyer McCawley which said:

pression that the people of the city did not want to see Governor Smith renominated for President.

"Governor Smith has not injected the Klan issue into the campaign, as his opponents have charged. He specifically stated as fact. While the Democrats of New York at Madison Square Garden were trying to nominate Smith for President, Hylan was in conference with the McAdoo and Klan delegates.

Another woman district leader in Hylan's territory came out for Senator Walker when Mrs. Henrietta Schroeder, co-leader of the Democratic organization of the First Queens Assembly District, announced that she would support the entire Tammany ticket. She said she considered the principal issue in the primary was the challenge to Governor Smith's leadership.

MAYOR RAPS SHULHOF, WALKER PARTY'S HOST

Says Smith Appointee Offered to Help Him Make Million in City Garbage Plant.

Mayor Hylan charged yesterday that Otto B. Shulhof, at whose garden party on Sunday Grover A. Whalen, once the Mayor's confidential adviser, declared Senator Walker, had "offered to show him how to make $1,000,000 out of the reorganization of the garbage plants on Staten Island and Barren Island."

Mr. Shulhof is a Commissioner of the Port Authority by appointment of Governor Smith and a wealthy business man. The attack upon him by the Mayor, which was delivered on the latter's arrival at City Hall, came as something of a surprise.

When asked about Mr. Whalen's action, the Mayor said: "I have never been disloyal to a friend or to the people during my lifetime. One deserter more or less makes no difference to me."

He then launched his attack on Mr. Shulhof and said:

"Shulhof is the man who wanted to show me how to make $1,000,000 for myself by reopening and reorganizing the garbage plants on Staten Island and Barren Island after the Staten Island plant had been closed down.

"Shulhof is now a member of the Port Authority, appointed by Governor Smith. This is the people's fight against those who want to use the Mayor for their purposes."

Mr. Shulcff at his home in Far Rockaway declined to comment upon the Mayor's assertion.

Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright called on the Mayor during the day. He denied the newspaper report that the Honest Government League, of which George MacDonald, honorary Deputy Police Commissioner is President, was ready to launch a movement to run him as an independent candidate for Mayor in case Mayor Hylan should be defeated in the primary contest.

"Nothing to it," Mr. Enright said.

PREDICTS QUEENS VICTORY.

Senator Karle Believes Republicans Will Win for First Time.

State Senator John L. Karle, Republican candidate for Borough President of Queens, predicted yesterday that the Republicans would win that borough this year for the first time since the consolidation of the Greater City.

"I have no opposition in the Republican primaries, so I will be the candidate of the Republicans against Borough President Maurice E. Connolly," Senator Karle said. "Both Governor Smith and Mr. Connolly have endeavored to steal from me the credit for pushing through the grade-crossing legislation at the last session of the Legislature. The people, however, are not being fooled and will show that they are not an election day.

"The divisions in the Queens Democracy will benefit me on election day. Then it must be remembered that there are nearly 50,000 new voters in Queens and most of these are Republican. They have no sympathy with the old regime in Queens. In fact, they have very much of the opinion that there must be a drastic cleaning out at Borough Hall for effective administration. There are subordinates in those offices who have been there since consolidation and a majority of them have been there since President Connolly took office fourteen years ago. The next element in the borough say it is time that some new blood was injected into borough affairs. The prospects for Republican victory were never so bright as this year."

HYLAN TALKS VICE AND 5-CENT FARE

ATTACKS VAN NAMEE AGAIN

In Radio Speech He Brings Up New Haven Rates—"Not Against Tammany."

Mayor Hylan declared last night in his second speech broadcast from the Municipal station, WNYC, that the three questions to be decided in his contest with Senator Walker, Tammany candidate, were whether or not there should be a 5-cent or a 10-cent fare, whether municipal operation of the new subways should give relief from present disgraceful transit conditions and whether or not the city should remain clean of vice and gambling.

The Mayor repeated his assertion that Public Service Commissioner George R. Van Namee, former secretary to Governor Smith, had cast the deciding vote in the commission to increase the New Haven Railroad commutation rates and asserted that Mr. Van Namee was as "close" to Governor Smith that no one would believe that he would have voted for the increase if he believed it would have met with the Governor's disapproval.

Wants Transit Commission Ousted.

Mayor Hylan also criticised the Governor for permitting the members of the Transit Commission to remain in office and declared that the city with the present commission had no power to bring about any improvement in transit service.

Making a defense of his own transit policy, the Mayor said $86,000,000 for subway construction had been appropriated during his Administration, and that the city was now at work on the construction of an independent system.

Renews Attack on Van Namee.

The Mayor's speech follows:

Mr. Smith in a recent speech refused to accept responsibility for the acts of the men he appointed to the Public Service Commission. The 40 per cent. increase in rates on the New Haven Railroad was made possible by a deciding vote cast by George R. Van Namee, former secretary to Governor Smith and appointed by him to the Public Service Commission.

Mr. Smith laments that though the Public Service Commissioners are appointed by the Governor, they can only be removed by a two-thirds vote of the Legislature. This, however, does not mean that if the Governor had the power to remove the Public Service Commissioners, he would remove them for increasing carfares, gas, electric or telephone rates.

With no desire to embarrass the Governor, I would like to point out, nevertheless, that when he appointed Mr. Van Namee to the Public Service Commission the Governor had the power of removing Public Service Commissioners without any action by the Legislature. The Governor could be the judge of any Public Service Commissioner who did anything which in his opinion was contrary to the best interests of the people. It was not until 1921 that the power of removal was taken from the Governor and transferred to the Legislature in the reorganization of the Public Service Commission during Governor Miller's régime.

Van Namee's Record on Carfares.

In a single year, 1920, when Mr. Smith was Governor, Public Service Commissioner Van Namee approved some fifteen increases in carfares, ranging from 6 cents to 12 cents, many in defiance of franchise limitations, and quite a number over the protests of people in the up-State cities affected. If Governor Smith did not approve of such increases in carfares he could have proceeded to remove Mr. Van Namee. But as he did not file charges or remove Mr. Van Namee we are thrown back on the assumption that he approved of Mr. Van Namee's action. This assumption is fortified by the fact that Governor Smith reappointed Mr. Van Namee to the Public Service Commission, notwithstanding this gentleman's repeated voting for increased carfares.

In dismissing the reference to the 40 per cent. New Haven increases Mr. Smith explains: "Why, bless your soul, I don't know a thing about it. The only question in my mind is: Is the decision right, not is it popular." So Mr. Smith admits he was not interested in what his Public Service Commissioners were doing to the people of the cities throughout the State. Of course, there may be a very grave question as to whether such an official attitude is the proper one in the circumstances. But as I am not running for Governor and as Mr. Smith seems to be running for Mayor, I shall confine myself as to how such an attitude would affect the City of New York.

Walker and Increased Fares.

Mr. Walker is Mr. Smith's candidate for Mayor. It is the same Mr. Walker who was formerly an officer and director of the New York & Brooklyn Railroad Company. Mr. Smith is willing to assume full responsibility for Mr. Walker as Mayor. It may be reasonably stated, therefore, that Mr. Walker will do exactly as Mr. Smith directs. That means that there will be an increased carfare within a very short time, taking $16 to $30 a year extra out of every car rider's pocket. If the people rise up and complain, Mr. Walker will doubtless say, "I determined that such a decision was right, even though it was not popular." And Mr. Smith may be depended upon to say: "Why, bless your soul, I don't know a thing about it." There is nobody being fooled by Mr. Walker's declarations, accompanied by offers of his right arm as a sacrifice, that he will not increase carfares.

Discussing the transit question, Mayor Hylan insisted the City Administration had absolutely no power to compel improved service on the subways, elevated lines and surface cars, and that this power was vested in the Transit Company. He twitted Governor Smith with permitting the Transit Commission to remain in office although he had power to remove it.

"Of course," he said, "we know that both Mr. Smith and Mr. Walker are humorists, who, if hard pressed, would solemnly promise subway stations at back yards and front doors—depending upon the size of the audiences they may address."

Denies Disloyalty to Smith.

After citing many figures to show what the City Administration has done to construct new subways since it received power to do so, Mayor Hylan answered Governor Smith's disloyalty charge as follows:

That Syracuse Convention of 1922 and its developments, Mr. Smith regards as something with which he can successfully belabor me. He maintains that he received no support from me and no support from Mr. Hearst. Therefore, his nomination and subsequent election were in no way contributed to by either.

After Smith's nomination had been decided upon, Charles F. Murphy, the late lamented and respected leader of Tammany Hall, asked if I would again request, as I had done in 1918, Mr. Hearst to support the Democratic State ticket, as the platform pledges were in accordance with Mr. Hearst's views and the views of the people.

When Mr. Smith's status is returned hurriedly to New York he fails to mention that it was Mr. Murphy who urged that no time be lost in soliciting Mr. Hearst's aid. And what did Mr. Hearst do? He promptly complied with Mr. Murphy's request by directing the editor of The New York American to support the Democratic ticket. Mr. Hearst's directions to his editor, which appeared in The Sunday American of Oct. 1, 1922, begin with this statement: "I wish you would kindly support with complete sincerity the Democratic ticket." And the Hearst papers gave that support.

Quotes Murphy on Hearst.

In a letter of appreciation to Mr. Hearst for his assistance given to the Democratic ticket, I paid a tribute to Mr. Smith. I do not recall any spoken or written word of gratitude from Mr. Smith. But I do recall the statement made by Charles F. Murphy, the leader of Tammany Hall, after Mr. Smith's election. This is what Mr. Murphy said:

"The gratitude of the democracy of the State is due to Mr. Hearst for his hearty and loyal support.

"Appreciation is also due to the great body of independents to whom the candidacy of Governor Smith appealed. It is also due to the public-spirited Republicans who put civic duty above partisanship by supporting the Democratic candidate.

"The Democracy of the State will long remember Mayor Hylan's sincere devotion to Democratic ideals and his insistence upon their application. He has worked earnestly and constantly to promote the happiness, comfort and welfare of the people. His has been a substantial contribution to the great Democratic victory of 1922."

Despite these statements, Mr. Smith may still entertain doubts as to Mr. Murphy's, Mr. Hearst's and my own participation in his successful election of 1922.

Mayor Hylan then attacked Governor Smith for a statement in his Prospect Hall speech that he had received a message that the American War Veterans League had promised to stand by the Governor "until hell freezes over," and quoted a letter from Warren S. Fisher, national commander of the United American War Veterans, repudiating any such message.

"Perhaps Mr. Smith will be more cautious in the future," said the Mayor, "when information is shipped to him as he is preparing to address the people of New York on the desirability of having an attorney for putrid meat dealers occupy the office of Mayor."

Not Against Tammany.

I am not against the Tammany organization, neither the rank and file nor the district leaders. Nor do I believe they are against me. I am against George Olvany, who picked the minority candidate and who is attempting to deliver the organization and the city to the traction companies. I am against George Olvany, Sheriff Flynn, Governor Smith, Herbert Swope of The New York World, Tom Chadbourne of the B. M. T., the increased fare lawyer, and Frank Farrell. I am against this clique because they are attempting to pawn the Tammany organization and the good, honest Democrats for an increased carfare and a wide-open town. The district leaders of the Tammany organization are nearly all known to me personally. They do not want a wide-open town and they do not want an increased carfare.

The fight is not my personal fight. It is a fight which affects all the people. A crisis has arrived in the history of our municipal government. Whether that crisis shall be successfully passed through is dependent upon the answer which will be made to these three questions:

1. Shall the five-cent fare be preserved or a ten-cent fare put into effect?

2. Shall the construction of the new city subways be continued so that their municipal ownership and operation may bring early relief from the present disgraceful transit conditions or shall this construction be stopped and only such parts of lines contracted for as will link up with the I. R. T. and the B. M. T. systems to keep the people in traction bondage forever?

3. Shall the city remain clean of vice and gambling or shall the underworld interests fling open the gates so that gambling hells may be openly conducted and flaunting vice parade itself upon our thoroughfares?

Mayor Hylan in a speech in the hall of the Loyal Order of Moose, 640 East 216th Street, Williamsbridge, charged Governor Smith, who, he said, ought to be minding the State's affairs at Albany, with trying to raise the religious issue in the campaign by his reference to the Klan.

"That is not fair or honorable on the part of the Governor," the Mayor said. "I am sure the people of the city will not be misled by him."

HYLAN LEAGUE IN ROCKAWAY.

Business Men to Work for Re-election of Mayor and Connolly.

The Hylan-Connolly Business Men's League of Rockaway was organized last night at a meeting in the Prince Hotel, Arverne, L. I. It had been planned to begin the organization with a committee of 100, but nearly 150 attended the meeting. Officers were elected and a fund totaling nearly $5,000 was raised to meet expenses incidental to the campaign for the re-election of Mayor Hylan and Borough President Connolly of Queens.

Andrew J. Kenny, President of the Rockaway Board of Trade, was elected President of the league. Four Vice Presidents were elected: A. R. Saron, President of the Parent-Teachers' Association of Far Rockaway; Henry Prince, President of the Arverne Hotel Owners' Association; Jacob Margolis, Chairman of the Arverne Boardwalk Committee; Nathan Kohlrieter, Vice President of the Arverne Board of Trade. Isaac Zaret, real estate operator of Edgemere, L. I., was made Treasurer. E. J. Bilger, President of the Edgemere Taxpayers' Association, was elected Secretary. Irving Prince, Chairman of the Publicity Committee of the Arverne Board of Trade, became Financial Secretary.

In urging all members of the organization to work for the re-election of Hylan and Connolly, Mr. Kenny said that the Hylan Administration had brought $46,000,000 worth of improvements to the Rockaways and that all party ties should be disregarded in an effort to re-elect the two.

MUSSOLINI THANKS SMITH.

Sends Him His Photograph in Return for One of the Governor.

Benito Mussolini, Prime Minister of Italy, has sent an autographed photograph to Governor Alfred E. Smith through Vincent C. Pepe, a real estate man, of 40 Washington Square South, according to a letter received yesterday by The New York Times from Mr. Pepe in Italy. The photograph was in return for one of Governor Smith which Mr. Pepe presented to Premier Mussolini with a letter of greeting from the Governor.

Mr. Pepe wrote that Mussolini seemed pleased at receiving the photograph of Governor Smith and remarked, "He looks like a Roman, and he must be a man with a punch."

In a letter to the Governor, which will be brought to him by Mr. Pepe, Mussolini expressed thanks for the greeting from the Governor and sent his "best regards" in return.

Hylan Poses as Engineer on Old Train, Trucked to City Hall as a Movie Stunt

A procession of auto trucks bearing the old De Witt Clinton and the coaches that composed the first train to make the run between Albany and New York halted yesterday in front of the City Hall. In the coaches were persons appropriately costumed. A sign at the front proclaimed the news that this was "National Railroad Man's Week." A sign at the other end advertised a movie that is soon to adorn the screen.

A crowd gathered. Pretty soon the Mayor, who used to be a railroad man himself, came down the City Hall steps. He was without a hat. There were reports in the City Hall that the Mayor had not known a motion picture corporation was back of the stunt. Others said the Mayor knew all about it.

Mr. Hylan climbed up the first truck and took the throttle of the De Witt Clinton. He called for a cap and donned it. To the imaginative, time turned backward in its flight and one glimpsed the picture of a sturdy engineer at the throttle of an old-time B. R. T. train in Brooklyn. Such was the Mayor at one time, as he is fond of recalling.

He then walked beside the trucks, waving a hand at the costumed occupants. One man in a stunning creation in mulberry shouted "Hurrah for the Mayor." His companion in blue said, "Hurrah." The Mayor walked back toward the steps of City Hall.

A negro bearing a letter of introduction from Mayor James Rolph Jr. of San Francisco presented his credentials. The Mayor shook his hand. He posed on the steps for several pictures. There were more than 1,000 persons spread out from the steps by this time, and the Mayor embraced the opportunity for an impromptu speech.

"This man," he said, indicating the man from San Francisco, "is from the Mayor of San Francisco, who is now entering upon his fourth term. Mayor Rolph has served sixteen years, and New York City and San Francisco are the only cities which still have the five-cent fare. They have been trying to get Mayor Rolph out, just as they are trying to get me out, because I know about their plans to increase the fares.

"Mayor Rolph is a Republican, but he is a good man and Mayor. He is standing for the people. I am a Democrat, and I have fought seven years for the people.

"There is a gang down there," said the Mayor, waving in the direction of Wall Street, "that is out to get millions more a year in fares. It is not a question of whether you are willing to pay millions more a year in fares or not. If you vote for Walker you must be willing to pay these extra millions. If you do not want to pay them, vote for me. Personally I think you'd rather put the $16 or $20 a year you would have to pay under an increased fare into a new suit of clothes or something for the house."

The Mayor asked the crowd if they didn't think so too. There were shouts of affirmation. The Mayor returned to his office and the train on the trucks moved off.

APPEALS TO POLICE TO END 'HYLANISM'

REFERS TO A BLACKLIST

Letter to Members of Force Urges Vote for Walker, Who Aided Increase Pay Bill.

An appeal to save the Police Department from four years more of "Hylanism," was issued yesterday by James E. Dillon, retired Chief Inspector of the department, who is now head of a detective agency at 44 Whitehall Street. In a letter sent to retired policemen and other citizens, Mr. Dillon said:

"If ever there was an opportunity for policemen to aid in driving out of the Police Department, forever, the favoritism, the revenge, the hypocrisy and the bunk that have characterized the last few years at 240 Centre Street, that opportunity is presented when Mayor John F. Hylan tries to force a third term upon the democracy. The verdict is inevitable. That every policeman, as citizen and voter, will do his duty in this respect is apparent from the sentiment expressed in every precinct throughout the city. No one better than the average policeman knows the terrible menace of Hylanism to our city. He has seen it at first hand in conditions that were never dreamed of since the Police Department was organized.

"As a member of the force you are aware to what extent truth has been suppressed or camouflaged to meet the indignation of citizens. You know how a tidal wave of petty, and often unwarranted complaints, forced through a detestable overlapping shoo-fly system and rising to an average of three hundred a week has been used as a blind to cover schemes of a blundering administration. You have read the published boast of a commissioner, once a patrolman, that in 1924 there were 6,117 charges, against 2,351 when he assumed office. The year 1925 shows even a greater number of complaints. His boast that in a much larger per cent. of cases actual fines were imposed than by his predecessor fits in with the repeated insults gratuitously given by Hylan to decent representatives of policemen at City Hall.

"The amazing spectacle of the passing over of nearly two score of lieutenants, sergeants and patrolmen on eligible lists for promotion and the establishment of a blacklist of a commissioner who once headed a police organization has been in line with the policy that requires every policeman to carry his heavy uniform miles from distant precincts to one official and lose from two hours to a day for inspection. Whether working in the traffics, the precincts or the bureaus, you have seen the havoc of the Hylan policy.

"If you want the Police Department saved from Hylanism then, for God's sake, see to it that your own vote and the votes of the members of your family are cast for James J. Walker, who as Senator, gave you and those who represent you every courtesy and voted for better conditions for you and your loved ones. Senator Walker voted for your $2,500 salary bill which was vetoed in 1921 and 1922 by Hylan. Tell your relatives and your personal friends the true facts about Hylan which have caused our Governor to brand him an enemy of decent Government. Hand to each member of your family one of the enclosed cards as a reminder of one of your real friends. It is Hylan's sworn hour and the breaking of dawn for thousands of decent policemen who have done their duty by the people under the most trying conditions."

SERVICE MEN COMPLAIN.

Assert Agreement to Work for Hylan Was Not Carried Out.

Three young men, who said they represented two score disabled veterans, said yesterday they had not been treated properly at the Hylan headquarters in the Hotel Roosevelt. They said they were Nathan Miller of 22 West 122d Street, formerly of Company L, 306th Infantry; Charles Ziasman, 27 St. Mark's Place, former corporal in the Thirtieth Infantry, Third Division; Max Stern, 302 Stanton Street, ance of Company A, 128th Infantry.

Miller said that on Thursday he attended a meeting at the Hylan headquarters and at that meeting it was decided to enlist the services of former service men, and especially disabled veterans, for the Hylan cause. He said that Francis J. Lowe, in charge of the veterans' campaign organization, authorized him to get 100 disabled men to work during the campaign. Miller said he was told they would pay the workers $5 a day. He said he recruited forty men.

Their grievance, he said, was that they were kept waiting all day Friday, Saturday morning and all of Monday and were not put to work. He protested, he said, that they had not only received no pay, but that had coffee and sandwiches not been provided.

Judge Cohalan, in charge of the Hylan campaign, said that if the veterans had been engaged to pass workers or had been kept waiting orders for three days it was done without knowledge of those in charge of headquarters or with their consent. Lowe, he said, had come to him and told him that former service men wanted to work for Hylan for what he had done for them. Lowe asked for space in a store at the hotel so that the veterans would have a headquarters. Lowe said that it would be necessary to pay these men for their workers $5 a day and this was agreed upon, Judge Cohalan said. All the rest was news to him, he said.

WALKER PROMISES ACTION, NOT WORDS

Won't Take Him Seven and a Half Years to Get Started, He Asserts.

NOT ALL 'RIP VAN WINKLES'

Tells Washington Heights Audience of Housing Relief—Addresses Four Night Meetings.

Senator James J. Walker, Tammany candidate for Mayor, told Democrats at four meetings in Manhattan last evening that it would not take him seven and a half years to get into action in building new subways if he were elected Mayor, and that not all public officials were of the "Rip Van Winkle type."

Senator Walker, who was accompanied by Major Gen. Charles W. Berry, candidate for Controller, and Justice Joseph V. McKee, spoke at Public School 17, 328 West Forty-eighth Street, in the Fifth Assembly District, of which Thomas J. McManus is leader; at the Cherokee Club, 334 East Seventy-ninth Street, in the Sixteenth District; at the Minqua Club of the Twenty-third District, and at the rooms of the Joseph J. McCormick Association of the Twenty-second District, 423 West 156th Street.

In his speech at the Minqua Club, Senator Walker said:

"It was with a great deal of pleasure that I accepted your invitation to address this meeting tonight. I am, as every other New Yorker is, particularly interested in the Washington Heights section. Had it not been for the great and continuous growth of Washington Heights, the 'Borough of Manhattan' would not have been able to pay the great compliment it did with its magnificent vote to Alfred E. Smith one year ago.

Cites Passage of Rent Laws.

"Sixteen years ago when I first went to the Legislature, Washington Heights did not contain more than 10 per cent. of its present great population. While I had had many occasions to visit and pass through this section, it was not until 1919 that I fully appreciated the phenomenal growth of this portion of our city. In that year I was the Democratic leader in the State Senate, and the cry that arose from Washington Heights clamoring the necessity of housing relief could not be mistaken. Nevertheless, in spite of this the Republican majority of the Legislature of 1919 allowed the regular session to adjourn without taking any action. I am sure you have not forgotten that if it were not for the proclamation of Governor Smith, who reconvened the Legislature in extraordinary session during the late Summer and forced the passage of the emergency rent laws, many a family on Washington Heights would have been dispossessed and forced into the streets on Oct. 1 of that year.

"Is it further necessary to remind you now that in this, as in every other progressive campaign enunciated or initiated by Alfred E. Smith, I led the forces in the Legislature which upheld his hands.

"That same incentive which actuated us to make these laws to keep you in your homes will be continued with a determination to provide for you the proper police protection after Jan. 1, which will again make you safe and secure in your own homes.

"And while I am satisfied that the demagogue or the seeker for votes will never get much of a hearing with loose talk in this intelligent community, haven't you the right to be satisfied in your own minds that the same public men who have been the protectors of the home will never permit vice to be brought to your front doors?

"The protection of the health and comfort of the people of this city is an obligation on its administration, and I know of no better way of accomplishing that objective than by providing an adequate and proper system of transportation to and from the home. It shall be my purpose as Mayor of the City of New York, with the greatest possible expedition, to furnish the best transit system that the resources of the city can provide.

No Improvements Since 1906.

"The growth of Washington Heights was based on the provision of transit facilities. You have the same facilities now that you had in 1906 when Washington Heights started to grow, and since those facilities were provided its population has increased ten-fold.

"Your transit needs are more desperate than those of any other community in the city. They have been neglected since 1906, but I pledge you that there will not be a single day of delay in the expansion of the transit facilities that you require after Jan. 1. In other words, my friends, it won't take me seven and a half years to get into action.

"Don't be misled into the belief that all public servants are of the Rip Van Winkle type. Look at my colleague on the ticket, the distinguished Borough President, Mr. Julius Miller. With the characteristic modesty of a good public servant he went to work with a will and determination that resulted in what appeared to be, almost overnight, the wonderful improvement of Riverside Drive. That is my idea of public servant. And this capable official, with my encouragement and support, will expedite in the same manner the plans which have already been adopted for the extension of Riverside Drive across Dyckman Street and along the Inwood Hill riverfront, as well as in the work of straightening out the Drive by the projection of the present viaduct over 158th Street.

"By joint action of the Legislature of this State with the Legislature of New Jersey it will be possible to have Washington Heights one of the termini of the greatest bridge that has ever been constructed in the western hemisphere. This bridge will have its portal in the very centre of Washington Heights. I pledge you my hearty cooperation in this great enterprise.

"You will get adequate transit facilities if I am Mayor. You will get a five-cent fare. And the proof of that statement is found in my legislative record, where I was the leader against all attempts to increase the fare and was the introducer of all legislation that had for its purpose the protection of the five-cent fare."

Senator Walker and his associates will speak tonight in Arcadia Hall, Halsey Street and Broadway, Brooklyn. Mrs. Minnie J. Abel, the first woman district leader in Brooklyn to declare for Senator Walker, will be among the speakers. Dr. J. Richard Sevin, a close friend of John F. McCooey, Brooklyn Democratic leader and backer of Mayor Hylan, will preside.

BOOK FOREIGN SOCIALISTS.

Local Party to Be Aided in Campaign by Laborite Speakers.

A number of foreign Socialists and Laborites will speak in New York City during September and October, in aid of the Socialist Party's municipal campaign, Julius Gerber, Socialist campaign manager, said yesterday. Among the visitors who will speak in furtherance of the Socialists' aim to popularize the idea of an American labor party, will be two members of the former British Labor Cabinet, Arthur Henderson, who was Secretary for Home Affairs, and John Wheatley, who was Minister of Health.

ALLIANCE FOR CONNOLLY.

German Organization in Queens Fails to Endorse Hylan.

The Citizens Alliance for Good Government, a Queens German organization which is believed to wield a strong political influence in that borough, came out for Borough President Maurice E. Connolly yesterday, but failed to endorse Mayor Hylan for renomination or re-election. A resolution endorsing Mr. Connolly, who is a candidate for renomination in the Democratic primaries, was adopted at a meeting Sunday in Turn Hall, 380 Ninth Avenue, Long Island City. The refusal to endorse the Mayor was said to have been a great disappointment to the latter's supporters.

The resolution pledging the organization to support Mr. Connolly, which was made public, was signed by Adam Beyer, President, and John Selmer, Secretary.

CRAIG BRANDS HYLAN FRAUD IN FARE ISSUE

his retirement on a pension this year. This bill subsequently passed and received Hylan's approval. Under it he will receive a pension of about $6,000 per year for life; which is not so bad, considering that he is not prohibited from practicing law.

Like everything connected with Hylan, this bill was a fake. It was dressed up as a benefit for the poor overworked city employes, by amending the retirement law so that these employes could retire on a pension when they became fifty-five years of age, without having to wait until they were sixty. Hylan could not wait until he is sixty, because he would be out of office without retirement on a pension; therefore, he had to have the age shortened to fifty-five years which he believed would enable him to get a pension from the city after he has been driven out of office in November, by making his application for a pension immediately after election.

The Sinnotts will not permit Hylan to retire unless he is forced to do so. It would be a falsehood to duty to the public if I failed to do my part to protect the city against Hylanism. His claims for support are demonstrably unfounded. He relies upon his craft as a faker; but his record shows him to be a pretentious imposter.

Takes Up Water Supply.

In a political speech, illegally broadcast through WNYC Friday night, among other things he claimed credit for having increased the water supply of New York City to a billion gallons a day. What is the fact? The fact is that the Catskill water supply, which is the increase Hylan claims credit for, was an undertaking begun in the administration of Mayor McClellan, more than twenty years ago, when Hylan was looking for a job as a City Magistrate. It was carried out by a bond created for that purpose by the legislature and known as the Board of Water Supply, which Hylan, when he became Mayor, proceed to abolish; but changed his mind when he found that he could appoint one of the Sinnotts as a member at $12,000 per year.

The construction work for the Catskill water supply has been going on for more than twenty years. The Catskill water was turned on in 1917 when Mayor Mitchel held a celebration of it in Central Park; which was before the days when Barondess controlled the bandstand on the Mall.

This is the great increase in the water supply for which Hylan claims credit! Just what Hylan figures in it is that when it came to putting up wire fences along ninety miles of the Catskill aqueducts Sinnott & Canty got the paupers' bond that the fence contractor had to furnish to the various towns along the line to protect the town against any increased charges which might arise through the bond becoming a public charge. Hylan's claim for the credit of this achievement, should stand him as a political pauper's resting place. He deserves no more.

In the same speech, illegally broadcast over the municipal radio, Hylan claimed credit for opposing the last rate five points this year. Hylan had as little to do with that as he did with the Catskill water supply. He was in Palm Beach when it occurred.

The very words in which Hylan in his Seven Years of Himself claims credit for this tax reduction are stolen. They are stolen from a public statement made by me as controller in announcing the tax reduction. The Controller is required to estimate the amount that the city will receive during the year in its general fund from the numerous sources of revenue, such as marriage license fees, mortgage taxes, dock rents, interest, income taxes, and a great variety of other things. This must be done before the tax rate is fixed, because whatever the Controller estimates the city will receive in this way goes to reduce the amount that must be raised by taxation. This estimate depends upon the personal judgment of the Controller. I did not seek the aid of Mayor Hylan. I did not consider it worth the cost of a telephone call to Palm Beach. The amount that I estimated the city would receive during the year was $73,592,506. This estimate was made on Feb. 19, 1925. It has been justified by subsequent events. It reduced the tax rate five points. Hylan now claims he reduced the tax rate. It is a baseless claim, desperately made by a man who has nothing but pretenses to deceive the people in the hope of getting four years more with the Sinnotts and Hirshfield.

Calls Fare Issue Pretense.

But the most unfounded pretense of Hylan is that he has saved the five-cent fare. The five-cent fare is provided in the dual subway contracts made in 1913 for new subways. Hylan opposed that contract—as he himself says. The first application for an increased fare on the subways was made by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company on Dec. 31, 1918. It was signed by Theodore P. Shonts, President. He asked for an eight-cent fare. At the same time he submitted an application for an eight-cent fare on the surface lines controlled by the New York Railways Company, of which Shonts was President. Mr. Shonts had previously taken the matter up privately with Hylan. He received a request from Hylan to come to City Hall. He did so. I now quote the sworn testimony of Shonts, given a short time before he died, when he knew death was ahead of him:

"The Mayor took me into his office and a gentleman followed me in, to whom the Mayor introduced me. He said: 'I want you to know Mr. MacFarland of Boston. This gentleman wants to help you get a seven-cent fare for your various lines, and I think under certain conditions he can succeed. * * * He represents Mr. Hearst's interests in New England. He is a big lawyer in New England.'"

Both Shonts and MacFarland are dead. MacFarland, before his death, corroborated Shonts in a public statement in the New York American. Hylan sent MacFarland to see me to obtain some encouragement in his increased fare undertaking, which I declined to give. MacFarland succeeded however, to fasten on the increased fare on the people of Boston, where for several years they have been paying ten cents, with no prospect of relief.

Says Board May Change Fare.

The Interborough and New York Railways applications for an increased fare were made therefore under the friendly attitude of Mayor Hylan. Those applications were the forerunner of others to follow and the action taken on them would serve as a precedent to fix the policy of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. That board has power to consent to a modification of the five cent provision in the dual subway contracts at any time so it may read seven or eight cents or any other higher rate. It cannot fix a lower rate, because that requires the consent of the companies. That power still exists, and can only be taken away by a change in the law which will strip the Board of Estimate of that power.

I made it my business to see that the increased fare movement of Messrs. Shonts, MacFarland and Hylan was put to death in short order and past resurrection. I prepared a statement of policy for the Board of Estimate to follow. It was outlined and discussed in a meeting of all the members of that board on Jan. 3, 1919. It was to the effect that the contracts were made to be kept; that harsh terms had been imposed upon the City; that the fare should not be increased; and that if the contract were so unprofitable as represented by the company, it could be surrendered; and that, therefore, the application should be denied.

This recommendation was unanimously agreed to by the Board, which adopted resolutions drawn by me denying the application of the Interborough and New York Railways.

The 5-cent fare has been maintained, not by Hylan, but in spite of Hylan.

Hylan's position on increased fares is proved in other ways. Last March I introduced a bill in the Municipal Assembly to forbid the Board of Estimate from considering any resolution for an increased fare unless the people had first passed upon the question on a referendum and approved such a course.

If Hylan had been honestly and truly desirous of protecting the people against an increased fare, he would have jumped at the chance to vote for my bill. Hylan, however, fought bitterly to defeat this wholesome measure. Why did he do it, if he is honestly for the five-cent fare? He was unwilling to have the bill come to a vote. He was even unwilling to let the people have a chance to consider the bill. After much maneuvering, Hylan finally succeeded in locking this bill up in committee until after election. In other words, he killed the bill. That was a five-cent fare bill. It was Hylan that killed it.

The five-cent fare has been preserved by other people. Hylan, however, has proclaimed from the housetops that every one is against the five-cent fare except him. This is the record and the kind and character of man that now seeks four years more for himself and the Sinnotts and Hirshfield. In other words, what Hylan is trying to do is to steal a ride on the five-cent fare.

Does the "p" stand for "Fakir" or for "Finish"? The answer is that it stands for both.

Shall Hylan go out with a pension or with a push?

About the only accomplishment that Hylan has not claimed credit for is the discovery of America. If Hylan should be re-elected it may be expected that the name of Columbus Circle will be changed to Hylan Circle, and that the school histories will be rewritten by David Hirshfeld so as to set forth that in 1492 Hylan discovered America.

To reward Hylan with a renomination would be like conferring a crown of glory upon Dr. Cook or putting Rosie's picture on Liberty bonds.

LYONS IN A CLASH WITH WATERMAN

Denies Assertion That He Was the First Republican to Talk to Waterman About Running.

CANDIDATE GETS A SHOVEL

Carries Reminder of His Subway Slogan Around in a Tour of Brooklyn.

Frank D. Waterman and John J. Lyons, rival candidates for the Republican nomination for Mayor, clashed last night at the clubhouse of the Republican organization of the Second Brooklyn Assembly District, 1,634 East Fourteenth Street. Mr. Waterman, choice of the organization leaders, had finished his speech and was on his way out when Mr. Lyons entered. Mr. Waterman returned and listened to Mr. Lyons's speech.

Mr. Lyons in his speech declared that Mr. Waterman was a candidate for advertising and, comparing his rival's candidacy to Sir Thomas Lipton's quest for the America's Cup, intimated that he did not believe that Mr. Waterman wanted to win.

At the end of the speech Mr. Waterman rose and asked Mr. Lyons if he had ever met him before.

"Yes, about six or eight months ago," Mr. Lyons replied.

"I want you to know," said Mr. Waterman, addressing the audience, "that Mr. Lyons was the first Republican to talk to me about running for Mayor. He came to me and said at that time that he would abandon his own Mayoralty aspirations if I were a candidate."

"That's a lie," shouted Mr. Lyons.

"Oh, no, it isn't, and you know it," retorted Mr. Waterman.

Livingston Questions Lyons.

Jacob A. Livingston, Brooklyn Republican leader, who accompanied Mr. Waterman on a visit to four Brooklyn Republican clubs, asked Mr. Lyons if Jack Lewis, a Democrat and a Tammany man, was not his campaign manager, and if Arthur B. Murtha, who opposed President Coolidge, had a prominent part in the management of his campaign.

Mr. Lyons replied that Mr. Lewis, his campaign manager, was a Democrat, and that Mr. Murtha was a Republican and had voted for President Coolidge, although he had supported Senator Johnson of California before President Coolidge was nominated.

The audience enjoyed the interchange and broke up laughing. Just as everybody was leaving the hall, Ralph Steinberg, a Lyons supporter, who was Senator Johnson's city campaign manager last year, went up to Mr. Waterman and said:

"Mr. Waterman, in case Mr. Lyons should win the Republican primaries, would you support him for election?"

Before Mr. Waterman could reply, a Brooklyn newspaper man resented this question, and in the argument that followed, blows were exchanged. Mr. Steinberg was slapped in the face and the newspaper man was hit on the nose.

The contestants were parted, and the Lyons party entered their automobiles and drove away. Before leaving, Mr. Lyons said he had intended to characterize Mr. Waterman's assertion that he had promised to support him as a "mistake."

Lyons Assails Waterman.

The assertion that Mr. Waterman would not win the primary election but would get a lot of advertising out of his candidacy was made by Mr. Lyons in a speech at the Republican Club of the Second Brooklyn Assembly District, 1,634 East Fourteenth Street.

"Mr. Waterman's candidacy reminds me of Sir Thomas Lipton's quest for the America's cup," Mr. Lyons said. "Sir Tom owns besides his racing yachts, Lipton's Tea, a very good tea and a well advertised tea. There always has been a sneaking doubt in my mind as to whether Sir Tom really was in earnest about winning the cup as to do so would close a medium of advertising for him.

"It strikes me that it may have been taking Mr. Waterman too seriously and that he, like Sir Tom, is laughing up his sleeve at the amount of free advertising he is getting and is about to receive from his selection by the party dictators to run in the Mayoralty race at the expense of the Grand Old Party. I can picture Mr. Waterman and his director chasing up to advertising the checks that he will write with his Waterman pen for this campaign."

Mr. Waterman spoke at four Brooklyn meetings last night, and repeated his promise to start digging subways immediately if he should be elected Mayor. Mr. Waterman decored Mayor Hylan and Tammany had been "great promisers but poor performers" on the subway question, and expressed confidence that the people would resent their failure to give any transit relief.

Mr. Waterman, who was accompanied by Jacob S. Livingston, the Brooklyn Republican leader, spoke at a joint meeting of the organization Republicans of the Eighteenth and Twenty-first Districts at 2,427 Church Avenue, at 317 Ovington Street in the Ninth District, 6,729 Twentieth Avenue in the Sixteenth District, and at 1,634 East Fourteenth Street in the Second District. At the Church Avenue meeting he received the gift of a shovel, in remembrance of his "say it with shovels" campaign, and carried it with him to the other meetings.

Says Public Wants Subways Dug.

In his speech at this meeting Mr. Waterman said:

"I am glad to report to you that every sign points to the public being with us for subway digging and a business administration in the city for the next four years.

"We Republicans are united in every borough. Every day brings me increasing pledges of support from independent voters and from Democrats. These Independents and Democrats tell me they are determined to defeat not one member alone of the present Administration, but to vote them all out and elect our ticket from the bottom to the top.

"The public, I find, is not deceived by Tammany Hall's attacks on John F. Hylan, after having twice elected him Mayor and supported him in every act for seven and one-half years. Tammany Hall and Mr. Hylan were political bedfellows too long for Tammany Hall now to convince the public that it is sincere in charging him with being unfit and incompetent.

"I find the public has confidence that if I am elected Mayor I will dig subways. I have assurances from persons of every shade of politics of confidence in me to give the city a business administration. That is the only administration I could give. I am just a business man. If the people want me, they will have business in the City Hall as long as I am their Mayor."

In reply to a question at one meeting, Mr. Waterman denied the charge, made originally by Mayor Hylan two years ago, that there was any discrimination in employment by the Waterman firm on account of an applicant's religion. Mr. Waterman said that more than 65 per cent. of his firm's employes were other than Protestant. He added that the Catholics and Jews in his employ had united in a statement that there was no truth in the Mayor's charge. He also said that a cousin of his by marriage, with whom he had always been on the most friendly terms, was named Harry Levy. "That doesn't look as though I should be charged with anti-Semitism, does it?" he asked, receiving great applause.

COHALAN SEES PLOT TO STEAL PRIMARY

Says Hylan Will Carry Manhattan and Bronx Unless He Is Cheated Out of It.

Mayor Hylan will carry Manhattan and the Bronx "unless Tammany steals the primary," former Surrogate John P. Cohalan, the Mayor's Manhattan and Bronx campaign manager, declared yesterday after he had informed Newspaper reporters that the Hylan organization in those boroughs had been perfected down to each election district.

"That's what the gossip is in the Tammany clubhouses—that Tammany is going to steal the primaries in Manhattan and the Bronx," Judge Cohalan continued. "We warn them that they are not going to steal them."

Judge Cohalan also declared that he believed Governor Smith had injected a dangerous religious issue into the campaign by his charge that Mayor Hylan was in conference with "representatives of the Klan" during the last Democratic National Convention. He questioned George W. Olvany, leader of Tammany, and Senator James J. Walker, Tammany candidate for Mayor. His question of Judge Olvany follows:

"As a citizen of New York City who firmly believes in and cherishes the constitutional guarantees as to religious liberty, I ask you to inform the people of this city whether you, the leader of Tammany Hall, and your assistant, Mr. Hylan, approve of Governor Smith's action in coming to New York and injecting the religious issue into a primary contest between candidates for nomination as Mayor of this city?

"If you do, I demand that you say so. If you do not, I demand that you forthwith repudiate such action of the Governor.

"This is not a question that can be dodged or evaded by you. The people are entitled to an answer and demand it forthwith."

Judge Cohalan's question to Senator Walker was similar, and demanded that he, too, declare whether he believed in promoting racial and religious differences in New York City or repudiate the Governor's reference to the Klan.

"I think that Governor Smith has assured Mayor Hylan's renomination by bringing the religious issue into the primary fight," Judge Cohalan said. "I consider it the most unwise and most uncalled-for thing ever done in American politics for one member of the Catholic Church to call another member of the Catholic Church a Kid Kluxer for political purposes. For that reason I have asked these questions of Judge Olvany and Senator Walker, two other members of the Catholic Church."

NICHOLSON REMOVES A WALKER SUPPORTER

He Denies Assistant Corporation Counsel Howard's Charge That Politics Figured.

John P. Howard, for the last six years an Assistant Corporation Counsel, charged last night that Corporation Counsel George P. Nicholson had removed him from office during the day because he had been an active worker for the nomination of Senator James J. Walker, Tammany candidate for Mayor, in the Seventh Brooklyn Assembly District.

Mr. Howard, who was appointed by former Corporation Counsel William P. Burr, said that when he returned from a vacation yesterday he found a letter from Mr. Nicholson requesting him to send in his resignation before 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Mr. Howard said he had understood that he was "in bad" with the City Administration because of his activity for Senator Walker and refused to resign. He said he subsequently received another letter from Mr. Nicholson removing him.

The first letter, as made public by Mr. Howard, follows:

Aug. 31, 1925.

To John P. Howard, Assistant Corporation Counsel, Main Office.

Dear Sir:

I desire to have you send your resignation to me to take effect at the close of business today. Will you kindly have such resignation in my hands prior to 3 o'clock?

Very truly yours,
GEORGE P. NICHOLSON,
Corporation Counsel.

The second letter was as follows:

Aug. 31, 1925.

John P. Howard, Esq., Assistant Corporation Counsel, Main Office.

Dear Sir:

I communicated with you this morning, asking that your resignation as an Assistant Corporation Counsel be handed to me before 3 o'clock today. Up to the present time, 3:40, you have failed to comply with my request. In view of such I hereby remove you from office as an Assistant Corporation Counsel to take effect at the close of business today, Aug. 31, 1925.

Very truly yours,
GEORGE P. NICHOLSON,
Corporation Counsel.

Mr. Nicholson said last night at his home in the Hotel Belleclaire that his removal of Mr. Howard had been for "inefficiency" and "the good of the service," and that he did not know whether Mr. Howard was for Senator Walker or Mayor Hylan and did not care.

"I have contemplated getting rid of him for some time," Mr. Nicholson said. "Mayor Hylan saved him once. Recently I made up my mind to ask for his resignation. That is all there is to it."

INCOME TAX LISTS TO BE OPEN TODAY

Public Will Be Allowed to Inspect Payments and Newspapers to Print Amounts.

COURT'S RULING FOLLOWED

Inspection Permitted Daily for One Month and Three Days a Week Thereafter.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—The United States Supreme Court, having upheld the validity of publication of income tax payments tomorrow has been officially designated by the Treasury Department as the date when these lists will be open for public inspection.

Collectors throughout the country will open their lists at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. The amounts shown on the lists are the sums declared to be due by the taxpayers in their returns filed this year on income derived during the calendar year 1924, and may be subject to adjustments and revisions by subsequent audit of the returns or by the filing of amended returns by taxpayers.

This will be the second time that the income tax lists have been opened for publication. When they were made available for inspection last year the publication of names of taxpayers and the amounts due caused a sensation and many objections were expressed.

Under the arrangements now made by the Treasury Department, beginning tomorrow morning the lists will be open for public inspection during each working day for thirty days. The hours may be regulated by each Collector of Internal Revenue with a view to preventing undue interference with the official work of his office. Following this thirty-day period the lists must be open for public inspection at least three days a week, and during such days are to be available to the public at least three hours a day, these days and hours to be selected by each Collector.

Each collector is to designate an employe to supervise the inspection of the lists by the public. It will be his duty to see that the lists are not torn or mutilated, to prevent any person from removing them from the Collector's office, and to see that no one monopolizes the list to the exclusion of others.

Indiana Stars Won't Print Returns.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 31 (AP).—The Star League of Newspapers in Indiana, owned by John C. Shafer, Denver, Chicago and Indianapolis, announces that it will not publish income tax returns, because it is "a matter of prying into private affairs." Members of the league are the Muncie, Indianapolis and Terre Haute Stars.

The law permitting such publicity is "obnoxious, unjustified in the public mind," and The Star "will work in common with other Indiana newspapers to have it repealed," says the statement. "The Star cannot conceive that any person has the right, much less the desire, to ascertain the amount of income tax paid by his neighbor. Therefore it is not a matter of enterprise, rather a matter of prying into private affairs."

CHICAGO TAXPAYERS PAY SMALLER LEVIES

First List Published Shows Many Wrote Off Losses of Previous Years.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Tuesday, Sept. 1.—Income tax payments made by a hundred or more Chicagoans for 1925 and compared with their payments last year, are published this morning in The Tribune.

Analysis of these first figures indicates a vast decrease in some classes of return. It is regarded as attributable to the tendency of taxpayers in the higher brackets to avail themselves of various legal and permissible expedients for avoiding burdensome tax payments, including departmental rulings, which enable a citizen to write off certain losses retroactive as far back as 1914.

In 1924 William Wrigley paid, after the 25 per cent. reduction allowed by the new law, $836,565, a figure far above any other individual amount in the district. This year Mr. Wrigley paid $2,644.

Explanation is found, according to representatives of Mr. Wrigley, in the intricacies of the new revenue act, which enabled auditors to write off certain losses dating back as far as 1914.

Other comparisons reveal increases, although the basic tax rate was cut in half. But higher surtaxes remained about where the 25 per cent. cut for the previous year had left the rate.

Arthur L. Baker is a broker who is shown by the records to have had materially more taxable income in 1924 than in 1923. In the former his tax was $12,506. This year he pays $38,850. Edward N. Hurley, former head of the Shipping Board, experienced an even greater jump. Last year he paid $49,197. This year $136,951.

Arthur Reynolds, President of the Continental and Commercial National Bank, also paid more this year than last. The figures are $27,153 and $31,000. The record for Charles N. Markham, President of the Illinois Central Railroad, also shows an increase from $23,239 to $27,381.

Among real estate men there has been considerable interest in the firm of Krenn & Dato, which represents Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick in her extensive real estate transactions. The list shows that Edwin D. Krenn paid $14,841 last year and is charged $34,373 this year. The figures for his associate, Edward A. Dato, are $6,963 and $13,110.

Some of the most widely known men do not, because of business losses in some of their investments, owe the Government anything this year. This is true of John R. Thompson, President of the company bearing his name, and Charles W. Gray, general manager of the Yellow Cab Company. Charles V. Barrett, leader of the regular Republican forces in Cook County, pays only $58 this year.

That the market for Yellow Manufacturing stock may have had something to do with more than one of these cases was indicated by the return made by John Hertz, its President. Last year his tax was $169,257 and this year only $8,316. Mrs. Hertz's tax dropped from $202,326 to $5,215. State's Attorney Crowe took a drop from $11,109 to $73.

The largest individual tax found in the first list was that of Frank D. Stout, railroad and lumber man, who handed over $196,376 this year. Last year his tax was $41,405.

Among the lawyers, Silas H. Strawn was one of the topnotchers. His tax was $39,846, a slight increase over last year's.

The list of taxes as published is as follows:

Annenberg, Max (circulation manager, Chicago Tribune), paid in 1924, ($32,889); $37,391.
Bacon, Mrs. E. R., $2,725.

FIGHT ON TWO CANDIDATES.

Republicans Object to Metzger and Anthony on the Ticket.

Argument on the application of the Republican organization in Kings County for an injunction restraining the Board of Elections from printing the names of Henry J. Metzger and Paul D. Anthony on the primary ballot was put over until tomorrow by Justice William B. Carswell yesterday in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn. Attorney Thomas F. Peters, who sought the order, contends that the petitions of the two men contain the names of persons who are Socialists, Democrats and those who did not sign the petition.

Metzger lives at 501 East Fourteenth Street and is the anti-organization candidate for the Republican nomination for Assembly in the Twenty-first Assembly District. Anthony resides at 203 Avenue F, and is the anti-organization candidate for the Republican nomination in the Forty-fourth Aldermanic District, which is co-terminus with the Twenty-first Assembly District.

It was explained to Justice Carswell that somebody in the Board of Elections interpreted the court proceedings as an order to prevent it from doing anything in the matter and that no action had been taken by the board. In view of the fact that the board had done nothing there was nothing to restrain. The matter was adjourned so that the Board of Elections can take their regular action on the petitions of Metzger and Anthony, and then the Court can pass on the legality of its action.

EDUCATION A FACTOR IN CHINA'S PROBLEM

New Anti-Foreignism Partly a Product of Teaching of Western Ideas.

SOCIAL GULF IS RESENTED

Barring Natives and Offspring of Mixed Races From Clubs an Irritant.

SCHOOL CHANGE DEMANDED

Foreign Educators and Missionaries Sympathetic to Nationalistic Aspirations, Blamed by Traders.

By THOMAS F. MILLARD.

Special Correspondence THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SHANGHAI, July 29.—In regard to the existing situation in China and those phases of it that come under the general heading of "anti-foreignism" and new nationalism one thing is evident—whatever the Chinese now think about foreigners and about Western institutions, and by reflex about their own nation's position in the modern world, they have learned partly from foreigners. Therefore it is interesting and also important to inquire what part foreigners have taken in creating the conditions which now confront us.

The subject has several aspects, and it seems convenient to divide foreign influences in China into four headings, namely: (a) Educational, (b) Physical, (c) Ethical, (d) Commercial and Industrial.

Foreign educational influence in China, of course, comprehends the other divisions broadly, for it is only by education in some form that ideas penetrate the human mind and are applied to man's moral, physical and industrial life. But for discrimination what is termed education can be confined to established educational processes such as schools and the results which plainly can be seen to follow from those processes and from perceptions aroused by them.

Effects of Western Education.

What is now called "anti-foreignism" in China in the course of time has had two distinct forms. Almost from the time when the first white man landed on China's shores they were repelled by the Chinese. Chinese did not like the foreigners then, regarded them as inferior in civilization and culture and wanted nothing to do with them.

That real anti-foreignism was slow to die. It culminated in the disturbance known as the Boxer uprisings in 1900. That type of anti-foreignism was based primarily upon Chinese exclusiveness, self-sufficiency and national conceit. It persisted through many changes and forms, and in its final survival was carried on chiefly by appeals to ignorance and superstition. That real anti-foreignism opposed for nonsensical reasons the introduction of railways and foreign missions and schools. While it may be so that the old and genuine anti-foreignism still exists among the ignorant classes and in remote parts of the country, it now is dead as an active and formidable force and has no part in the new "anti-foreignism," except as it provides a deep-lying background.

The new "anti-foreignism" (to still call Chinese nationalism that) had its origin in foreign education. It is the creation of foreigners, who gave birth to it and have nourished it.

It might have been foreseen that by inducing the Chinese to send their children to America and Europe to be educated something of consequence was being started. (Indeed it was foreseen and its probable effects were feared in some quarters.) And from what is known of the motives of foreigners who persuaded conservative, elder Chinese that it would be a good thing to do it, it is plain that what was in mind was to begin a process of inculcating China with Western political and religious thought. It is inconceivable that Chinese boys and girls going to school in America and Europe, and especially in America and England, could fail to imbibe there much more than was in the textbooks they studied, and that they could fail to fall more or less under the influence of the political and social ideas and practices which surrounded them.

Also was unavoidable that foreign religious missionaries and foreign school teachers in China would carry in their teaching and in the contacts of their daily life among the Chinese the political and social concepts of the home countries. How could a course in American political science be taught in a school in China without putting a lot of new political ideas into the minds of the Chinese youths who attend the classes? And once these ideas were firmly implanted with hundreds of thousands of Chinese, how was it possible to prevent them from trying to turn them to account and to apply them to the political reconstruction of their own nation?

Divergent Schools of Thought.

Indeed, unless that outcome was intended and unless such an outcome was considered desirable by the Western nations, it is plain that it was a mistake ever to persuade the Chinese to send their sons and daughters to be educated abroad, and for the West to contribute hundreds of millions of dollars to implant our religion and political ideas and scientific knowledge in China. And to be quite frank, there is a school of foreign thought as applied to China and to the whole of Asia which does consider the entire effort of the Western nations to introduce Western education and science and sanitation into Asia as a colossal error, which in time will have results that menace and perhaps will subordinate white civilization.

Another thesis also is put forth by a school of thought in Western countries to the general effect that Western ideas and form of civilization are inferior, or at any rate are not superior, to Oriental culture and philosophy, and that in thrusting our notions and processes on Orientals we are undermining a civilization and a culture which has a rightful place in the world and which should be permitted to remain uncontaminated.

It is evident that those two schools of thought which deprecate the introduction of Western education and political ideas into Asia have their well-springs in two absolutely divergent motives. One motive is based on a purpose to hold in Asia the political and economic domination of the white nations and to oppose and prevent as far as is possible everything which contributes to undermine the white position. The other motive springs from a notion which ascribes to Oriental culture and philosophy some vague and extraordinary merits and values which must be respected and preserved at any costs to material progress.

Those opposing theses are the extremes of the question, and it becomes more apparent all the time that neither of them provides any practical way out of the existing difficulty.

There is only one way to enforce the old dominant white position in China. That way is to back it up with military force.

I believe there is no way at all to sustain the thesis of the West standing apart and permitting the ancient Chinese civilization and culture to stand. That ancient civilization has broken down completely, and it was not so much broken down by Western influence as it broke down under its own weakness and incompetence. In a sense it perished of dry rot.

The Program of New China.

Furthermore, it is not a part of the program of New China to sustain and restore that old civilization. The program of New China is to reorganize the nation on modern lines and to hold only those parts of the old civilization and culture which promise to be useful in the modern world. This is not to mean that pride of race and tradition have ceased to exist in China. It does exist in goodly measure, and in the flashes of patriotism so prevalent nowadays it crops now and then to the surface in admonitions of elder statesmen. In fact, there is an astounding revival of race and national consciousness. But it is in a new form, and on the whole its face is set toward modernization.

It may not be amiss to insert here some reflections of my own on those points. I cannot accept the thesis that in its entirety foreign influence has injured and impaired China. I believe that China has profited by it, and in any probable eventuation will continue to profit by it.

Unless this is true, the people of Europe who in the Middle Ages time and again beat back the Asiatic hordes were checking progress and ought to have been defeated; the frequent struggles between Europe and Asia ought to have turned in favor of Asia. Instead of Europe and America, and Asia should have been the directing and controlling force on earth in the last few centuries. On that hypothesis some malign influence must have hovered over the world when the advance of the white races began. And today we find that instead of the white man's portions of the earth struggling (as in the Middle Ages) to hold their position against a tremendous pressure from yellow and brown men, it is Asia that is trying to resist a complete and final subordination to white civilization.

One notices signs that the status of foreign schools in China will need to be altered to conform with ideas of New China or their usefulness may be curtailed and perhaps destroyed entirely. In a speech he made to Americans in Shanghai just before his departure, Dr. Jacob Gould Sherman, then retiring American Minister to China, mentioned this topic and warned American educators in China that it would not be possible to resist the desire and purpose of the Chinese to take entire charge of their educational system, which logically will bring all foreign schools in China under the control of the Chinese Government.

Dr. Schurman pointed out that foreign schools in the United States and private schools also must be under the general control of the States and the Federal Government, and we would not permit foreign schools in our country which obviously inject powerful political and other propaganda to remain outside our authority.

Foreign Educators Sympathetic.

Here again one sees the inevitable, provided of course that China remains an independent nation. And in this question is posed distinctly the divergence of attitudes of the foreign educational and business classes here. On the whole, foreign educators and religious missionaries are sympathetic to the nationalistic aspirations of New China. Having always tried to teach these ideas and to arouse these ambitions, why should they oppose their practical fruition? On the other hand, the foreign business elements blame the educators for stimulating the new nationalism and for encouraging in any way its current manifestations.

It is pertinent to mention some of the social influences which contribute to Chinese psychology toward foreigners. Chinese who were educated in America and Europe were not made conscious there of any wide social gulf between Westerners and Orientals; as a rule they are received on equal terms socially. But when those men and women return to China at once they are confronted by an attitude of a large foreign element which distinctly draws the color line in social contacts.

It is idle to pretend that among the white people here (and to some extent among the Chinese also) the fruits of mixed racial marriages do not have an inferior social status; often they are debarred from foreign clubs for no other reason. And it is almost a universal rule with foreign clubs in China that Chinese cannot become members and cannot even enter the clubs except on special occasions. Beyond doubt this attitude is an inheritance from British policy in India and the notion that British position there can be sustained only by preserving inviolate the superior place of the white man, although it gets more or less sympathy from Americans because of our color question at home.

Efforts to alter this condition (and from time to time far-seeing foreigners try to make a change) so far have failed, notwithstanding that every year it becomes plainer that not to admit Chinese in the foreign clubs is a cause of irritation to the relations of Chinese and foreigners, and also that it has perceptible effects on the political psychology of Chinese adverse to foreigners. To me the stock argument that to let down the bar to Chinese would result in their overwhelming the foreign clubs is rather nonsensical. It is likely that not many Chinese would want to join our clubs, and those who did join would seldom attend. In Japan and a few places in China the Orientals and foreigners mix freely in the clubs. Chinese can belong to clubs in America and Europe. But they cannot belong to foreign clubs in their own country.

In the foregoing I have discussed only those foreign influences in China which are separate from the policies and acts of foreign Governments, although some of the matters mentioned are inherited from governmental policies and indirectly are supported by those policies.

COMMISSION OF THREE NOW GOVERNS CANTON

Cadet Rule Causes Disorganization, However, the State Department Is Informed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Canton is now completely in the control of the Whampoa Cadets, and the civil administration is badly disorganized, according to a cable from Douglas Jenkins, Consul General at Canton, dated 6 P. M., Aug. 27, and received by the State Department today.

On Tuesday night and Wednesday, Aug. 25 and 26, there was occasional firing, but conditions were fairly quiet on the 27th. Hsu Chung-chi, leading Cantonese General is supporting the radicals, but his allegiance is doubtful. There is no indication of further fighting unless Cantonese troops in the outlying district attack.

The Government at Canton now consists of a Provisional Commission of three, General Hsu Chung-chi, Wang Chao-ming and General Chang, commander of the Whampoa Cadets.

The Consul at Amoy, Leroy Webber, cabled to the State Department yesterday that the situation was quiet, with the boycott weakening. He said that the presence of the United States warship Hart is no longer necessary there.

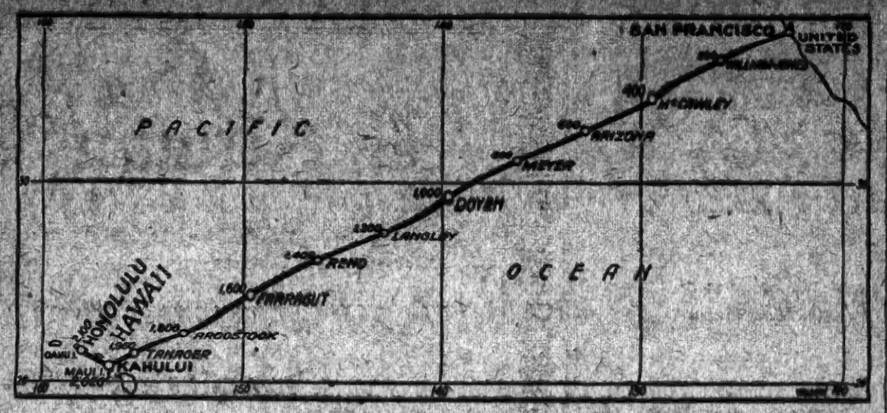
HARBIN, Aug. 31 (AP).—Dr. Harvey J. Howard, American eye specialist of the Peking Union Medical College, who was captured by Manchurian bandits on July 20 and held for ransom, is now in the hands of a group numbering probably less than a dozen men. They are encamped and in hiding near the Sungari River, closely followed by mounted militia.

This information reached Harbin today in a message from Roger S. Greene, general manager in China for the Rockefeller Foundation, who is at Fuchin, Manchuria, working to secure Dr. Howard's release.

According to Chinese who have arrived at Fuchin from the bandit area the brigands who captured Dr. Howard split into two bands when they crossed the Sungari River, fleeing from pursuing Chinese forces. The Chinese troops attacked one of these bands, consisting of nineteen men, on Aug. 25, and killed the chief. The man who brought this word to Fuchin witnessed the fight, Mr. Greene adds.

Chinese civil and military searching parties are combing both banks of the river. Better cooperation has been achieved by the authorities of the Manchurian provinces of Kirin and Heilungkiang, Mr. Greene indicates.

Humbert Power, an Austrian, who was captured by bandits recently near Harbin, has been released. A force of 1,000 Heilungkiang troops surrounded the bandits and compelled them to surrender.



ROUTE OF THE SAN FRANCISCO-HONOLULU FLIGHT.
Positions of the Navy Guard Ships Are Shown, 200 Miles Apart, Over the Course Which Is 2,100 Nautical Miles in Length, the Longest Ocean Flight Yet Attempted.

TWO NAVY PLANES FLYING TO HAWAII

planes this afternoon was perfect. The first plane to go into the air was the PN-9 No. 3, whose official starting time was recorded at 2:41:02 1-5. The plane of the flight commander, the PN-9 No. 1, followed at 2:53:08 4-5. Both made perfect take-offs on the very first attempt.

Watchers on San Pablo Bay saw a silver speck start down from Middshipman's Point, grow into the semblance of a hydroplane, leave the water smartly and cleanly and come roaring overhead. The flight to Hawaii was on.

At Crissy Field the PB-1, largest of all the navy seaplanes, is making tests to determine how long it would be until it, too, could start westward to Hawaii. Original plans called for the departure of the PB-1 along with the PN-9 planes, but repairs made it necessary to wait. Today the new motor was finally installed in the PB-1. The giant ship went aloft and stayed there for five hours. So pleased were officers with the showing that they announced that the PB-1, in all probability, will be allowed to make the flight on Wednesday.

Lieut. Commander John S. Rodgers is in command of the flight now in progress. He is first pilot on the flag plane, the PN-9 No. 1, and the first pilot of the other plane, the PN-9 No. 3, is Lieutenant Alan Snody.

The mother ship Gannet was anchored in San Pablo Bay for the start of the flight. Aboard her were Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics of the navy, and Captain Stanford E. Moses, commander of the aircraft squadrons of the battle fleet, who has been designated by the Navy Department as commander of the Hawaii flight project.

The take-off was unusual in that there were no cheering thousands to wish the fliers godspeed on their journey. Eagle boats, submarine chasers and Coast Guard cutters carefully patrolled San Pablo Bay to make sure that no boats were present to interfere with the long straightaway dash that the giant seaplanes must make upon the surface before they attain sufficient speed to rise in the air.

Army planes from Crissy Field dipped and circled about the giant navy amphibians before the flight began. When the big navy planes rose into the air the army planes fell in line behind them and acted as an escort until they were safely out to sea.

The official weather report, rushed to the fliers just before the great motors started whirring, reassured them with the message:

"There is no fog, and the lowest clouds are 1,500 feet up. There are light northwest and north winds to 300 miles out. At 450 miles out you are on the edge of the trades and at 500 yo uare well in the trades. Advise you to fly at altitudes of from 1,000 to 2,000 feet."

As regularly as the planes passed the guard ships tonight the ships reported their progress back to land. After he had been shown some of the bulletins, Captain Stanford E. Moses said that the flight planes were leaving the miles behind them in pleasing fashion.

"A successful finish seems a possibility," he said.

Honolulu Follows the Flight.

HONOLULU, Aug. 31.—Excitement reigns in Honolulu over the non-stop flight from San Francisco to Honolulu and tomorrow probably will be a public holiday.

The navy and army will bar the public from Ford Island, Pearl Harbor, where the planes are expected to land. Army and navy fliers, the families of officials, and reporters are the only lucky ones who will be permitted on the island. Scores of local aviators will fly to sea to escort the transpacific fliers.

Flight fans already are seated before a giant blackboard erected downtown to trace the fliers' progress.

Guard Ships Are Westbnd.

AIRPLANE CARRIER LANGLEY, Aug. 31 (AP).—The Langley, stationed 1,200 miles southwest of San Francisco, on the route of the flight to Honolulu, and all the other United States navy ships that are guarding the flight have been notified that the two PN-9 planes will take off at 2 o'clock this afternoon as scheduled. Official advices also have been received that the PE-1 will hop off Wednesday. All of the guard ships are on or near their stations.

Message From Wilbur.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (AP).—Secretary Wilbur sent this message today to the naval aviators, who are to attempt the non-stop flight from San Francisco to Hawaii:

"The Secretary of the Navy wishes you the best of success in your flight to Hawaii."

Paris-New York Plane in Flight.

BORDEAUX, France, Aug. 31 (AP).—Captain Francois Goli and Lieutenant Paul Tarascon, maimed French war veterans who plan to attempt shortly a transatlantic flight, tested their machine in a trial flight today from Paris to Istres, near Marseilles, and thence to Bordeaux. After the test both aviators said they were confident they would be able to fly from Paris to New York.

SCIENTIST DECLARES WOMAN IS INFERIOR

Physical Effort Depends on Intake of Oxygen, British Scientists Are Told by Dr. A. V. Hill.

Head of London Firm Tells Association of Great Losses Sustained Through Truck Delays.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—The inferiority of woman to man in athletics was one of the numerous subjects discussed today at a full meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science at Southampton. In an interesting address as President of the Physiological Section, Professor A. V. Hill of the University College, London, took as his theme the question of how a given effort could be maintained in violent exercise and how much of the effort depends on the intake of oxygen. Professor Hill, being an athlete himself, can claim to be an authority on the subject. He shared the Nobel Prize for medicine with a German professor in 1922. Basing his remarks on the known records, Professor Hill compared man's feats with women's in various fields. Woman's achievements, he said, worked out as follows: Running (for all but shortest races), 70 per cent. on maximum speed, but only 60 per cent. on energy expended; swimming, 84 to 85 per cent. maximum speed, 72 per cent. on bodily power of man of similar weight; jumping, high jump, 67 per cent; long jump, 81.5 per cent. Man's figure for comparison was taken at 100 and calculations were based on muscular fatigue. Man was the fastest at running, attained for about 200 yards, and woman for about 100 yards.

A man could not exhaust himself completely in a 200-yard race, the professor said, but a quarter-mile race, in a case of a first-class sprinter, was almost enough to produce complete inability to make any further effort. The oxygen used by the body was the measure of the amount of energy expended. One litre of oxygen consumed meant about five calories of energy liberated, which was enough to warm five litres of water one degree centigrade, or, expressed in mechanical energy, to raise about one ton seven feet in the air. When an oxygen deficit of about fifteen litres had been incurred, the body became incapable of further effort. In anything but the shortest races, a record-breaking athlete should finish with something near the maximum oxygen deficit, otherwise he had not employed all his available power.

Other points in the paper where a man can skate 100 miles with the same speed that another can run one mile it would require some minutes to produce by cycling a state of exhaustion easily attainable within one minute by running. The same parallel was applied to a horse running. Either the horse could not exhaust itself as rapidly as man, or could not be induced by the rider to go as hard as it ought. The horse of 150 years ago could run just as fast as its modern successors in racing.

London's traffic problem was another subject discussed. Lieut. Col. Tudsbery of the Ministry of Transport in a paper made the statement that one big London firm alone estimated it was losing £845 weekly owing to the delays caused to its motor lorries by traffic hold-ups in the streets of London. If these delays could be obviated, two lorries would be able to do the work which now took three.

Lord Montagu of Beaulieu pointed out in the discussion that followed that his firm is losing, roughly, £15,000 yearly, or interest on a capital sum of £250,000. He said the total cost in petrol and waste time to all users of motor vehicles must run into many millions yearly. He suggested that it would pay London firms to give large sums of money to the Ministry to assist in relieving congestion.

The question of birth control was raised in the economic section by Sargant Florence of Cambridge, who asked what was expected from the man in the street when a committee of churchmen, presided over by the Bishop of Winchester, utterly irresponsible towards the country's economic future, urged families of four or five.

The curve of population, said Mr. Florence, was shaping better, because birth control methods had been extended. He suggested further extensions, especially among the poorer classes.

Hypnotism as a cure for hysteria was the subject of a paper read by Dr. William Brown of Oxford University. He described relief in cases of war hysteria and the restoration of memory in amnesia cases by a wave of the hand.

LYAUTEY REPORTS TO FRENCH PREMIER

Public Is Greatly Interested in the Future of the Famous Governor of Morocco.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 31.—Marshal Lyautey returned to Paris this morning and after a warm greeting by his old friend, General Gouraud, at the station, called on Premier Painlevé to report on various aspects of the Moroccan situation. The Government thought it necessary to issue a communiqué in reference to the mission of the Marshal, which simply says that Marshal Lyautey explained the Moroccan situation in the course of the meeting with the Premier and that M. Painlevé will communicate to members of the Government during the Council of Ministers to be held on Thursday the information furnished by the Marshal.

Public interest naturally centres on the man who built up the great North African colony and who in the last four months has faced the prospect of seeing his work destroyed by a danger he foresaw but, according to a large section of opinion, was not able to offset. His friends, who are legion in France, point out that the sterling loyalty displayed by the vast majority of Moroccans was due to his personal prestige as a kindly understanding chief.

Paris is wondering tonight whether Marshal Lyautey will return to his post. The Marshal says his mission will take only a few days and he expects to return to Morocco, where Mme. Lyautey is staying. But some newspaper comment says he will return "unless unforeseen circumstances prevent." The question holds the greatest importance for French minds, and is likely to raise a whirlwind if a situation is created wherein people believe an injustice has been done the Marshal.

MAYOR QUOTES SMITH AS OPPOSING HEARST

Says Governor Said: "What Would Mrs. Harriman and Mrs. Vanderbilt Say?"

A completely new version of what happened at the Democratic State Convention at Syracuse in 1922, when Governor Smith was nominated to head the ticket, a place sought originally by William Randolph Hearst, was given last night by Mayor Hylan in a speech at Morris High School in the Bronx. It was known at the time that Mr. Hearst then sought the nomination for United States Senator, subsequently obtained by Senator Royal S. Copeland, but was prevented from getting it by Governor Smith's declaration that he would not run on the same ticket with him.

Mayor Hylan's disclosure of what he said happened was made at the beginning of the meeting, after the Chairman had asked his hearers if they wanted as "outsider," meaning Governor Smith, to come in and try to run the city.

"No, and we don't want Hearst, either," shouted a voice, leading to considerable disorder, cries of "put him out" and a search for the offender by several policemen.

"Somebody has referred to Mr. Hearst," Mayor Hylan said when order was restored. "After the Syracuse convention I begged Governor Smith not to oppose naming somebody for United States Senator, the other principal place on the ticket, and he said:

"What would Mrs. Harriman and Mrs. Vanderbilt say if I should acquiesce?"

The Mayor added that his hasty return to New York, thought at the time to have been the result of pique, was in reality an effort to get to Mr. Hearst as quickly as possible and get him to support Smith for Governor. The Mayor said that this had been at the request of the late Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany, who had told him to lose no time in asking Mr. Hearst to give his support.

$18,205,154 PAID US UNDER DAWES PLAN

Total of First Year's Receipts From Its Operation Is Announced by Treasury.

REICH FULFILLING PLEDGE

Has Made Final Payment on 1,000,000,000 Gold Marks Instalment on Reparations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—The United States has received a little more than $18,000,000 under the first year's operation of the Dawes plan which ended today, it is announced at the Treasury Department. There has been paid on account of the $264,000,000 due for costs of American army occupation in the Rhine region $14,705,154. The total of army costs is to be paid back at the rate of 55,000,000 gold marks annually.

The balance of the sum the United States has received is the 15,213,000 gold marks (about $3,500,000) which the Treasury Department was officially notified today was made available to the general transfer agent on account of claims of American citizens. The total amount of these claims, which are now being adjusted, has not yet been fixed.

Officials here express themselves as optimistic in regard to the manner in which the Dawes plan has worked and they feel confident that, except perhaps for some minor changes, it will prove entirely successful in straightening out the financial difficulties of Europe.

PARIS, Aug. 31 (AP).—Seymour Parker Gilbert Jr., Agent General for Reparation Payments, today announced that the German Railway Company has made payment of 80,000,000 gold marks, the balance of the interest due Sept. 1 on its reparation bonds.

"This completes the payments due from Germany in the first year of the operations under the experts' plan, which commenced Sept. 1 1 year ago," said Mr. Gilbert.

"In the total these payments have amounted to 1,000,000,000 gold marks, of which 800,000,000 were derived from the proceeds of the German external loan issued last Fall. The remaining 200,000,000 were paid by the German Railway Company as interest on 11,000,000,000 gold marks of bonds, which it has given under the plan for reparation purposes.

"The railway company made its first payment Feb. 28, 1925, in the amount of 100,000,000 gold marks.

"The second payment, due Sept. 21, 1925, was in part anticipated during August, in accordance with an arrangement made between the Agent General for Reparation Payments and the railway company, whereby partial payments may be called for in advance of due dates, subject to discount at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, for the purpose of providing funds for the smooth flow of reparation deliveries and payments.

"The amount paid today, 80,000,000 gold marks, thus completed the second payment of 100,000,000 gold marks for the year."

EMPLOYES SHARE IN ESTATE

Will of James Butler, Who Died Trying to Save Son, Is Filed.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 31.—The will of the late James Ormond Butler of Bronxville, N. Y., of the real estate firm of Butler & Baldwin, 18 East Forty-seventh Street, New York, which was filed for probate here today, showed the late an estate valued in "excess of $10,000."

Mr. Butler died on Aug. 21 while trying to save his little son from drowning in Lake George.

Three-quarters of the estate is left to three employes of the real estate firm, John A. Potter, Leo Fitzpatrick and Richard Mollen. Potter, with Mrs. J. O. Butler, the widow, who gets the other quarter of the estate, is named executors.

THE coat-frock is one of the most important interpretations of the vogue for tweeds. Practically every Paris house of note included a group of these frocks in their recent collections. The model illustrated, in a rather coarse English woolen, with mannish notch collar and leather belt is very chic.

WHEN you are on a dining car you are sure to feel a thirst that you ordinarily are not conscious of—There is one thing that is certain palliation for that particular kind of thirst—It is White Rock Water. Dining cars always serve White Rock Water cold and snappy.

WAR OVER MOSUL FEARED IN BRITAIN

Cabinet's Inclination to Accept Extension of League Mandate Seen as Ominous.

TURKS MIGHT USE FORCE

Trouble at Home as Well as Abroad Expected if Government Fails to Change Policy.

By T. E. YBARRA.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—"We are on the razor edge of war," is the comment of the London newspapers in chronicling the departure of Foreign Secretary Austen Chamberlain and his fellow-delegates from England for the Geneva meeting of the League of Nations. This comment is inspired by the Mosul question, which is one of the problems to be settled—if possible—at the coming League deliberations.

Though the final British-Mosul decision is reserved until after Mr. Chamberlain reaches Geneva, it is evident tonight that the British Government is strongly inclined to accept an extension of the British mandate over Mosul under the League of Nations for another twenty-five years. This decision, if adopted, may conceivably bring the gravest internal and external consequences.

It is easy to see that even in circles uninclined to paint international complications blacker than they deserve it is believed the Mosul question may yet bring an internal political storm in England, to say nothing of a grave Anglo-Turkish crisis. With the example of the French in Morocco and Syria before their eyes and with the memory of what happened to the Spaniards in the Riff still vivid in their memories, most Britons are averse to getting involved in a "little" war, which quite aside from its military features might well assume big and fateful proportions.

The Mosul problem boils down to this: The special commission of the League of Nations recently reported that Mosul belonged rightfully to Turkey, but that it might safely be adjudicated to the State of Iraq provided Britain agreed to continue for another twenty-five years to exercise her mandate over Mosul under the League of Nations.

Mr. Chamberlain and the other British delegates at Geneva are on the horns of a most embarrassing dilemma. If England relinquishes the mandate, Mosul will revert to Turkey, whereupon a howl will arise from the foes of the Turk not only in England but throughout the Christian world. If, on the other hand, the delegates obligate Britain to continue exercising the Mosul mandate for another twenty-five years, they not only will raise a storm from the Opposition and other elements, including a section of the Government's supporters adverse to Near Eastern entanglements, but they will run the risk of plunging Britain into a war with Turkey.

Turkish jingoes already are furiously denouncing the British in anticipation of such action on the part of Mr. Chamberlain. In view of the Turkish success when Kemal Pasha three years ago boarded the Greeks, backed by Lloyd George, and drove them pell-mell from Asia Minor, there is a strong likelihood that the Turkish jingoes may again decide to twist the British lion's tail. This would probably take the form of a Turkish attack on Iraq if Mosul were awarded to the latter under British protection, which would amount to throwing down the gauntlet to the British.

The anti-Government organs here are already shouting wrathfully as if in anticipation that Mr. Chamberlain will "entangle" Britain in the meshes of the Mosul question. According to them, it is in the interest only of the oil magnates, wherefore it should not be used as a means of placing additional burdens on the long-suffering British taxpayers.

"Let the oil magnates make new arrangements with Kemal Pasha after the oilfields get into his grip," say those opposing continued British responsibility for Mosul.

The fact that the Mosul region contains the ruins of Nineveh and the tomb of Jonah and is reputed to be the site of the Garden of Eden is hardly sufficient reason for England to go to war about it, remarks one caustic critic.

Government's View Defended.

Supporting the view that Britain should accept a twenty-five-year extension of her mandate over Mosul, it is pointed out in official circles that when the treaty was concluded last year with King Feisul, by which the British were undertaken to stay in Mosul until 1932, a clause was incorporated providing that this date might be reconsidered if this proved advisable.

Government circles declare that a twenty-five-year extension of the mandate will not be so costly after all since Britain now guards the Iraq frontier with a few air squadrons, and probably when King Feisul gets a little stronger even these might be summoned home.

Finally Government supporters point out that Turkey would scarcely wish to run counter to a decision of the League and that if she did Britain would have the world's moral support and the backing of the League.

The British Geneva delegation includes one woman, the Duchess of Atholl, Under-Secretary of State for Education. Other delegates besides Mr. Chamberlain are A. M. Samuel, Minister for Overseas Trade, and Sir G. D. Grahame, British Ambassador to Belgium.

SPENCE ALUMNAE WINS DELAY IN SUIT FOR BOY

Writ Requiring Production of Nurse's Son, Who Was Adopted, to Be Argued Today.

Supreme Court Justice Aaron J. Levy adjourned yesterday until 2 o'clock today the hearing on the writ of habeas corpus sued out by Mrs. Margaret Henderson, a nurse, of 1,551 Westchester Avenue, the Bronx, against the Spence Alumnae Society of 223 East Sixty-second Street, requiring that organization to bring into court her son, David, 5 years old.

The adjournment was granted on the application of John Caldwell Myers, who represented the defendants. He said he had been served with the writ on Saturday and had agreed to appear, but had not had time to prepare his answer. He said twenty-four hours would be enough, and intimated the answer would be that the adoption of Mrs. Henderson's child was effected through a regularly executed instrument which the mother was party to.

In court yesterday Bernard H. Sandler, representing Mrs. Henderson, repeated the statement that the child had been left with Mrs. John Cornell, acting for the society, and alleged her understanding was that the child could be reclaimed any time within six months. Mr. Sandler asked that the mother be informed who has her child and where the boy is. Mr. Meyers replied that he expected to convince the Court that under the law the society was not permitted to tell who had adopted children it cared for, and Justice Levy said he would not require the name for the present. Mrs. Henderson was in court.

HAMMOND ADVISES COOLIDGE ON COAL

Urges Him to Recommend to Congress Enactment of Commission's Recommendations.

PRESIDENT MUM ON PLANS

Discusses Strike With Two Other Fuel Men, Who Agree Situation Is Not Alarming.

Special to The New York Times.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., Aug. 31.—While the miners of the anthracite fields were going on strike today John Hays Hammond, Chairman of the Federal Coal Commission which studied the coal tie-up that preceded the one now in progress, was advising President Coolidge here to recommend to Congress the enactment of the legislation suggested in the commission report for the regulation of coal mining and the prevention of strikes.

This report was approved by President Coolidge and in submitting it to Congress he favored the enactment of its recommendations. No action was taken by Congress.

The President also discussed the strike situation with Harry Lyons and James Richards of the New England Fuel and Transportation Company. The situation does not demand a special session of Congress, Mr. Hammond told the President, and the two other visitors expressed the opinion that there was no cause for alarm over a coal shortage.

President Keeps Own Counsel.

President Coolidge gave no indication of what, if any, action he has in mind. He listened and the others did the talking.

Mr. Hammond expressed the opinion that the application of the measures recommended by the committee would be of great benefit in the present emergency. He thought Congress ought carefully to consider the commission's proposals for future use.

The essential recommendations of the commission as laid before the President by Mr. Hammond included:

Continuous fact-finding, publicity and regulation of the coal industry, bituminous and anthracite, through use of the powers of the Federal Government over interstate commerce. Like the railroads, the coal industry should report to public authority, and the commission maintained that the public interest placed limitation on the rights of owners of coal lands, operators, mine workers, carriers and dealers.

Creation of a coal division in the Interstate Commerce Commission to act as the administrative agency through which these powers should be exercised. The proposed coal division should correct abuses, collect information and act in emergencies as Federal fuel distributor.

Federal licensing of those who buy or ship coal in interstate commerce.

Federal tax on royalties and differential profits.

Re-examination of differential railway freight rates by the Commerce Commission with a view to promoting coal movement by water and discouraging long haul by rail.

Adoption of the standard uniform ton. At present the long ton of 2,240 pounds and the short ton of 2,000 pounds are in use.

Modification of the rules governing distribution of railroad cars in periods of shortage so as to give consideration to the commercial ability of the producer to sell rather than to mere ability to produce and load it into cars.

That contract coal have precedence over spot deliveries.

That the Government, as administrator of 50,000,000 acres of coal lands, amend the leasing laws so as to restrict the opening of new bituminous mines.

That Congress designate an agency to unite with the industry in continuing studies of unemployment and of wage structure, this agency serving as the medium of publicity for wage rate information and being prepared to make special compulsory investigations whenever there is a threat of failure to renew a wage agreement.

Continuous investigation and publicity as to labor relations with the possible resort of mediation at the instance of the President.

Consolidation, grouping or pooling of bituminous mine operation, under such restrictions as are prescribed for railroads in the Transportation act.

That communities license retail coal dealers, organize cooperative associations, open municipal fuel yards or in other ways, as they might see fit, deal with the problem of local distribution of coal.

That all agreements between operators and union contain a clause which would provide for automatic renewal, except as to provisions objection to which one party or the other may have given ninety days' notice in advance of the date of the termination of the agreement. In case of a failure to agree a report to the President should be made not later than sixty days before the expiration of the agreement. If with continuous investigation and publicity a disagreement should be still carried to the point of threatening a stoppage of work then a special report should be made to the President, who should designate a person or persons to inquire into the situation and make to him a special report and award before the expiration of the agreement. This award, the commission suggested, might be made public or not, as the President would deem wise.

Called Remedy for Strikes.

This last recommendation, the commission suggested, would prevent most strikes, as after due publicity and the printing of the award of the special investigators appointed by the President the public would have all the facts and neither union or operator would dare to go against public opinion and hope to succeed.

Other recommendations included:

Betterment of living conditions for the miners.

An organized effort by both parties in studying the problem of unemployment, the wage rate structure and its relation to the different jobs in the mines and the perfection of machinery for settling disputes through conciliation.

Voluntary arbitration.

A joint system of unemployment compensation or insurance.

Collective bargaining to work out a system of national negotiation with district agreements.

The check-off was not recommended, neither was complete unionization.

The commission placed anthracite coal in the class of being a public necessity, saying:

"The commission does not recommend the abolition of existing property rights, however much might be said for the view that mineral deposits should have been held from the beginning as national rather than individual property. The commission does not recommend Government ownership either by purchase at present value or by expropriation. It does, however, hold the view that a limited natural monopoly like anthracite, held by a relatively small number of individuals, estates and companies and supplying the necessity of life for millions of our people, cannot continue to be treated as if it were not affected by public interest."

RAIL MEN SAY STRIKE WON'T INJURE TRAFFIC

Anthracite Shut-Down Will Be Made Up by Gain in Semi-Bituminous, They Say.

The shut-down of operations in the anthracite fields with the consequent checking of the record traffic that the hard coal railroads have been enjoying the past few weeks failed to excite apprehension in the financial district yesterday.

Railroad men who viewed the situation from the standpoint of its effect upon the increasing prosperity of the country's railroads refused to be pessimistic. Loadings of anthracite, they said, comprise only a little more than 5 per cent. of the aggregate tonnage carried by the railroads and most of this deficiency will be made up by the increased loadings of semi-bituminous coal.

On the other hand the continuation of the strike beyond three weeks or a month will undoubtedly cut down the earnings of such roads as the Lehigh & Hudson, Lehigh & New England, Delaware & Hudson, Lehigh Valley, Reading and others dependent for traffic on hard coal production.

If traffic drops off in hard coal territory, however, it is expected to rise in soft coal mines of Southern Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, where the operators have been unable to man the mines profitably for nearly a year because of their inability to meet the competition of non-union mines while paying the wage scale fixed by the Jacksonville agreement. Railroad men are confident that the soft coal operators will make separate agreements with the miners and reopen the mines when the demand for bituminous reaches the stage where it can be done with profit.

An anthracite strike, according to observers in the financial district, will not affect railroad earnings at this time as much as it did in the strike of 1922 because several important coal properties have been divorced from the carriers since then. Some of the coal stocks of the segregated properties are still in the hands of the railway share holders but many of them have been sold to other interests.

they had traveled more than 500 feet toward the street.

The smoke poured from beneath the floor in black clouds. The wind drove it southeast across the city. The sun was obscured when the thick smoke clouds drifted across it, and later the rising moon was hidden at times. West side tenement dwellers suffered, but not more so than diners in fashionable hotels. Sidewalk traffic was congested, persons pausing to wipe their eyes, cough and question each other about the location of the fire.

As darkness came, the flames could be seen far up and down the river. Emergency searchlights were called into action. For a time the fire seemed to be subsiding and the smoke pall diminished, but the flames started fiercer than ever again and the smoke thickened once more.

At 9:30 o'clock Chief Martin said that the 350 firemen, thirty-five pieces of apparatus and four fireboats had made no headway against the flames. For the most part the men were unable to get their lines of hose into position from which they could attack the flames. The rising tide kept the fireboats too far above the fire to permit streams of water to be turned at the underpinning.

Firemen Fall Into River.

The main floor of the pier was undamaged, although the flames spread underneath. There was little merchandise stored there. The smoke grew thicker and the emergency hospital station operated by Dr. Harry Archer, Honorary Deputy Fire Chief, was moved back three times.

Dr. Archer and several assistants treated scores of firemen. A dozen or more who were overcome were revived. Most of them went back to duty in a short time.

Barney Lynch, engineer of the pier, was knocked overboard twice by lines of hose. Lieutenant Frank Luse of Engine 99 fell into the water when he was overcome while working on a raft. He was picked up by another of the crew on the raft. Jerry Casey and John Sullivan of Engine 34 were flipped into the river by a hose line.

Among those overcome by smoke was Lieutenant George Taylor of Engine 2, who was forced to go to Bellevue Hospital. It was necessary to use oxygen to revive him the second time after he had been carried to the station unconscious. Others were Lieutenant William Tighe, Fireman Arthur Munson, Henry Hignec and Henry Frisch of Engine 65; Frank Pryor, Michael Dolen and Fred Kutzick of Engine 23. They were able to walk to the station and went back to duty after receiving treatment.

Chief Patrick Murphy of the Ninth Battalion, Deputy Chief Joseph O'Hanlon and Captain Albert J. Schwartz of the Ninth Battalion were among those whose eyes were affected by the smoke. Firemen who were treated for the same trouble were Joseph Olledd, Engine 65; Joseph Kelly, Engine 28; Frederick Hackberg, Engine 65; Richard Foley, Engine 6; William Kennedy, Engine 65; George Dexter, Engine 23, and Joseph Hones, Engine 65.

Dr. Archer and his assistants treated a score or more of firemen for cuts and bruises. It was estimated that at 10 o'clock the firemen were coming into the station for treatment at the rate of one each minute. Up to that time none was in a condition serious enough to warrant hospital treatment.

Near midnight, when the flames were still eating their way toward the shore line and the Burns Brothers coal dock near by, the damage was estimated at $50,000.

Colonel Watson Acquitted.

Lieut. Col. James T. Watson, Sixteenth Infantry, U. S. A., was acquitted by a general court-martial at Governors Island yesterday, where he was on trial on charges of "permitting firing at the Camp Dix target range which did not meet the requirements of training regulations." Major General Johnson Hagood was president of the court-martial. army regulations providing that the officers composing the court be senior to the man accused.

Thinks Smith Won't Ration Coal.

A number of Governor Smith's official staff said yesterday, concerning a report in an evening newspaper that the Governor might appoint some one to ration coal supplies for New York during the strike, that the Governor had taken no action toward this end. He added that it was unlikely the Governor would do anything unless later developments warranted it. The Governor himself was not at his quarters in the Hotel Biltmore.

Plan to Build Tomb for Thomas R. Marshall Proposed by Late Vice President's Friends

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—A movement to build a tomb for Thomas R. Marshall, the late Vice President, is being considered by some of his close friends, who met at the Mayflower Hotel today to discuss the subject.

Meredith Nicholson of Indianapolis, who is visiting Washington, has been asked to head the movement, but he said today he was so occupied with his literary work, being on the point of getting out a new book, that he could not undertake it. He added however, that he would lend all the support he could and believed such a movement would be successful.

"Mr. Marshall had a horror of being buried in the ground," said Mr. Nicholson. "More than once, he expressed a deep-seated aversion to having his body rest in the earth. Only his family and a few of his closest friends knew this, but it was that feeling on his part that caused the family to place his body in the chapel at Crown Hill Cemetary, Indianapolis, where it now rests.

"In mentioning this to friends of his I have been surprised at the number who have expressed an eagerness to support a movement for a permanent tomb for him at Indianapolis. At present it is only an idea, and his closer friends have felt reluctant to attempt to start a national movement, but, after talking here with some of those who knew the Vice President well, I am convinced that a sufficient number of supporters of the idea will be found in the United States to erect a tomb where his body may rest throughout the years.

"Mr. Marshall was a modest man, and it would not be in keeping with his desire nor with his life to erect an ornate structure as his last resting place.

"My idea would be a plain but lasting structure in keeping with the homely virtues of Mr. Marshall's life."

66-STORY HOTEL TO BE PART CHURCH

the guests. The sixty-fifth will contain a hospital, with a complete staff of physicians and nurses and a separately equipped kitchen for the hospital. There will be erected on the roof a large radio receiving and broadcasting station with connections in each room or parlor.

Due to the setbacks demanded by the zoning law, there will be space for twelve roof gardens. Mr. Konkle plans to utilize all this available space with gardens laid out with natural shrubs and flowers.

The Realty Sureties, Inc., owns and operates eleven apartment houses in Manhattan and the Bronx, including the new Broadway View Apartments, a seventeen-story structure at the northeast corner of Broadway and 104th Street. These properties have a total valuation, it is said, of close to $5,000,000. The company's recent bond acquisition brings its holdings to $6,000,000.

In financing the colossal structure, Mr. Konkle said he intends to issue $3,000,000 of preferred stock, accumulative, paying 8 per cent. a year, payable semi-annually by the realty Sureties, Inc. The security for the payment of this stock will be, he said, all the present holdings of the company including also all the equity over and above the $10,000,000 7 per cent. first (closed) mortgage twenty-year sinking fund gold bond issue which is to be placed upon the new building.

There will also be issued $3,000,000 of common stock of no par value which will be in full consideration for all the present holdings of the Realty Securities, Inc., and payment in full to the Konkle family, who own all the stock; in other words, said Mr. Konkle, the interest must be paid on the $10,000,000 bond issue and on the $3,000,000 preferred stock, and all charges and operating expenses of all kinds, including the sinking fund, before the owners of the common stock can draw any dividend.

Of this $3,000,000 preferred stock, which will be offered immediately to the public, he said, $800,000 will be used for the retirement of present existing mortgages as they become due. A first mortgage lien of $361,000 standing against the newly acquired property will also be retired out of this $800,000.

Maximum Price $21 a Week.

The maximum announced charge for every occupant who lives in the hotel will be $21 a week. This charge will cover the cost of room and bath, two meals a day (with three on Sunday), radio service, hospital and gymnasium privileges.

According to Mr. Konkle's plans, every resident must be a preferred stockholder in the amount of not less than $500. Every occupant will be required to fill out a form and agree to use no intoxicating liquors on the premises, also that smoking and the use of tobacco on the premises will be strictly forbidden and, Mr. Konkle says, "it is hoped that it will be agreeable to residents that Sunday newspapers be eliminated."

The Realty Sureties, Inc., reserves the right to reject any subscriptions to the 8 per cent. preferred stock and the right to reject any application for hotel membership.

The Realty Sureties, Inc., plan, according to the announcement, to devote 10 per cent. of the net earnings (after paying all interest charges and all operating expenses and providing a sinking fund) to missionary, educational or charitable work as the Board of Directors and Managers pass upon and direct.

After his son's survival Mr. Konkle first planned a lofty mission for a Bowery site. Negotiations were begun with the Kramer estate for the purchase of the plot where the Atlantic Gardens and the Thalia Theatre stand. After many meetings of the interests concerned the deal fell through, partly on account of the large cash amount required.

The second venture was the purchase of the land at Broadway and 104th Street, where the Hope Baptist Church stood. After purchasing the property, negotiations were opened with the land holders on each side, but a tract large enough for the building contemplated was not acquired. Mr. Konkle then bought out the church holdings and built the seventeen-story Broadway View sparment.

The next attempt was made in the beginning of 1925 on two Broadway parcels, one in the Seventies and the other in the Eighties, but on account of the high prices asked for assembling a plot in these districts no contracts were effected. Mr. Konkle then studied the Columbia University section and—the company owning two apartment houses on the west side of Broadway, between 122d and 123d Streets—he made up his mind that the large Harren plot across the street was an ideal spot for the contemplated building.

The entire plot was assembled from the two Clark families and the Peter Jackson estate. Parcels one and two, forming the northeast corner of Broadway and 122d Street, with a frontage of 200.11 feet on 122d Street and a depth of 250 feet on 122d Street, was purchased from Frederick Ambrose Clark, represented by W. Beach Day, and from Robert Sterling Clark, who negotiated the deal by cable through Randall & Randall. Parcel three, forming the southeast corner of Broadway and 123d Street, with a frontage of 200.11 feet on Broadway and a depth of 225 feet on 123d Street, was bought from the Peter Jackson estate, represented by Stephen H. Jackson. This land had been held by the Jackson family since 1864. Herman Gottlieb represented the Realty Sureties, Inc., in the various negotiations.

Kindergarten Association Asks Aid.

The National Kindergarten Association, 8 West Fortieth Street, has issued an appeal for funds to continue its work of establishing kindergarten schools among the poor. Already 234,854 children have been cared for, receiving training in honesty and industry. The membership is $5 a year; sustaining membership, $25; life membership, $100, and honorary membership $1,000. Major Bradley Martin is President and Julian M. Gerard, Treasurer.

Briand Leaves for Geneva.

PARIS, Aug. 31 (AP).—Foreign Minister Briand left today for Geneva, accompanied by Louis Loucheur, to attend the sessions of the League of Nations Council and Assembly. Senator Pams, former Minister of the Interior, will take the place on the French delegation of Albert Sarraut, who is ill.

slightly below $10,000,000,000, which with unpaid interest will now amount to $12,000,000,000 plus. Of this amount about $4,800,000,000, including $4,600,000,000 of Britain's debt, has been funded. That leaves about $7,200,000,000 yet to be funded.

"Until this amount is funded and the debtor countries begin payments of interest, the United States must meet the interest annually, which at 4 per cent. amounts to $288,000,000. When these loans are funded, even at 3½ per cent. interest, the United States will be relieved to the amount of $252,000,000 interest and, if we include the $161,000,000 interest paid by Britain, it will relieve the annual interest charge of about $413,000,000, reducing that item from its present figure, $665,000,000 to $462,000,000, or about one-half.

"Britain's funding obligations require her to pay $160,000,000 to be applied to the principal of the debt, which under the Loan act must be applied by the Treasury to the part payment of the public debt. If the funding of the balance of the foreign loan is on the same basis, there will be additional annual payments of $240,000,000, making a total of $400,000,000 to be applied to the public debt from this source alone, which until recently did not supply any relief to our taxpayer.

"The specific relief of the American taxpayer through the successful financing of these loans will be to transfer from their shoulders to the debtor countries an annual interest charge of $462,000,000 and a reduction of our public debt upon which the United States must pay the interest to the amount of $400,000,000 until paid."

Letter From Houghton to President.

Special to The New York Times.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., Aug. 31.—Bartley Beale, an attaché of the American Embassy in London, delivered to President Coolidge today a letter sent by Ambassador Houghton. There is no indication of the import of the communication, but it is supposed to give Mr. Houghton's views upon the ability of France to refund her war debt.

Mr. Beale arrived on Saturday from London and is here on his vacation. He declined to comment upon conditions abroad.

Rumania Announces Plans.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Aug. 31 (AP).—The Rumanian Government has officially notified the American Legation that its Debt Commission is proceeding to the United States at an early date, probably the beginning of October, to seek a settlement. The members of the commission will be named when the Finance Minister, Vintila Bratiano, returns to Bucharest about Sept. 5.

Possibly the Rumanian representatives at the Interparliamentary Union Conference at Washington will be empowered to conclude a debt agreement, as there are financial experts among the delegates. It is understood that M. Bratiano originally intended to head the commission, but was dissuaded by Prince Antoine Bibesco, the Rumanian Minister to the United States.

[The total indebtedness of Rumania is $46,508,661, of which, on May 15, the principal was $36,128,494, and accrued interest $10,380,166. At that time Rumania had paid $1,704,180 on the principal and $268,813 on account of interest.]

French Deny Debt Rumors.

PARIS, Aug. 31 (AP).—The French Foreign Office and the Ministry of Finance have received tranquility the extensive reports from Washington outlining criticism of the provisional Franco-British debt arrangement as voiced in the American press and in Congressional circles.

It is declared in authoritative quarters that the French Government has no intention of using the provisional arrangement with Great Britain to bring pressure upon the American Government for corresponding terms.

Figures mentioned in America as being laid down in the instructions given to the French debt mission are described here as imaginary and as having no basis in fact.

COAL STRIKE STARTS; 150,000 MINERS QUIT

anthracite region, feverish activity has been maintained at every breaker, washer, culm and slate bank. The operators, with their usual modesty and virtue, have been taking advantage of the public fear of a strike to unload at enhanced prices a greatly augmented tonnage of coal of inferior quality. Their present policy is considerate only of commercial profit, utterly ignoring the right of the anthracite mine workers to fair treatment and entirely devoid of any concern for the public interest.

"The Mine Workers have no alternative except to await the time when the anthracite operators, having effected a maximum public exploitation, will be ready to discuss sanely the problems of a new contract. The anthracite mine workers to a man are solidly arrayed behind the policies of their organization in seeking proper consideration for the demands of the Scranton Tri-District Convention.

"Their morale is perfect and they are prepared to carry on with vigor for any period to the end that their merited claims shall be given just consideration. In the meantime, 120 men who are mangled and butchered every eight-hour day the collieries work will be saved to the great joy and satisfaction of their loved ones. In addition, two men who would be killed in the collieries each eight-hour work day will have their lives extended, which will lessen the number of mourning widows and weeping orphans.

No Fear of Disorder.

"The public need have no apprehension or fear of disorders in the anthracite communities. The anthracite mine workers are peaceful, law-abiding citizens, as well as a deeply religious and God-fearing people. The public authorities in the anthracite territory attest the fact that during a strike of nearly six months' duration in 1922 not a single case of breach of the peace among the 158,000 mine workers came to their attention. Such a record has never been equaled in any encampment of a disciplined army of the same number in all history. With this splendid example of the conscientious application of the ideals of good citizenship the public may expect that the tranquility of the anthracite communities will not in any manner be disturbed in the present instance."

Inglis Speaks for Operators.

Major Inglis, representing the operators, issued the following statement:

"Lest we forget, all anthracite mines are idle this morning. More than 150,000 men are out of their jobs. When everybody comes these men will have lost $1,500,000 in wages. That is the daily payroll of the mines.

"Not only will the miners and mines lose, but business of all kinds will suffer. This misfortune comes upon us at a time when the nation is rejoicing over the prosperity which has been enjoyed by all industries during the past few months. Every one of these industries will suffer from the loss of business which the anthracite strike will cause.

"The public has been warned for months that the anthracite operators were unwilling to sign a new agreement except upon terms which would allow the mines to keep going while a new contract was being made."

Dispatches from Swampscott stating that John Hays Hammond, former Chairman of the Federal Coal Commission, had urged President Coolidge to press for Congressional approval of the commission's recommendations were read with interest by both miners and operators.

In the opinion of the miners, the Coal Commission's recommendations, if enacted into law, would set up a semi-regulatory board which the industry would be required to file complete records and statics relating to investment, volume of sales, sales margins, profits and costs. This material would be public information and therefore accessible for inspection.

Workers Criticize Hammond Plan.

It is said to be the sentiment of the mine workers that for the Administration to urge a Republican Congress to adopt such a policy would be an absolute break with the past and with the Government's announced policy of non-interference in business and would be in opposition to the platforms of the Republican Party adopted for many years at national conventions.

It is felt by the mine workers that such a situation would throw the anthracite problem into politics, a step fraught with great danger, because it would expose the Republican Party to attacks from its adherents and from other parties. It was said that it would also alienate capital and investment bankers who are interested in the anthracite carrying railroads and the hard coal mines and who might feel themselves embarrassed by the publication of full financial reports.

With the policy of the Federal Government to assist the public in obtaining bituminous coal and other substitutes and to refrain from intervening in the strike the possibility of intervention is limited to Governor Pinchot and Senator George Wharton Pepper. Senator Pepper was quoted some time ago as saying, after a talk with President Coolidge, that he would not take an active part in mediation. Governor Pinchot has said nothing. Some of his friends believe the Governor may intervene if suffering is in sight for the people of the Middle Atlantic States and New England.

Last Minute Rush for Fuel.

Special to The New York Times.

SCRANTON, Aug. 31.—As the hours passed before the time set for the strike to begin, there came a tremendous demand for anthracite fuel, and big coal companies and the smaller retail dealers pressed extra trucks, cars and wagons into service to move a supply to industrial plants, stores, public buildings and private homes, where the people waited until the last minute before taking in any extra stock of coal.

The big piles of coal that had been in storage at the yards of the Hudson Coal Company in Carbondale were being rapidly depleted tonight as hundreds of men filled freight cars consigned to New York, Philadelphia and the New England States. Two weeks ago the Hudson Coal Company, officials said, had 1,000,000 tons all of domestic sizes, in storage at Carbondale. More than 600,000 tons were removed last week and officials expect that the entire supply will be gone in a few days.

Of the 60,000 mine workers in the Scranton district, more than 5,000 did not work today. Production was only slightly curtailed, however, and all collieries operated full time. As the men and boys came from the pits this afternoon they carried all their tools and seemed happy at the thought of getting a "vacation."

All mules of the Glen Alden Coal Company were taken from the mines tonight and will not go underground again until the suspension ends. There was no sign of disorder and nothing to indicate that a strike was about to go into effect except for the joyous shouts of the youthful slate pickers who are always thrilled at the thought of getting time off.

The Scranton Railway Company will lay off fifteen crews from street cars during the suspension.

The Lackawanna, Delaware & Hudson, New York, Ontario & Western and Pennsylvania Railroads will also lay off 1,000 trainmen. In the Lackawanna shops 4,200 will be laid off.

Warned Against Violence.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Aug. 31 (AP).—Chris J. Golden, President of District 9, United Mine Workers, stated tonight that warnings had gone out to the members of the organization advising them to refrain from demonstrations or disturbances of any kind.

"They have been advised that violence will only serve to injure their cause," said Mr. Golden, and the district officers, basing their opinion on the order that prevailed in the anthracite field during the 1922 suspension, are confident that the miners will enter upon the coming period of enforced idleness in a quiet and law-abiding manner.

About 50,000 men are on strike in District 9, which extends from Pottsville to Shamokin.

The Tri-District Executive Board of the United Mine Workers tonight issued an order levying an assessment of $5 on each two-week pay period upon all union members who continue to work as maintenance men during the strike. Included in this classification are pump men, motor runners, firemen, electricians and hoisting engineers.

The money is to be used by the locals for distribution as strike benefits should suffering become acute. More than $50,000 will be realized from this source every two weeks in the three anthracite districts.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—There is expectation that the American hard coal strike will cause much needed activity in the British anthracite mining industry, and especially in South Wales, where the Ammanford collieries are suffering as a result of a recent ten weeks' strike.

Demands for Welsh anthracite are being received from British Columbia, and, although the distance by way of the Panama Canal is nearly 6,000 miles, shipments are being made. Welsh coal has never been transshipped in great bulk to so distant a region.

B. E. HANEY DEFIES COOLIDGE'S DEMAND

and lack of experience to discharge the duties imposed by the Merchant Marine act of 1924 upon the Shipping Board, whose agent he was.

Second, because he seemed determined not to confer with the board upon any of the questions which come within its peculiar province under the statute, which involved the board's discretion and could not be delegated to the President of the Fleet Corporation; and

Third, because he seemed disposed to proceed along lines independent of board action, although he was by his appointment created the board's agent. This course, in my view, was in some instances a violation of the statute, or not in accordance with the legislative intent as expressed in the statute.

Regrets "Misunderstanding."

Upon your invitation, I stated at length my views on these subjects, without equivocation or evasion. There certainly was no express understanding concerning the continuance in office or removal of President Palmer. I regret exceedingly that you could have any misunderstanding as to my purpose and intent in the event of my reappointment, for I knew that you had been informed by Senator McNary that I would not, and in addition to that I myself had definitely advised you that I could not accept a reappointment if any conditions whatsoever were attached to that appointment.

I did not intend by word or act to lead you directly or indirectly, Mr. President, to understand that if reappointed I would be a party to continuing Mr. Palmer as President of the Emergency Fleet Corporation. You knew that I had voted against his reelection within two weeks before the time we had our conference on the subject of reappointment. You also knew that I vigorously opposed the adoption of a resolution granting any powers to the President of the Fleet Corporation which the statute expressly imposed upon the board itself. I did not intend by word or act to lead you to think my view of President Palmer and his activities, which I expressed to you, would change, unless there was a change in his administrative policy.

Under these circumstances, in justice to myself, I am compelled to say to you that I am not conscious of having in any way caused you to have reached the understanding referred to in your telegram.

Obviously, Mr. President, to have given you any such promise as that implied by your telegram would have amounted to a total disregard of my oath of office and my obligation to Congress, whose sole agent I am. Such a promise and disregard of my official oath and the consummation of such an understanding would have obligated me to support the administration of the Merchant Marine act by the President of the Fleet Corporation, however inefficient, notwithstanding the fact that the law implied upon me, as a Commissioner of the Shipping Board, the duty to support and maintain an efficient administration.

Tells Purpose of Congress.

I think that I understand the purpose which Congress had in mind when the merchant marine law was enacted and when it by law, in express terms, required the President to recognize bipartisan appointments and geographical sections in the appointment of the members of the board. The act specifically declares its purpose to be to create a merchant marine (1) for the national defense; (2) for proper growth of our foreign and domestic commerce; and (3) to serve as a naval or military auxiliary in time of war or national emergency. I respectfully direct your attention to the fact that, while the Merchant Marine act of 1920 provides for the operation and disposition of vessels and shipping property, it also directs the board to keep clearly in mind at all times the declared purposes of the act which I have mentioned.

The board, when once appointed by the President in conformity with the statute, is an independent agency of the United States Government and is vested by the statute with large and important discretionary powers which the members thereof are compelled to exercise independently of any other governmental agency so long as the law is in force, and, with the exception of the power of removal for causes specified in the act, the members of the board are responsible only to the legislative body.

The powers conferred upon the board are largely judicial in their nature, involving the exercise of discretion, and these powers cannot be delegated by the board to Mr. Palmer or any other agent. It may be answered that if any of these powers have been delegated to the President of the Emergency Fleet Corporation it was done by act of the board itself; but, even if that be conceded, the attempted delegation of power does not deprive any individual member of the board of the right to express his opinion as to these powers, and to vote, under the sanction of his oath of office, as his judgment may direct.

Talks of One-Man Control.

If, therefore, I am to be asked to resign because I have seen fit to exercise the power expressly conferred upon me by Congress in urging the removal of an inefficient agent of the board, then I submit that the control of the operation and disposition of the merchant fleet is taken from this bipartisan and sectionally constituted body and placed in the hands of one man, for whose actions the board is responsible, but whose actions it cannot direct or control.

My opposition to President Palmer's Administration, in addition to the reasons above stated, is based upon the following:

His policy, of necessity, fails to carry out the purposes of the Merchant Marine act, because such policy not only is failing to establish a merchant marine sufficient to carry a major portion of our commerce, but on the contrary, our merchant marine is carrying less and less each year.

Again, the purpose of the act to establish a military and naval auxiliary is being disregarded. In that the number of vessels in use and available for such purpose is being steadily reduced, and, last, but not least, under his administration we are losing American commerce to foreign ship owners, one of the very things the act in question intended should not occur.

Under these circumstances, Mr. President, for me to comply with your request that I resign would carry an implication which I cannot permit. Very respectfully,

BERT E. HANEY.

Even scientific enthusiasts say that it will take ten years to find useful facts about a cancer cure that cures. Why not give this Home at once to penniless people who are facing rampant cancer as their only actual possession?

We sister-nurses cannot in one house properly take care of more than 100 men and women thus afflicted, for we believe it necessary to personally attend to our patients. We will not use the aid of paid nurses. The increase of workers for such a labor is slow.

MAD RUSSIAN POETS BETRAYED IN A PLOT

Practical Joker of a Suicide Club Gives Their Scheme Away to the Soviet Police.

SETS POET'S HAIR ON FIRE

Wild Fight in a Dark Cellar Ensues and Bedlam in the Police Station.

By WALTER DURANTY.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Aug. 30.—There is a type of humor peculiarly Russian because sharp and spiced with blood. So Ivan the Terrible, when the French Ambassador to support the prestige of the French Crown came into his presence wearing a fur cap, said smiling: "If you like the hat so much you shall wear it always," and ordered it nailed to his head. So four years ago peasants of a southern village, annoyed by what they considered exorbitant taxes, slit open a tax collector, stuffed him with straw and sent his body back in a boxcar labelled "Tax in Kind" and with a placard on his breast reading: "Enclosed please find all the grain tax you will get from us."

So now literary circles in Moscow tell with gusto a story of Ganin, a peasant poet. A soldier in the Red army against Wrangel, Ganin wrote war songs that won, it is alleged, the approval of Trotsky himself. He came to Moscow and published a book of strong, earthy verses which was widely sold. The NEW YORK TIMES correspondent saw him often in a poets' café, a thickset youngster with a shock of yellow hair above a healthy red face and shining deep blue eyes. Two years ago he had a moment of notoriety when he was arrested with Isadora Duncan's ex-husband, Essenin, and two other peasant poets for "anti-Semitic utterances provoking a breach of the peace" in a beer saloon. The poets were released in twenty-four hours and the case dropped, but Ganin thenceforth nursed a grievance against the Soviet régime.

About a year ago arrived from the Crimea another poet named Golanoff, a great lanky creature with long red hair and beard, lacking identity papers, but judged a harmless eccentric, though subsequently found to be an agent of anti-Bolshevist social revolutionaries. Ganin and Golanoff foregathered, it appears, and talked treason over bootleg vodka.

Join a Group Suicide Cult.

A queer manifestation in poetic circles gave them their opportunity. A gang of the wildest poets, men and women, half crazy with drink and drugs, had formed a fantastic cult whose central idea was that simultaneous suicide of its believers should transport them from this distressful world to eternal paradise in the star Capella. There was, it seems, a gloomy mysticism in Golanoff which at first attracted his hopelessness of overthrowing the Soviet régime to the idea of sensational group suicide. He became one of the cult's leaders and replaced the devotees' dreams with the real purpose of speedy self-murder.

But Ganin had a more robust and a more practical spirit. Slowly but quite surely he grafted onto the root idea of suicide two suggestions: First, the final exit of the believers must be as sensational as possible to attract new converts; second, the only way to insure against backsliders was to involve the whole group in martyrdom inevitable. So between the dreamy optimism of opium and fierce energy of cocaine, the final plan was evolved. The believers, a dozen or more, should attend in a compact group in the Red Square the celebration in honor of the anniversary of the Soviet revolution. Some should have revolvers, others bombs, to be used against Soviet dignitaries on the platform above Lenin's tomb. A mad scheme, if you like, but history tells that nearly all assassins of notable men are on the verge of madness.

The plot failed by an extraordinary accident. The Capella cultists used to meet in a vast empty cellar which the year before had been a sort of cabaret club called the Enthusiasts, run by the Poets' Soviet, but shut down on account of illegal sale of vodka. Here, under a single electric light, they sat at wooden tables before a log fire in the wide stone fireplace and plotted death for themselves and the Soviet leaders.

Mad Jest Reveals the Plot.

One night Ganin and Golanoff wished to discuss some detail privately away from their crazy followers. They sent the latter to sit ten yards off around a dais, formerly the cabaret stage. Do you get the picture? Two conspirators with their heads together near the fire in the glare of an electric light and behind them in the shadows a grotesque semicircle of squatting figures with their bottles of vodka and incessant sniffs of cocaine.

Suddenly one of them conceived a merry jest. He slid noisily from the dais to the pillar supporting the roof, not fifteen feet from the pair at the table. Hidden behind it he lit a match and crawled cautiously forward. Ganin and Golanoff noticed nothing. The crawling figure raised itself without a sound and applied the match to Golanoff's long red hair. There was a second of silence while the rest of the devotes watched enthralled.

Golanoff sprang up with a scream and immediately from the delighted semicircle came a hail of bottles and glasses. All in fun—the old fun of Russia, where millionaires and aristocrats used to finish supper parties by smashing a thousand dollars' worth of crockery and mirrors.

The electric lamp was extinguished and Golfanoff, clutching wildly at his head, stood a fair target in the firelight. The cultists shrieked with laughter and tore the rickety pulpit and chairs on the dais to pieces for new missiles. Streaming blood, Golanoff and Ganin rushed to the attack. A furious scuffle in the semi-darkness was ended by the city police, who arrested the whole outfit.

The story goes that the scene at the police station literally was bedlam unchained. The panic-stricken Police Lieutenant appealed to the higher authorities and a squad of soldiers from the "Gaypayoo" (the political detective administration that replaced the dreaded Cheka) arrived in an armored truck. The Gaypayoo inquiry at first treated the matter lightly, but soon found there was sinister method behind the poetic madness and the Capella cultists were sent to the prison hospital to be released when cured of the drug habit.

Ganin and Golanoff found the death they professed to be seeking.

Rumania Issues Money to Aid Grain.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Aug. 31 (AP).—The Rumanian Government has issued 500,000,000 lei (about $2,650,000) in new money during the present month to tide over the difficulty encountered in exporting the country's grain surplus. The Government depends largely upon an export tax, but it has been found that if the tax is added the Rumanian grain cannot compete in foreign markets, where the prices have fallen.

ITALY AT LAST HOUR IN SECURITY PARLEY

Sudden Decision to Join Holde Up Conference of Allied and German Experts.

MEETING IN LONDON TODAY

Mussolini Sends Pilotti—Had Held Aloof as Italian Boundaries Were Not Affected.

By T. R. YBARRA.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Italy today introduced a new element into the security compact discussions. She formally expressed the desire to be represented at the forthcoming meetings here of legal experts for the purpose of studying and clarifying the compact terms.

Their first formal meeting was to have been held today, but it was unexpectedly postponed. It now appears that the reason for the postponement was Italy's desire to send a representative. The Italian delegate, Signor Pilotti, is expected to reach London tomorrow and consult immediately with the other legal experts assembled here—Sir Cecil Hurst, representing Great Britain; M. Fromageot, France; M. Rolin, Belgium, and Dr. Gaus, Germany.

Pending the arrival of the Italian the other delegates had a short informal meeting today, but soon adjourned in order to postpone the important deliberations until Signor Pilotti is present.

There has always been speculation on whether Italy would not eventually feel sufficiently concerned in the drafting of the security compact, which may transform the entire political face of Europe, to ask to participate in the compact conference. Nevertheless, until today she made no move in this direction.

The reason given for her abstention was that she is not one of the States whose boundaries are directly affected by the proposed security agreement. Now, however, she has reconsidered her decision to remain aloof and Signor Pilotti's London mission is the result.

Tomorrow the legal experts of England, France, Italy and Germany will meet in their first conference.

Russia Seeks to Hamper Reich.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 31.—Russia is obstructing her negotiations with Germany for a commercial treaty in order to hamper Foreign Minister Stresemann's progress toward the European security compact, to which the Soviets object on the ground that it constitutes an aggressive alliance by Western Europe against Bolshevism.

That is the impression gained here today in official quarters following publication of dispatches from Moscow to the effect that the Russo-German trade deliberations may be broken off at any time. The German delegation is known to be exasperated not only because of the attacks aimed at it in the Soviet press but also owing to Russian political machinations to which it is allegedly subjected.

A rupture in the Moscow negotiations due to these causes, it is intimated at Wilhelmstrasse, would have no effect whatever on Germany's security dealings with the Allies. The German trade envoy's return to Berlin, however, might postpone the conclusion of a commercial understanding between Russia and the Reich for many months.

That the desire to bring political pressure to bear on Berlin rather than economic reasons is responsible for the trade deadlock is argued here, since only a few days ago agreement apparently had been pressed on the most important features of the proposed treaty. The Russians had accepted the German thesis regarding most-favored-nation reciprocity and protection of German patents. Now, it is stated here, they seek to exclude parts of their Asiatic domain from most-favored treatment and demand certain privileges in exchange for patent rights.

GERMAN'S "TITLE" WINS A JAIL CELL

Rural Bookkeeper, Rich on Lottery Prize, Prefixes "Baron" and Loses His Vacation.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Aug. 31.—Oscar Gern, a "calculator," who juggles figures in a rural town remote from Berlin, dreamed over his books of a trip to the German metropolis and to this end played the lotteries in the hope of obtaining the necessary funds.

His last drawing provided a 3,000-mark prize and he forthwith declared himself on a three weeks' vacation.

En route to his dream city Herr Gern decided his wealth sufficiently great to enable him to imagine himself among the titled gentry, and he adopted the name of Baron von Sommer. Seeing Berlin consisted of his telling interested bar companions his adventures, not forgetting the descriptions of his estates.

After a merry evening ending the first week he invited a friend to a hunting party to his air castles and fairy estate, but the policy intervened and a Court informed the "Baron von Sommer" that assuming titles was a criminal offense, and so far is he is concerned his Summer is over, and the vacation will be when Gern serves a sentence of two weeks, which Gern says he "calculates is sad but true."

WORKMEN UNEARTH WATCH.

Gold Timepiece Found Under Rock in Excavation at Haverstraw.

HAVERSTRAW, Aug. 31.—This village has a buried treasure mystery in a gold watch which was unearthed by workmen employed in digging the foundation for the Hotel New Main. The watch is in the possession of John Yonko.

He was working with other men in excavating when a rock was discovered about two feet from the surface. It was too large for one man to handle, and the use of crowbars was necessary to dislodge it. When it was removed the watch was found in a hollow underneath. The watch was in excellent condition, although it is believed to have been buried many years. Haverstraw jewelers have appraised it at $125.

The identity of the owner was established through the following inscription on the case:

"Presented to Russell Salter by the Midland Chemical Company, Dubuque, Iowa."

Yonko has written to Dubuque in an effort to locate the owner, and unless Salter can be found it is probable that the mystery will remain unsolved. No one in the village of Haverstraw can throw any light on the subject.

Butcher Cleared of Bribe Charge.

Lack of evidence to support a charge of attempted bribery against Charles Loder, a butcher, of 356 First Avenue led to a dismissal of the charge when he was arraigned in Yorkville Court yesterday before Magistrate Max S. Levine. Loder was arrested on Aug. 16 by Patrolman Dugan, who charged that the butcher had tried to bribe him to prevent service of a summons for selling meat in violation of the Sabbath law.

WEIZMANN TO NAME ZIONIST EXECUTIVE

Congress, at Last Moment, Adopts President's Policies En Bloc and Without Change.

SOCIALISTS VOTED DOWN

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Aug. 31.—After a stormy all-night session the fourteenth Zionist World Congress disbanded at 6 o'clock this morning. From midnight until 5 A. M. technical obstruction by Socialist delegates seemed to frustrate the Chair's efforts to secure an adjournment, but at last the obstruction was removed and the final business was concluded.

President Weizmann left during the night for Geneva to attend the meeting of the League of Nations, being unable to remain for the end.

Even the final session failed to reconstitute the Zionist executive. After a second vote of confidence on Saturday at midnight, President Weizmann reappointed the personnel of the old executive, but the delegates whose abstinence from voting three days earlier had caused the deadlock refused to approve naming their own representatives on the list, demanding new members instead. The matter was compromised by the congress asking the old executive to continue in office provisionally and authorizing President Weizmann and Vice President Sokolov to submit a list of names for the new executive, subject to the approval of a committee of fifty, later chosen.

The Congress concluded only through the strictest application of the closure and by voting on resolutions which had been under discussion for ten days, en bloc. A budget of $3,000,000 was passed, half of the appropriations going toward the development of agriculture in Palestine. The executive was also authorized to raise an additional $2,000,000 toward the Palestine Foundation Fund. The Congress also declared in favor of an international loan, if such loan is possible.

Asked to summarize the outcome of the Congress, a leading American Zionist, who knows Palestine conditions at first hand, told THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent that the Congress succeeded in readjusting the Zionist immigration policy and to change the nature of the immigration. Originally the immigration was recruited mostly from the laboring classes, but lately there has been a strong movement of middle class people, business men, artisans and others, especially from Poland.

To Control Immigration at Its Source.

In accordance with the new tendency the Congress has reorganized the commission controlling immigration at its source (in Poland, Lithuania, &c.) by including representatives of the middle class in addition to those of labor. On the whole, the Congress recognized the claims of the non-labor element, both in the agricultural and industrial budgets, without hurting the interests of labor. The burning issue in Zionism was whether in appropriating funds existing settlements should be given preference over promoting new immigration, and the Congress has decided entirely in favor of the so-called consolidation policy, which concentrates all effort on strengthening the old settlements. The Zionist organization has invested $3,000,000 in national agricultural settlements, including both large-scale estates worked cooperatively and individual small holdings. Both lines of colonization will be encouraged, attention being paid to demands of full social justice.

The congress has definitely routed, according to this spokesman, a tendency to industrialike Palestine. Palestine's character as an agricultural country is fully recognized, over one-half of the $3,000,000 budget being allotted to agriculture. The congress adopted a measure calling for a uniform "shekel," this being the unit of voluntary contribution to the Zionist funds. The minimum "shekel" has been fixed at the English shilling.

In reply to a suggestion that the congress wasted too much time on intellectual hair-splitting, the Zionist spokesman said that what might appear hair-splitting in the case of other parliaments, is, in the case of the Zionist world-parliament, a deliberation of literally all life and death issues, as the Zionist organization in upbuilding the Jewish State in Palestine tries to condense the evolution of centuries into a few years.

The congress adopted a resolution of thanks to the Austrian Government and Police President Scheber, and another to Sir Herbert Samuel, the first High Commissioner of Palestine. It was also decided to hold the next congress in three sections, in order to expedite business.

Americans Elected to Committee.

VIENNA, Aug. 31 (Jewish Telegraph Agency).—A number of Americans were elected to the Actions Committee of the World Zionist Organization, among them Abraham Goldberg, Jacob Fishman, Emanuel Newman, Morris Rothenberg, Miss Henrietta Szold, Dr. Stephen S. Wise and Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver of Cleveland. As alternatives were elected Meyer W. Weisgal, Max Cohnheim, William Lier, Archibald Silverman of Providence, R. I., Dr. David J. Kuliski and S. J. Weinstein.

American Non-Zionists Will Participate.

The Jewish Agency, which is, under the Palestine Mandate, to act as an advisory body to the administration of Palestine, will now formally be formed with the participation of American non-Zionists, was the statement made by Louis Marshall, President of the American Jewish Committee, when informed yesterday by the representative of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, on his arrival from Europe on the Leviathan, that the Fourteenth Zionist Congress has adopted in final shape a resolution favoring the extension of the agency to include non-Zionists.

DE ROCHEMONT A SUICIDE.

Medical Examiner Holds Youth Jumped From New Rochelle Roof.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Investigation by Medical Examiner Amos O. Squire into the death of Maximilian de Rochemont Jr., 21 years old, of Pine Place, New Rochelle, found dead in the courtyard of Gramatan Court, a residential apartment, revealed that he had jumped from the five-story roof last night after leaving the apartment of his sister, Mrs. Ronald M. Craigmyle. Relatives say that death was accidental, but Dr. Squire believes that the young man committed suicide and the police blotter reads that de Rochemont "jumped from the roof."

Mrs. Craigmyle was out when her brother called and relatives believe that he went to the roof to go down the fire escape and slipped and fell. The young man's father said he knew no reason why his son should have ended his life. The medical examiner found that de Rochemont had been ill for some time and it is believed that he suddenly conceived the idea of suicide, becoming despondent finding his sister absent.

DR. RAPPARD DENIES ATTACK ON ZIONISM

ANSWERS FOSTER CHARGE

Member of Mandates Commission Explains Present Conditions in Palestine.

Surprise at the opposition to Dr. Weizmann, which manifested itself at the Fourteenth Zionist Congress, was expressed by Dr. William E. Rappard, international authority on mandates and member of the Permanent Mandates Commission of the League of Nations in an interview with the representative of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency.

"I consider Dr. Weizmann one of the greatest living statesmen, and no one could have done more for the Zionist movement under the conditions which he was confronted with," Dr. Rappard said. He could not see how the Zionist congress could repudiate the leadership of Dr. Weizmann at a time when there is no one who can successfully take his place. "The question is not Dr. Weizmann or anybody else, but Dr. Weizmann or nobody else. It would be folly if the Zionist congress would not reelect Weizmann. Weizmann is in himself a movement. He represents in my eyes 50 per cent. of the Zionist movement," Dr. Rappard declared.

The arguments of the Zionist oppositional groups that Dr. Weizmann yielded too much, making compromises and agreeing to the weakening of the Balfour declaration, are baseless, in the opinion of Dr. Rappard. "In his relations with the British Foreign Office, Dr. Weizmann acted in a statesmanlike manner," Dr. Rappard continued. "One must not forget, however unreasonable it might sound to Zionists, that public opinion at large in European countries was inclined to side with the Arabs in their opposition to the Balfour declaration.

Fundamentals of Zionism

"Most people uninformed of the fundamentals of Zionism, the historic rights and claims of the Jewish people to Palestine, held it unreasonable to undertake the establishment of a national home for a people which constitutes a small minority in the country. The opinion was prevalent that the Balfour declaration was merely a war measure dictated by the stress of the war. Should some British Minister rise in Parliament and demand the repudiation of the Balfour declaration because the Government could not carry it out, Parliament would, without doubt, annul the Balfour declaration.

"If Dr. Weizmann were to come to the British Government with some of the demands which his opponents want him to carry out, he would be turned down. It would certainly not be a proof of statesmanship to ask the impossible. I note that many Zionists have blamed Weizmann for having accepted the White Paper. By doing so Weizmann gained the confidence of a large part of British public opinion which had been alienated from the Zionist cause. The British Government is very sensitive to public opinion. By taking a moderate attitude Dr. Weizmann has exhibited unusual diplomatic skill and has maintained the position of the Zionist Organization.

"Of course the British Government could do a great deal more to facilitate the establishment of the Jewish national home in Palestine were it not charged with the additional task of safeguarding the rights of the Arab majority, and if it had not to contend with the hostile public opinion which continually looms as a great danger, not to speak of the determined opposition of the Vatican.

"The same reasons account for the unfavorable attitude which a number of members of the Permanent Mandates Commission have taken toward the Palestine mandate. The Palestine mandate is the only mandate, out of fourteen, where a Government is charged with the unique task of promoting the special interests of a minority. It is only natural that people whose views are democratic or liberal would not be in favor of such a policy. Only those who have given consideration and have made a study of the Zionist problem are inclined to support it, as I myself am."

Help to Establish Home.

Asked what the British Government was doing to carry out the terms of the mandate to facilitate the establishment of a Jewish national home in Palestine, Dr. Rappard said:

"The Balfour Declaration is rather a vague statement. It can be interpreted in many ways and has been interpreted in more than one way. The British Government is of the opinion that it facilitates the establishment of the Jewish national home in Palestine by creating conditions which enable the Zionists to carry out their efforts. Let me explain. If the Balfour Declaration did not exist and if Palestine would be administered like any other mandated territory according to the mandate, Palestine would be in a position, similar to that of the United States or any other country, to prohibit any immigration whatsoever. The British Government, by keeping the of Jewish immigration open, is thus helping to a certain extent, is thus helping the Zionists in their efforts to re-*establish a Jewish national home in Pal*estine."

Asked whether the mandatory power had not violated the terms of the mandate by not consulting the Jewish agency with regard to the appointment of the High Commissioner, Dr. Rappard said: "The term of the mandate with regard to the consultation of the Jewish Agency on the question of the appointment of a high commissioner is not very explicit. I do not believe that Dr. Weizmann was formally consulted when Sir Herbert Samuel was appointed, but I must admit that I, myself and many others were surprised by the appointment of Lord Plumer."

Asked whether the British Government should not have, under the terms of the mandate, turned over public lands for Jewish colonization, Dr. Rappard declared:

"I have noticed that Zionists are attaching a great deal of importance to this question. But this question is also one which the British Government feels that it would arouse Arab opposition and excitement if it would hand over to the Jews public lands or uncultivated areas. I do not want to be misunderstood. I do not hold a brief for the attitude of the British Government. I am only trying to explain what motives prompt the action of the British Government with regard to Palestine.

Immigration to Palestine.

"I noticed when I was in Palestine that the Jews of Palestine were very much hurt by the remarks in the report of the permanent mandates commission that the commission desires to draw the particular attention of the council to the principal fact which seems to dominate the whole present situation in Palestine. The commission has noted that according to the annual report and the statements of the accredited representative of the mandatory, there has been in the last few years a considerable stream of Jewish immigration into Palestine. This stream of immigration, mainly from Eastern Europe, is providing Palestine with a new population which, however, great the ardor and zeal of the immigrants and their desire to contribute to the reconstruction of the Jewish national home, is prepared neither by technical training nor tradition for manual work, especially agricultural work, of which Palestine is in greatest need. I was surprised that the Jews of Palestine believe that there was a deliberate attempt of insinuation or of depreciation.

"It is only natural that if, as this report says, only the welfare of the Arabs would have to be considered, that on first glance people who for 2,000 years have not been engaged in farming would not be considered the most desirable element for colonization. This does not in any way indicate an attempt of underestimation of the actual achievements of the Chalutzim."

The assertion of Rabbi Solomon Foster of Newark that Dr. Rappard in his Williamstown address uttered slurs against the Zionists and Jews in general so that the necessity arose for Rabbi Foster to defend Zionism at the Institute of Politics, was laughed away by Dr. Rappard. Dr. Rappard admitted having said jestingly that Dr. Weizmann "sold his gases for war purposes in exchange for the Balfour Declaration," but he could see nothing wrong with that statement. Dr. Weizmann, he said, was one of his best friends and it would be foolish to imagine that he would in any way defame him. His speech at the Williamstown Institute was considered by everybody present as a defense of Zionism.

"This in itself is a refutation of the charge," he said." Dr. Weizmann would have given the cause to the British Government event if there had been no Balfour Declaration. Lloyd George knew that. But it so happened that the Balfour Declaration was issued at the time when Lloyd George made use of Weizmann's chemical ability. Fearing, however, that this phrase might give rise to misunderstanding, he asked the newspapers to omit it."

Dr. Rappard also admitted saying that Zionism was not a theological movement, that some Zionists were agnostics, and what is holding together the Jewish people was the spirit of the race. Rabbi Foster, he said, was of the opinion that the Jews were only a religion, and probably for that reason he took offense that some Zionists should be called agnostics.

$7,000,000 TO PALESTINE

Joint Distribution Committee Reports on Ten Years' Work.

Figures showing the expenditure by the Joint Distribution Committee of nearly $7,000,000 in Palestine during the past ten years for various philanthropic purposes, including the support of schools and hospitals and reconstructive work, were made public yesterday by its Chairman, Felix M. Warburg, through the Jewish Telegraphic Agency.

This organization is one of four under whose auspices a nation-wide conference will be held in Philadelphia on Sept. 13 and 13 to consider plans for raising $15,000,000 primarily for Jewish colonization in Russia.

Palestine has been one of the countries coming within the scope of the committee's philanthropic efforts since the creation of that body in October, 1914, to act as the distribution agency of the various Jewish committees organized that year to raise funds for the relief of their war-stricken brethren abroad, and it is anticipated that a considerable part of the contemplated $15,000,000 fund will be devoted to reconstructive and welfare work in that country.

Up to the beginning of 1923 a total of $5,449,015 was sent to Palestine and credited on its books to "palliative relief."

Dozen Buses on Eastern Parkway.

Charles K. Lord, temporary traffic supervisor of the newly installed bus line on the Eastern Parkway, Brownsville and East New York Transit Relief Association, which has been operating unofficially for a few days, said yesterday it would be a week before a regular schedule could be put into effect. This he declared, is mainly because the buses were not equipped as soon as had been expected. A dozen buses were running on an irregular schedule yesterday. It is planned to have from eighteen to twenty-two buses in operation eventually on from three to six minute headways.

Indicted in Clothing Store Theft.

Harry Federman, 20 years old, of 841 West 177th Street, was indicted yesterday by the Grand Jury for the theft of $289.50 from the Trivers Clothes Stores Corporation, in one of whose stores he had been the manager until recently. Assistant District Attorney Hastings had been informed that there was a shortage of $6,000 in the accounts of that branch. Clothing worth $3,280 had disappeared and $5,594.87 in money had been taken, according to Jack Livingston, Vice President of the corporation.

NEW ENGLAND TRADES LEAD RIVAL SECTIONS

Chief Industries Report Better Business in July Than in June.

BOSTON, Aug. 31 (AP).—The leading industries of New England recently have fared much better than the same industries in other sections of the country, the monthly review of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, made public today, said. As one instance of this trend the review cites the fact that New England mills consumed more cotton in July than in June, while the mills in the cotton growing States consumed less.

"The woolen mills in this district increased their consumption of raw wool quite noticeably in July, but cotton-using mills in the Middle Atlantic States showed a further decline in activity," the report said. "Even the New England shoe industry, which has been so adversely affected by trade conditions in the past two years, had a greater production in July than in June, contrasted with slight declines in production by the shoe factories in the remainder of the country.

"The total value of new construction involved in contracts awarded in July in this district was the largest monthly total on record, but to some extent this figure does not represent the true situation in the building industry, because several educational projects contributed greatly to the amount.

"The volume of New England department stores sales during the past few weeks has been approximately the same as in the corresponding period last year. Collections, however, have been much better than they were last Summer.

"New England crop reports indicate that the leading crops of the district will not have as large a yield as last year, but will be greater than the five-year average. On the other hand, prices are higher than a year ago in a number of instances."

STORMY CHANNEL HALTS MISS EDERLE

G. B. Brewster, Who Left Dover, Quits After Covering 13 Miles.

CAPE GRIS-NEZ, France, Aug. 31 (AP).—Aided and abetted by a strong southwesterly breeze, rising suddenly about 2 o'clock this afternoon, the English Channel went on a rampage and foiled Miss Gertrude Ederle's determination to enter the water at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning on her second attempt to swim from France to England.

The date for the American girl's next great effort was tentatively fixed for Wednesday morning at 7 o'clock, but every day's delay is a point scored for the Channel against the girl who would conquer it.

With the water getting colder, the nights foggy and damp, the Channel more truly as the season advances, the prospects for a successful Channel swim in 1925 appear rather dim. Miss Ederle must make her next effort soon, if at all. After Sept. 10 it becomes quite a task to cross the Channel on mail boats without being seasick, let alone swim it.

The temperature of the water has gone down two degrees since Saturday, and now it stands about 60 degrees Fahrenheit. When the American, Charles Toth, swam the Channel in 1923 the temperature of the water at times during the night was only 50 Fahrenheit.

The announcement that Dr. G. B. Brewster, 34-year-old London doctor, had entered the water at Dover in perfect weather this morning for an attempt to swim the Channel, was received here at 5 o'clock this afternoon, when waves ten feet high, driven by half a gale, were breaking against the cape cliffs. Dr. Brewster was not able to compete the journey, abandoning the effort after swimming thirteen miles. The wind was troublesome and the sea lumpy.

Wind and sea would be of great assistance to a swimmer coming from England, as he would have both either directly astern or on his quarter, but it is the opinion of Burgess, Helmy and Miss Lillian Harrison, all noted Channel experts, that no swimmer could live in the sea which is churning in mid-Channel just now.

SIXTH AVENUE CELEBRATES.

Merchants Hail Progress in Making It a Brighter Street.

The "Brighter Sixth Avenue Week" celebration by the merchants of Sixth Avenue in the Forties, started yesterday. The celebration marks the progress made on that thoroughfare in the past year or so.

Since the removal of the elevated spur above Fifty-third Street many buildings have been razed to make way for improvements costing millions of dollars on the upper part of the avenue. These include theatres, hotels, apartment buildings and shops.

In the Thirties and Forties also new mercantile buildings representing millions of dollars are being put up and plans are being prepared for many more modern lofts and apartment projects. Realty values are reported to be increasing and with the crystallization of sentiment for the removal of the whole elevated structure along Sixth Avenue the merchants there look for a banner era for the street.

The Forties are experiencing this boom along with the rest of the street and the merchants in that district say they are looking forward to a wave of prosperity that will place Sixth Avenue on a par with its neighbors on the east and west.

TO GET AUTO GRAFT CASE.

Grand Jury to Hear Evidence of Bribes in License Bureau.

Evidence in connection with allegations that certain employes of the local bureau of the State Motor Vehicle Department and outsiders conspired to demand graft from applicants for drivers' licenses for granting licenses without road demonstrations will be presented to the Grand Jury tomorrow. Assistant District Attorney Harold W. Hastings, who has been conducting an investigation in cooperation with Charles A. Barnett, State Motor Vehicle Commissioner, will finish the examinations of witnesses today.

He admitted yesterday that he considered evidence he had obtained sufficient to lay before the Grand Jury. He would not discuss the character of this evidence. Six men were arrested several weeks ago in connection with the graft charges. Three were employes of the bureau. They were held in bail in the Magistrate's court ranging from $1,000 to $2,500, pending possible Grand Jury action.

CITY HALL ICE MAN JAILED.

Atlantic City Employes Go Thirsty as a Result.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 31.—Officials and workers at the City Hall today mopped their brows and glared at the ice water coolers, which were empty.

"Yes," sighed Mayor Edward T. Bader, "we have no ice water. The ice man is in jail."

Investigation developed that Harry Lowman, the ice man for the City Hall, had been arrested by Harry Harrison, City Sealer of Weights and Measures, who had warned him against delivering ice to the Hall without weighing it. An argument ensued and a summons was issued by Mr. Harrison, which he alleges was thrown in his face by Lowman, who was then arrested and charged with violating the ice weighing law, using profanity and disorderly conduct. The bail was $75 and Lowman did not furnish it. The Hall went without ice.

Broadcasts French Loan Appeal.

PARIS, Aug. 31 (AP).—M. Caillaux, the Finance Minister, tonight appealed, in words which were broadcast throughout France, to the holders of short-term Treasury bonds to exchange them for the new 4 per cent. loan, with a guarantee against exchange, and to capitalists to acquire bonds and transform them into the new issue. "Between the two negotiations, on which France's liberty of action abroad depends," said Caillaux, "I ask you to listen to me once more." He announced that the time for accepting subscriptions would be extended from Sept. 7 to Sept. 10.

NEW TRIPLEX CAR ON B. M. T. SUBWAY

Demonstration Is Given of Improved Equipment Planned for System.

Officials Say Construction Will Reduce Noise in Tube—Each Car Can Hold 550.

The B. M. T. gave a demonstration yesterday of the triplex car, a new type of vehicle which it will soon introduce in numbers on its system. The triplex, which is really three cars linked into one, is expected to improve ease of riding and "reduce substantially the amount of noise in the subway."

According to B. M. T. officials who explained the construction of the car as it stood at the lower level platform of the City Hall station, there will be seats for 160 persons as against 78 in the old-style car. With passengers standing, the car can hold 550 persons, they said, adding:

"The cars have been under construction nearly a year at the Bessemer Steel Car Works at Pittsburgh. Four cars, which will constitute a maximum train, have been built for the company at a cost of nearly $300,000. Each car comprises three sections permanently united and mounted on four trucks, one at each end and one at the point of contact of two sections. The mounting of the three sections of each car on four trucks, instead of six as with the present cars, will greatly improve operating conditions in respect to noise and ease of riding.

"This also makes possible the construction of enclosed passageways without doors between sections, so that passengers may readily pass from one section to another, this differing from the present B. M. T. subway cars.

"These triplex cars have been equipped with the latest safety devices that have been developed in respect to method of operation, door control, emergency lights, &c. Each car is 177 feet long, with six sliding doors on each side, each four feet wide, so as to permit rapid interchange of passengers at stations. The seating arrangement is believed to be an improvement over the present arrangement. Longitudinal seats are placed near the doors and transverse seats at other points. The three-passenger seats, as in the present cars, have been replaced by two-passenger seats to afford wider aisles.

"A further improvement is the large signs on the top of the front section, giving the route number and the destination station of the train, so that waiting passengers may plainly see the route of an approaching train. In order that the public may distinguish trains operating via Manhattan Bridge from trains operating via Montague Street tunnel the letters on these signs will be green for bridge trains and white for tunnel trains."

Representatives of the Transit Commission and of the Board of Transportation were invited to witness the demonstration. After the cars had been displayed they were run up to Fifty-seventh Street and back with newspaper men aboard. Gerhard M. Dahl, Chairman of the Board, and W. S. Menden, President of the B. M. T., rode from the Court Street station in Brooklyn to the City Hall station. Among the B. M. T. directors who made the trip were Robert A. Shaw, James H. Post, Arthur S. Somers, Charles Hayden, Benjamin H. Namm, Albert H. Wiggin, Charles A. Boody, William H. English, Albert H. Strauss and Matthew C. Brush.

Shoe Workers Want New Compact.

HAVERHILL, Mass., Aug. 31 (AP).—The Shoe Workers' Protective Union today gave formal notice to the Haverhill Shoe Manufacturers' Association of their desire to annul the present working agreement with the manufacturers on Dec. 31. The notice is in accordance with the compact which provides that either party desiring to alter, amend or annul the agreement shall give written notice not later than Sept. 1. Except on such notice the pact would continue until Dec. 31, 1928. The pact went into effect Jan. 1, 1925.

Week's Grain Exports Decline.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (AP).—Exports of grain from the United States last week totaled 3,473,000 bushels, compared with 3,786,000 bushels for the previous week, according to figures compiled by the Commerce Department. United States and Canadian wheat flour in transit amounted to 229,000 barrels, against 274,000 barrels the previous week.

BRIDE, GAS VICTIM, SAVED BY OXYGEN

CREW WORKS FOUR HOURS

Four hours work on the part of a resuscitation crew of the Consolidated Gas Company, when twenty tanks of oxygen were used, resulted at midnight in saving the life of an 18-year-old girl who earlier in the evening had been found overcome by gas on the kitchen floor of her home in a tenement house at 205 Avenue B.

Barney Burns and William Flynn, who had worked over the girl from the time she was found unconscious, said that never in their five years' experience in working with victims of gas poisoning had they used more than four or five tanks of oxygen on any person.

The girl, Mrs. Ida Ellis Bartick, a bride of less than three months, recovered consciousness in Ward A 3 of Bellevue Hospital, where she had been taken after the gas crew and hospital physicians had worked on her for some hours in the emergency room.

Some weeks ago a disagreement arose between the young woman and her husband and the latter left her. Early last night her mother, Mrs. Elisabeth Ellis of 441 East Eighty-first Street, called at the house. Getting no answer to her repeated knocking, Mrs. Ellis opend the door and found her daughter on the floor. The mother called Patrolman Clancy of the Fifth Street Station and the latter summoned an ambulance from Bellevue Hospital and also the emergency wagon of the Consolidated Gas Company, at First Avenue and Twentieth Street.

The gas company crew, consisting of Burns and Flynn, arrived first and at once set to work on the girl with a pulmotor. Dr. Albert Schwartzsarb came with the hospital ambulance and the three men worked for fifteen minutes and then saw a sign of life.

Fifteen minutes later they decided to take her to Bellvue, and while the ambulance sped across the streets Dr. Schwartzsarb continued the artificial respiration. At the hospital Dr. B. R. Rhoden took charge of the case in the emergency ward and before Mrs. Bartick was taken to another ward at 11 o'clock the contents of fourteen oxygen tanks had been used up.

Each of the tanks contain 100 pounds of oxygen at 100 atmosphere pressure, the atmosphere pressure being sixty-four pounds to the square foot.

Patrolman Clancy said that when he entered the apartment he found the kitchen window half open, and no attempt had been made to stuff the cracks of the door or windows.

An hour before midnight a faint spark of life was still flickering in the girl's body. Other tanks of oxygen had been brought in from the gas company's station and it was decided to move the patient to a medical ward.

In the ward morphine was administered by Miss Dorothy Lynch, a nurse, under the direction of Dr. Howard A. Dishongh, ward physician. The girl's heart action responded to the stimulant and the workers redoubled their efforts. Just before midnight she sighed, and as she recovered consciousness was massaged, and then after saying a few words dropped into a sound sleep.

GARDENER IS EXONERATED.

Absolved of Blame in $10,000 Fire on Shewan Estate.

Special to The New York Times.

GARRISON, N. Y., Aug. 31.—George Alcorn, former gardner on the Mrs. James Shewan estate, where a fire destroyed barns and other outbuildings valued at $10,000, was absolved of any responsibility for the fire by Sergeant James Buckley of the State Constabulary today.

He was released today by the Connecticut State troopers, who had detained him at Ridgefield, Conn., without making any charge, pending an investigation of the fire.

Late tonight suspicion centred on two strangers who have been seen near the Shewan estate for several days. Sergeant Buckley learned that they had been sleeping in barns on the estate.

PLAN TO PUSH NEW ADVERTISING IDEAS

Newspaper Officials Seek to Form a Central Bureau at Syracuse.

Plans for the organization of a central bureau in Syracuse were announced yesterday at the session of the semi-annual convention of the advertising managers of New York State dailies at Bronxville. The convention is to end tonight.

A committee for the organization of the bureau, it was announced, would be named in Syracuse on Sept. 26. The bureau has long been a subject of discussion in the association and its formation was hailed with enthusiasm by the sixty-six members in session yesterday.

Through the exchange, it was explained, any innovation in advertising ideas, form or methods, submitted by individuals, would be broadcast among the newspapers of the State and general information relative to advertising would be advanced to those requesting it.

The afternoon session yesterday ended with a speech by Wallace Odell, Vice President of the New York State Publishers Association, parent organization of the one in session, at which he expressed himself in favor of the proposed central bureau. He said he would present the matter for approval to the Board of Directors of his association.

Election of officers is to take place today. The present head of the organization is L. F. Cubbek of The Binghamton Press, L. G. Spordell of The Mount Vernon-New York Daily Argus is Vice President.

Girl Fatally Burned at Bonfire.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Her dress caught fire when she danced too near a bonfire in company with other children and Helen Swartwout, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Robert Swartwout, died at the White Plains Hospital this mornings as the result of the burns. Mrs. Swartwout beat out the flames with a rug, but the child was too seriously burned to recover.

FRANKLIN LOWER PRICES

In keeping with its established policy of offering the finest motor car at the lowest possible price, Franklin announces a reduction in the prices of all Series 11 models except the Coupé and Cabriolet, effective Tuesday, September 1.

The models have not been changed in any detail from the sensational New Franklin announced last March, whose sales in the six months just closed have bettered the 1924 record by 60%.

Advanced style, high power, the same high quality, complete equipment, and now new lower prices, combine to make this an unprecedented and opportune fine car value. Consult us at once for the details and a demonstration.

Franklin Series 11 comes ready for the road—fully equipped with appropriate accessories, spare tire and cover—at the new list price. Only tax and freight are extra.

Here is a message of great importance to those who have never experienced the superior comfort of riding on genuine low air pressure tires.

TODAY car owners want to know just two things about balloon tires—their ability to give greater comfort, and ability to give long wear.

In too many instances one characteristic is found without the other.

That is, many balloon tires must be run too hard for comfort, in order to save them from excessive wear.

Or if the tires are run soft enough to give full balloon cushioning, they wear too rapidly.

In U. S. Royal Balloons this trouble has been entirely avoided by two outstanding achievements in tire building.

Achievements which make it possible to run U. S. Royal Balloons at true low air pressures with absolute safety to the tires.

The new flat "Low-Pressure Tread" distributes the weight evenly over a much larger tread surface than a round tread balloon. The wear is slow and even.

Latex-treated Web Cord construction gives this famous tire that exceptional combination of strength and flexibility which permits perfect balloon cushioning.

As a result of these U. S. Rubber Company developments, U. S. Royal Balloons have been established as "the Balloon Tire Principle at its Best."

MEXICO'S BANK BILLS GO INTO CIRCULATION

First Paper Money Since 1920 Is Expected to Stimulate General Business.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 31.—General business conditions here will be greatly improved by the issue of new bank notes, starting tomorrow, according to local business men, who expect a large increase in the purchasing power of wage earners, with a betterment in general conditions, especially in the Fall trade.

No signs of uneasiness are seen among business. On the contrary, several business houses are advertising that they will accept the bills and give a slight discount on merchandise. Other houses display large signs offering to accept the bills without increasing prices on their goods.

The action of the Government in announcing that it will only issue a small amount of bills until public confidence is fully assured causes a good impression. The first issue will take place in this city, later extending gradually to all parts of the Republic.

With the exchange of bills for gold at bank windows a larger amount of gold will be placed in circulation for a few months and afterwards the public will hold the bills instead of rushing to the bank to exchange them for gold. The reestablishment of confidence in the banks will also mean the reestablishment of full confidence in the Calles Government, giving the President a much stronger backing with the public, especially among the lower middle classes.

Local bankers say they will accept the new bills that come to them in the course of general business.

Owing to the remodeling of the La Mutua Building, recently purchased as the home of the Bank of Mexico, the opening will take place in the building formerly used by the Bank of Londres and Mexico. This arrangement is temporary until the Mutua Building is in shape in about two months.

New Central Bank Opens.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 31 (AP).—Beginning tomorrow, Mexico is to have a central bank for the issuance of paper money with the backing of the Federal Government. Both Mexican and foreign circles here look for improved business conditions under the new plan.

It will be known as the Banco de Mexico S. H., or the Bank of Mexico, Inc. It will begin on a capitalization of 100,000,000 pesos, or nominally $49,800,000. The Government retains 51 per cent. of the stock, offering the remainder for general subscription.

Perhaps a fortnight will elapse before new paper money is actively placed in circulation. Bills are held in readiness for issue up to 10,000,000 pesos, in quantities yet to be decided, but the first issues probably will be small.

Mexico has had no paper money in general circulation since 1920 and little since 1913. Only gold and silver coins have been issued and the handicap of handling big business transactions by payments in metal both have curtailed trade, experts say.

The bank will also assume the functions of the present Mexican Monetary Commission. It is authorized to handle re-discounts and do a general banking business as well as act as agent for the Mexican Treasury.

The new bank is not to be confused with the National Bank of Mexico.

There are two classes of stocks, "A," held by the Government, and "B," to be generally subscribed. It is reported that several Europeans will be appointed "B" directors.

A criticism of the new plan here is that the money could have been used to pay obligations under the Lamont-De la Huerta Agreement, under which Mexico was to make certain payments to foreign holders of Mexican bonds. There is now due a payment of $5,000,000 pesos under this agreement and at the end of 1925 another 50,000,000 pesos will be due.

MEXICAN LABOR PUSHES NATION-WIDE PROGRAM

Hopes to Elect Majority of State Governors and Turn Out Agrarian Party.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 31.—Labor is slowly winning the elections for State Governors. The seating of Rivas Palacio in the State of Mexico, followed by the election of Manuel Perez Treviño in the State of Coahuila, now gives Mexican labor a strong hold on the Governorships. The approaching elections in the State of Zacatecas is expected to give the labor candidate an overwhelming majority, as the State is controlled by labor.

Labor organizations will make a special fight in the next elections in the State of San Luis Potosi, where Aurelio Manrriquez, known as the father of the Mexican Bolsheviks, heads the Agrarian Government. Observers say the labor faction will win easily, as the public is supposed to be tired of the agrarian leaders, who are accused of having almost ruined business in that State.

Labor will also try to win the elections in the state of Vera Cruz, where Governor Tejeda recently was in difficulties with the Federal Government, owing to continual alleged agrarian outrages.

With the control of three Cabinet posts and a majority of State Governors, labor, through President Calles, who is avowedly pro-labor, would then have complete control of Mexico's Government, with the strong support of organized labor, giving an opportunity to put over the complete labor program.

The Agrarians, while having strength in the farming districts, are unorganized and unable to compete with the organized and disciplined labor voters. The recent elections of labor Governors indicates a gradual abandonment of the present agrarian policy of the Government in restricting land distribution to bona fide public areas, and insistence upon the cultivation of the land when it is distributed.

With the assistance of these labor Governors the Federal Government will be able to get a clear understanding of the necessities of labor in outlying States and to formulate a general labor betterment policy. It is expected that the labor States will closely examine the new law which would benefit labor by causing a scientific study of the economic conditions of the Mexican labor population, forcing compulsory insurance, hospital care, and pensions for disabled workers.

It is stated that three States are now studying the establishing of working men's saving banks, which, with the agreement of the laborer, will take a small percentage of his wage for his account, to be returned to him when he quits the the job. Also under study is a project to establish welfare work among the families of laborers in order to give medical attention to children, and to teach the mothers modern methods of raising children. The labor States will insist upon the establishment of various schools where children who labor will have an opportunity to study. Such schools are especially needed in factories and industries located at a distance from public schools.

STATE ASKS DEATH FOR DRAKE BANDITS

THEY EXPECT NO CLEMENCY

Two Jurors Obtained Before One Defendant Collapses, Causing Court to Adjourn.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Two of the five gunmen who swept through the Drake Hotel in a mad raid on July 29 went to trial today for murder in the first degree. The defendants are Joseph W. Holmes, cowboy, and Jack Woods, alias Wilson, sailor, who followed William Mullenschuck in his hair-brained scheme to take a supposed quarter of a million dollars from the hotel safe. They are accused specifically of having killed Frank B. Rodkey, cashier, when he laughed at their display of firearms.

Charles H. Craig, Willis B. Wood and John D. Reynolds, appointed by the Court, appeared as counsel for the defense. They announced that they intended to make the plea that the men were insane at the time of the raid and that the best evidence of such insanity is the nature of the raid itself. Dr. H. S. Hulbert and Dr. Ben Reitman will be called as alienists. State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe is requiring from prospective jurors a willingness to inflict the death penalty.

Holmes and Woods showed little hope for clemency when they took their places at the table before the Judge. They had aged a little since the day of the robbery. One of their companions, the visionary Mullenschuck, got away with the few thousand dollars they found where they had hoped to find piles of riches. Two others, Carl Nelson and "Texas" Court, were killed in the raid. The defendants, without friends or money, base their meant hope for their lives on the testimony of two alienists who may or may not be credited by a jury.

The Drake Hotel was held up at 3:45 in the afternoon, when the lobbies and lounges were filled with women at tea. The five gunmen made their way unnoticed to the mezzanine floor and looted the offices. Court stood guard over the employes, but was suddenly cut off from his charges when a stenographer slammed a door in his face. Testimony of witnesses tends to show that it was he who fired the shot that killed Rodkey. Panic at the upset of the prearranged plan, rather than any indication of resistance on the part of the cashier, is believed to have been the cause.

The noise of the shot caused the robbers to rush from the building. Court was shot dead and Holmes captured as they ran out into Lake Shore Drive. Nelson was shot and killed after a thrilling chase to a flat building at Winona and Clark Streets. Woods was captured the next morning when he attempted to get medical attention for his thumb, which had been shot nearly off.

Mrs. Loretta Rodkey, widow of the slain man, and her sons, Frank Jr. and John, were in the court room. Mrs. Rodkey was in mourning.

Due possibly to the warm weather, only a few spectators were present. Wilson caused a halt in the proceedings late in the afternoon when he became nauseated. He was taken out by bailiffs. When Judge Hopkins was informed after a fifteen-minute wait that Wilson was still ill, he adjourned court until tomorrow. Two jurors had been tentatively accepted.

WILSON SUES JACOB FRANKS

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Echo of the murder of Bobbie Franks, committed by Nathan F. Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, in May, 1924, sounded in the Superior Court today when Attorneys Charles S. Wharton and Ralph Rosen filed a pracipe in behalf of Walter T. Wilson, asking $100,000 damages.

Wilson was a teacher at the Harvard School, which Bobbie Franks attended, and suffered, it is claimed, as a result of an investigation which sought to connect him with the murder, or with circumstances which led to the murder.

The defendants named include Jacob Franks, father of the murdered Bobbie; Samuel Ettleson, his attorney; Lieutenant Michael Grady and Philip Carroll of the Detective Bureau, and Officers Thomas Martin and William Smith of the Police Department.

The complainant states in the papers of the suit that although he was arrested and subjected to much bitter humiliation at the time, nothing was ever proved against him.

ONE OVERCOME BY HEAT.

After Day of Chill, Mercury Climbs to 89 at 3:30 P. M.

After a day of almost Fall weather the temperature suddenly climbed yesterday and brought discomfort to many. One man was reported overcome by the heat. He was David Harris of 11 Bowery. Mr. Harris, who is 60 years old, collapsed while walking in front of 165 East Broadway. He was taken to Gouverneur Hospital.

At 8 o'clock yesterday morning it was 66 degrees. By 11 o'clock it was 77 and the rise continued until 3:30 o'clock, when 89 degrees was recorded, the high mark of the day. The weather today will be fair and cooler.

Plane Falls Into Alpine Crevasse.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Aug. 31.—Inhabitants of the Alpine village of Dangio, in the Canton of Ticino, yesterday saw an airplane fall on the mountain 3,000 feet above and heard a loud explosion, followed by smoke. The machine was believed to have fallen to the bottom of a crevice, but villagers with ropes descended several crevices without finding anything. The aviation troop at Dubendorf states that no Swiss machines are missing, and that it may have been an alien airplane which lost its way. There is little hope of finding the aviator or possible passengers alive.

CHRYSLER SIX

Women Are Quick To Sense Chrysler Quality

The Chrysler Six taught the American public that neither high cost nor cumbersome size is necessary to the superfine motor car.

That's the reason for the ever strengthening hold of the new Chrysler Six upon the great numbers of discriminating men and women who are not satisfied with anything short of the utmost in motor car quality, comfort and performance.

Women especially find the Chrysler Six the ideal personal car—easy to handle, carefree, smooth running and delightful in its ease of riding.

The situation today is perfectly plain. Chrysler Six engineering, achieving even more revolutionary results, has simply made it unnecessary to pay a huge premium for motoring luxury.

In roadability, in generous seating capacity, in every phase of performance, in dependability and in long life, this new Chrysler Six equals, or surpasses, all the other fine cars.

Yet its new purchase price is far lower. Its upkeep cost is far lower. Its operating cost is far lower.

Add to this, the irresistible riding and driving appeal of the Chrysler Six to the man and woman who know motor cars—and you have one conclusive reason why new Chrysler Six sales mount month after month to new high marks.

Try this Chrysler Six performance yourself. We are always eager to have you prove the car's unprecedented results to your own satisfaction.

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 31.—Roland MacKenzie, 18-year-old Washington school boy, outstripped the entire field in the first qualifying round in the national amateur golf tourney over the long and difficult Oakmont Country Club course today with a score of 71, one stroke under par and two strokes better than the score of Bobby Jones of Atlanta, the highly favored defending champion.

MacKenzie, who is a member of the Columbia Country Club and a pupil of "Wee" Freddie McLeod, former national open champion, did what Max Marston, S. Davidson Herron, Francis Ouimet, Robert A. Gardner and Chick Evans Jr., all former national amateur champions, failed to do, and young MacKenzie did it to a queen's taste.

It was this youngster who attracted national attention for the first time at Merion last year when he forced George Von Elm, the runner-up, to go to the thirty-seventh green for his victory after Von Elm was eight up with only fifteen holes to play. His brilliant 71 was the sum total of a 38 out and a stupendous 33 in, his finishing holes being 3, 3, 3 where many others were highly elated to mark down three 4's.

MacKenzie's victory was somewhat of a surprise, for previous to today's round he had been having his troubles over the Oakmont layout, and there were some dead-eye sharpshooters aiming at the same bulls-eye that he was. One of these pot course, was Jones, himself a medal scorer of no mean ability, as his record in both the amateur and the open championships prove.

Guilford Follows Jones.

Jones had to play the second fiddle to MacKenzie today, however, although he played just about as good golf as it is possible to conceive when he made his 73. Immediately behind Jones was Jess Guilford, national amateur champion in 1921, for whom many unnecessary tears were being shed yesterday when it was reported that the Boston "mess gun" was in the throes of a terrible slump. There were only two other players capable of breaking 75. One was Jess Sweetser of New York, hero of the days at Brookline and Von Elm, the blond-haired California star.

Ten others of the 156 who started had 80 or less, sufficiently low, presumably, to shoot'em them safely into the match-play quota, provided they do as well tomorrow. Three of them finished with 76s, four at 77 and three at 78. The 76s were tied for by W. C. Fownes Jr., title holder in 1910, a home club player and the man chiefly responsible for the 200-odd traps in which others wallowed today; Bill Reekie of Upper Montclair, N. J., former metropolitan amateur champion, and Watts Gunn, a twenty-year-old counterpart of Bobby Jones, a fellow-citizen of Atlanta, and scheduled to take up the fight when Bobby is ready to retire.

Tied at 77 were Keefe Carter, nineteen-year-old Oklahoma boy, who holds the Western amateur title; Fred Knight of Philadelphia, James Manion of St. Louis and Arthur (Ducky) Yates of Rochester, all of them well-known linksmen whose only shortcoming has been their failure to thrive in national events.

Eddie Held of St. Louis, former trans-Mississippi champion; Ellsworth Augustus, a strapping youngster from Cleveland, and R. L. Wintringer, another Buckeye; and a former Princeton University golfer, compose the group tied at 78.

Two notables are in the 79 class, which, as matters now stand, represents the border line. One is Francis Ouimet, former open and amateur champion, who succeeded in getting where he is only after a courageous uphill struggle. Another is Harrison Johnston, the Minnesota State champion and one of the players fancied to be a dangerous competitor for the leading prize.

Garrick Nears Disaster.

Among the high lights who are beyond that point and whose being there threatens disaster are Don Carrick, the Canadian amateur champion, who had an 80; Marston, with an 81, and Herron, with an 82. Anything beyond the middle 70s for them tomorrow and their fate is deemed. Even worse off, however, is Gardner, a two-time winner of the title, and Rudy Knepper, old Princetonian and famous as the conqueror of two of the British threats at Brookline in 1923 and for Tolley's elimination in the play-off for the last qualifying play at Merion last year.

For a number of others, chief among them being Evans, the end came today in the shape of an unbelievable 87. A number of others joined him in sorrow—Dexter Cummings, for one; Ira Couch for another and Louis Jacoby, a Southern star, for still another. Theirs is a forlorn cause, the only cure for which will be something less than 70 tomorrow.

Reducing the national amateur championship field from the usual thirty-two to sixteen, which is being tried this year for the first time, may or may not work out as successfully as it was hoped it would. There were few among the starters in today's qualifying field, however, who wished the plan well.

Another day will have to pass before final judgment can be passed, but if things work out tomorrow as they did today the chances are that the enemies of the idea will greatly outnumber its friends. Unless there are some important changes at the finish of the concluding eighteen-hole round tomorrow afternoon the limited championship field will be minus several of the players who have been responsible for much of the championship lore in the past.

As matters now stand not a few of the country's outstanding amateurs are out of the picture completely, far beyond any possible redemption, while others are hanging perilously on the ragged edge of the long, long drop to oblivion. With the first eighteen-hole round finished there are fifteen who scored 78 or better, and among them are only three previous champions out of the list of nine who started in search of another title.

Play-Off Looms.

Should the scoring run along similar lines tomorrow, there will be a play-off among those who have a total of 158 for the two rounds. All of which means that there will be a gruelling fight tomorrow, with only the five who scored better than 75 in today's round practically insured of their places in the select sixteenth.

In setting the breakneck pace today MacKenzie had six birdies, three on each nine. His first came at the second hole, where he dropped a four-foot putt; the second at the 536-yard fourth, where his brassie second was so close that failure to run down a two-yard putt lost him an eagle 3, and the third at the fifth hole, where he nearly holed a mashie pitch for an eagle 2. His only mistakes up to the ninth were on the third and ninth holes. At the first of them he was short, pitched too strong, and at the other he failed to reach the green with his second shot and then took three putts.

On the incoming nine he was over par figures only once, that being at the eleventh, where he took a 5. He lost no time atoning for the sin, for at the 421-yard twelfth, which was the ruination of many others, he shipped his third shot dead to the hole. The next four holes were played in perfect figures, and then he finished with a pair of birdie 3s, the one at the seventeenth being manufactured by a drive that nearly reached the green and the last by the holing of a ten-foot putt.

Jones started his round much after the manner in which he started his record-breaking round of 67 on Saturday. In fact, the only difference in the two was that today he had 32 putts, while on Saturday he needed only 26. After getting past the third hole Bobby played every hole in par or better except the eleventh, where he hooked his drive into a trap and had to explode out, losing a stroke. His driving was perfect—long and straight—two essentials to low scoring on this man-eating course.

Jones Misses Chance.

Bobby missed a chance for a birdie 4 at the first hole when he failed to get down a four-foot putt after missing the green with his second. He missed a twenty-foot putt for a 3 at the second and then took three putts on the third. After that, however, his mistakes were few and far between. He was favored by a number of good putts coming in, especially a twenty-five footer at the fourteenth and a ten-footer on both the fifteenth and seventeenth.

Guilford's 74 might well have been a 72 except for his 6 at the ninth, which is not beyond his reach, and one or two other slip-ups of a minor nature. He had a chance for the low score on the outgoing nine holes, when he hooked his second badly to the ninth and then took two more to reach the green.

Sweetser missed a number of putts that he would ordinarily get, otherwise the play of the Siwanoy star left nothing to be desired. The best score for the first nine was that of Gunn, who was out in 37, matching par hole for hole up to the eleventh, where he had a four-putt green which wasn't of his own making, for his ball was in a hole and he had to use an iron for his approach putt. He failed to get the ball up to the hole and finally missed a short putt and took a 6. Another 6 followed at the twelfth hole, but from there on he was as steady as a rock.

After taking 42 to the turn and starting back 6, 6, 5, the clouds gathered over Ouimet, but the Bostonian made a grand finish to keep himself within fighting distance of the leaders. The downfall of Herron, who won his title over this same course in 1919 when he defeated Jones in the famous final, came with a rush. Out in 37, Davey was looked upon as a possible leader, but only once did he equal par thereafter. Six 5s and two 6s appeared on his card from the turn on, when he suffered one of the greatest form reversals ever seen at a championship. From a point where nothing would go wrong, his career changed to where nothing would go right, and nothing but a miracle round tomorrow will save him.

Marston in Trouble.

Marston, who played with Gardner, struggled along in a slip-shod fashion, four 6s and one 7 telling the story fully as well as words can do. The fourteenth and fifteenth were disastrous, for although they were par 4 holes one cost him a 7 and the other a 6. Five shots were wasted right there and he did well to get his 81. Gardner started with a 6, took a 7 at the fourth hole and finished with an 8 on the ninth, where he was twice tripped and took three putts.

Von Elm, after a rather ragged exhibition, finished strongly with three 4s, a 3 and a 4 on the eighteenth. He had trouble in negotiating the first nine, but all the other performers met the same difficulty, only two of them negotiating the distance in par figures, Watts Gunn and Davis Herron, hero of the past, who fell to pieces on his final nine to take a 46 and total 82.

FIVE-CENT PUTTER RUINS EVANS'S CARD

Club He Once Sold for Nickel and Begged Back From Lady Fails Him on Greens.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 31.—One of the largest first-day crowds in the history of the U. S. G. A. championships turned out to watch the country's golfers play their opening qualifying round today. It was estimated that fully 5,000 persons followed the various stars at one time or another.

The first pair to draw a gallery were Marston and Gardner, who were the first of the top-notchers to start out. The two ex-champions were soon dropped, however, and there was a rush for Jones and young Carter, who carried a large gallery crowd around with them throughout. In the afternoon it was Evans and Densmore Shute, a Wheeling, W. Va., golfer, who attracted the largest following. Both galleries were rewarded. In Jones's case they saw golf of the highest order; in Evans's the debacle of one of the greatest figures of the game.

Poor old Chick! In all his born days he has never had to suffer what he suffered today. After his 70 at Allegheny it was almost a sure-thing bet that he would qualify easily. Nothing went right for him today, although the chief blame lies with his putter. Using an old-fashioned cleek-faced implement instead of the stirrup type which he used for years, he couldn't drop anything, long or short.

The story is that he sold the putter with which he defeated Ouimet at the Engineers Club in 1920 to a young lady for 5 cents, but afterward begged it back. He tried it once today, but it worked no better than the newly acquired implement. For him the three putt greens outnumbered the two putt ones two to one.

Brown University is bound to figure heavily in the playing of the next national intercollegiate championship, for Roland MacKenzie, who led today's qualifying field, will matriculate there in the Fall.

His sterling performance is likely to give rise to a new school of thought in golf. Until last Wednesday MacKenzie had not touched a golf club for more than six weeks. Shortly after the school term ended young Roland, thoroughly tired out as a result of his arduous Spring with school and innumerable tournaments, was shipped bag and baggage out to a ranch in Colorado.

There wasn't a golf links within miles and the youngster had no incentive to try out his clubs. When he returned to Washington he immediately got in touch with his old mentor, Freddie McLeod, and he is now playing better than ever before. He attributes it to his long rest.

The record that MacKenzie has already compiled for the season stamps him as one of the outstanding golfers of the year. Playing in the Washington Country, Indian Spring, Chevy Chase and Columbia Country Club events, one after another he won all of them, and another honor came his way when he won the Middle Atlantic States championship. He is a long hitter, a fine iron player and an exceptionally good putter.

If Rudy Knepper fails to qualify he can put the entire blame on a grasshopper. Just as Rudy was about to drive off the first tee, one of these beasts hopped over his ball. As a result Rudy took his eye off the ball and pushed it out of bounds. Before he knew it he had counted an 8 on the first hole.

The first shot that Bobby Jones fired in defense of his 1924 title split the middle of the fairway.

The day was ideal for golf, although the weather was very sticky. The predictions were for rain, but it held off, although the sky was overcast all day long. There was not a breath of wind to carry shots out of their paths.

One of the hardest-working officials is Jim Preston, who is assisting J. T. McMahon, Executive Secretary of the U. S. G. A., on the scoreboard. Preston, who is a thirty-third degree golf fan, is known throughout the world through his long years of service in charge of the Senate press gallery in Washington. He knows almost everybody well enough to call them by their first names. He has never been known to forget either a face or a name.

Among those present at the twenty-ninth tournament are the three musketeers of golf, Tom Logan of Boston, Ganson Depew of Buffalo and George F. Rose of Pittsburgh. None of them has missed an amateur tournament in fifteen years or more.

Twenty-six States are represented in the tournament, in addition to the District of Columbia and Canada.

The youngest player in the tournament today was Ellsworth Giles Jr. of Allegheny, who will be eighteen his next birthday. He is a freshman at Princeton and went through the season without losing either a singles or doubles match. Against the Yale yearlings at Greenwich last Spring he had a 73 and a 74. The oldest man in the tournament is no doubt John A. (Deaf) Gammons of Wannamoisett, Providence. Giles had a 91, Gammons an 86, proving that youth isn't everything.

The Oakmont course boasts of 200 bunkers, and several of the players paid a personal call on nearly all of them.

YANKS HOME TODAY TO MEET RED SOX

Open Series at Stadium as Giants and Robins Remain Idle—Brooklyn Gets Shortstop

By RICHARDS VIDMER.

With the end of the baseball season in sight, there is little joy in the life of the local fan. The Giants are hopelessly out of the running for their fifth straight pennant and struggling to hang on to the runner-up position; the Robins' main energies are being spent keeping in the first division, and the Yankees, who come home today, can't move in either direction.

There is some consolation in the Yankees' plight, for, although they can't expect to climb, being seven games behind the Indians, there isn't much chance of their sinking any lower in the league, as they have a lead of fifteen games on the Red Sox, who are occupying the cellar.

The Giants are seven and a half games behind the league-leading Pirates, and their attention is mainly attracted by the close-pursuing Reds, three and a half games to the rear. The Robins are in a like predicament, five and a half games back of the Reds and with the Cards just three games behind.

The rest of the race for the Giants and Robins will be a defensive one, in which they will try to hold their present positions on hostile territory, but the Yanks can rest easy. They can't expect to go any place anyway.

For the most part the local managers, Messrs. McGraw, Huggins and Robinson, are looking toward the future and planning drastic measures to put their teams back on the market for a world's series somewhere in the neighborhood. If the whispers of the clubhouse mean anything, all three teams are going to be shaken up like a subway crowd.

The Giants and Yankees have plenty of trading material, and no doubt many old and familiar faces will be missing in the vicinity of the Polo Grounds and Yankee Stadium when the dawn of next season climbs over the horizon. Huggins and McGraw have been combing the minors in search of promising youngsters, and Manager Robinson has been just as active over in Brooklyn.

The Robins added another likely looking youngster to their lists yesterday, when they announced the purchase of Shortstop Charlie Corgan from the Wichita club of the Western League for something more than $10,000. Corgan has been hitting .305 from both sides of the plate during the present campaign and includes among his bingles eighteen home runs. The managers of the circuit unanimously proclaim him the best shortstop in the league, according to Uncle Robbie, who isn't in the habit of praising untried rookies, and he is supposed to have speed afoot, lack of which is something that has hurt the Robins more than any other thing this season, not excepting poor pitching.

The well-known "gang," by the way, is now intact, Dazzy Vance being the only hurler on the Brooklyn staff who has finished his last start on the mound. And even the great Dazzy lost. However, Ehrhardt, Osborne, Petty, Grimes and Cantrell have all turned in some pretty fair performances of late, and the pitching staff isn't as badly off as it appears at first glance.

The Yankees come home today to meet the Red Sox, while the Giants and Robins move out of town. Neither of the local National League clubs will work today, but the Giants meet the Phillies in the Quaker City tomorrow in a double-header, starting a five-game series, and the Robins will face the Braves at Boston in the first of four games.

"Bill Hart," Macfarlane's Caddie in Open, May Prove a 'Two Gun Man' in Amateur

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 31.—The caddie who carried the bag for Roland MacKenzie, today's qualifying leader in the national amateur championship at Oakmont, was the same one who toted Willie Macfarlane's club when the Oak Ridge star captured the national open championship at Worcester last June. He was Bill Savage, a course policeman at the Winged Foot Club, whom Macfarlane dubbed "Bill Hart."

At the time of his victory, Macfarlane shared his $500 purse with Savage, that being the terms agreed upon before the tournament started. It is Savage's idea that MacKenzie is going to win the amateur crown. Should such be the case the Winged Footer will have had the honor of carrying the clubs of both the open and amateur champions. He got a good start today.

Savage said today that patrolling was his life's work, but he would rather do his walking on the greens of a golf course than the streets of a city. He further declared that since he had decided to walk the greens, national championships would be his goal and that, since he had arrived at that, all that remained was to pick the winner each time.

SID TERRIS WINS FROM BERNSTEIN

FELIX IN DRAWN BATTLE

By JAMES P. DAWSON.

Sid Terris hurdled a difficult obstacle in his path to the lightweight championship last night at the Queensboro Stadium, Long Island City, where before a crowd of 6,933 boxing fans who paid $22,100 in gate receipts, he carried off the decision over Jack Bernstein, Yonkers lad, in their twelve-round bout. He then heard himself booed as he left the ring triumphant.

Terris, fighting one of his best battles against a foe who has upset the championship ambitions of other prominent lightweights in the past, carried off the decision of Judges Tom Flynn and Eddie Purdy and Referee Jack O'Sullivan after an interesting exhibition.

Terris earned the decision to the satisfaction of the unbiased, but it was a strictly partisan crowd which witnessed the scrap. As a consequence Terris was subjected to a demonstration which was strangely reminiscent of that accorded Eugene Criqui.

But the demonstration could not offset the fact that Terris had won the battle cleanly and clearly. Terris carried off seven of the twelve rounds. He won the fifth and, in a sustained rally which overcame Bernstein's greatest efforts, won every round from the seventh to the final bell.

Bernstein won four of the rounds. He showed to advantage in the early part of the battle, when, after holding Terris even in the first, he carried off the second, third and fourth by outboxing and outhitting Terris at every turn. After being outpointed in the fifth, Bernstein came back in the sixth and, with his whirlwind effort earned this round, but it was his last impressive showing.

Terris took the lead in the seventh and carried the fighting from then on.

Bernstein closed with a furious rally in the last two rounds and fought viciously over every second of the closing sessions. But his offensive was erratic and unsteady, and Terris marched on to victory.

It was an interesting boxing match between two lads skilled in the finer points of the ring sport. Terris, not his rival's equal in defensive skill, had the greater stamina and the more effective offensive style, and these were elements which decided the battle in favor of the little east side youngster.

For the first half of the twelve rounds it was a battle of left hands and ring cunning. Bernstein had a left hook which befuddled Terris and was leading Terris on points when the battle was half over. Then Terris started, and when he once got under way he never stopped. From the seventh until the finish Terris pecked and stabbed Bernstein's face and body with a left that was accurate and had enough force to send Bernstein's head tilting backward.

Bernstein fought under the handicap of a cut over the left eye, an injury he carried into the ring with him and which was aggravated by Terris's constant stabbing with his left. Terris started blood coming from this wound in the eighth round and made the injury a target throughout the rest of the fight.

In the mist of a whirlwind rally in the twelfth round the heads of the lads came together with a thud, and a fresh flow of blood started from Bernstein's injured eye which then and there halted Jack's closing drive. Terris weighed 132½ pounds and Bernstein 131¾.

Harry Felix, stablemate of Terris, appeared, to the satisfaction of the crowd, to have boxed his way to the decision over Charlie Rosen, his neighbor from the east side, in the twelve-round semi-final, but Felix had to be content with a draw, which was the opinion of Judges Tom Flynn and Eddie Purdy, and Referee Tommy Sheridan collaborated in just such a decision.

Russell Whalen, Chicago lightweight, won the decision over Al Clitty of the Bronx in the first bout of the night, a four-round encounter which furnished satisfactory action for the big crowd. The second battle, which went its scheduled six rounds, produced an interesting drawn clash between Paul Guliotta, Brooklyn lightweight, and Paul Fargo of Tuckahoe.

RUPPERT DECLARES HUGGINS WILL STAY

Says Ruth Must Make Peace With Manager If He Is to Play With Yanks Again.

BABE ON WAY TO NEW YORK

Leaves Chicago Upon Being Informed Landis Is on Vacation —Huggins Is Here.

Babe Ruth, maker of home runs, may have played his last game as a Yankee. Unless he can make his peace with Miller J. Huggins, manager of the club, there is very little chance that the man who reigned as the idol of America's youth can ever again don a Yankee uniform.

This was made clear yesterday when Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, made the statement that whatever action was to be taken in Ruth's case rested solely with Huggins. And in view of the fact that Ruth has declared that he will not again play with the Yankees so long as Huggins is the manager it is taken for granted that the ultimatum will leave baseball's most famous man out in the cold.

Colonel Ruppert yesterday declared that he still was firm in his stand for Huggins. Though on record as backing Huggins to the limit, it was not until yesterday that it was learned that the owner of the Yankees had taken the stand that as between Ruth and Huggins there was only one choice and that choice was Huggins.

Ruth is due in New York this morning on the Twentieth Century Limited. He may seek an immediate interview with Manager Huggins, who returned last night on the Olympic Fast Express with the Yankee team from St. Louis. The outcome of this interview will be momentous, at least for Ruth.

Huggins Says Ban Stands.

When Huggins got in with the Yankee squad last night he was reluctant to say much about the Ruth incident. Huggins alighted from the train at 125th Street and departed immediately for his home, not far from the Yankee Stadium.

"The suspension of Ruth stands, so far as I am concerned," said Huggins. "I did not take any hasty action, but I don't care to go into the details just now. I wish to see Colonel Ruppert before I say anything, and if any statements are necessary Colonel Ruppert can make them."

Ruth has declared that he will not play so long as Huggins is manager of the Yankees. Colonel Ruppert yesterday declared that Huggins could remain as the manager of the Yankees so long as he wished. The only inference to be taken is that Huggins is in command of the situation.

In fact, when questioned yesterday Business Manager Barrow declared that whatever peace terms might eventuate would have to originate with Huggins and Ruth and that the owner, Colonel Ruppert, would not interfere with Huggins's program.

The possibilities of a Ruth sale or a deal in which he might be traded were the cause of much conjecture and interest at a ten-day period Ruth then will have the right of appeal. However, his chances of assistance from Landis are slim because of previous difficulties, one of which was the defying of the Commissioner's edict against exhibition games.

Johnson Sought to Warn Babe.

That Ruth's present predicament didn't come about as the result of any particular offense was indicated today by President Ban Johnson of the American League. Having had reports of the Babe's activities off the ball field, Johnson sent for the one-time home run artist when the Yankees were playing in Chicago in July. The American League chief intended to tell Ruth that he was ruining his own career and that he was a detriment instead of a help to the ball team. Ruth never responded to the summons.

"Guess he was too busy writing syndicate articles," Johnson explained.

Johnson, who promulgates all the league rulings, also ordered the information that Ruth's present salary is $52,500 a year. During his Sunday night talk on Huggins as a manager, Ruth stated that his contract had another year to run, but, according to Johnson, the agreement can be broken at any time by the New York club. The head of the American League feels certain that the club will accept the privilege that Ruppert will stand behind his manager and that Ruth may not play with the Yanks again this season.

Baseball contracts are on a six-months' basis so Ruth for the last several seasons had been drawing $1,000 a week. Salary automatically ceases when a suspension is plastered on a player, so in addition to the $5,000 fine assessed by Manager Huggins the banished player is losing approximately $300 for every day he remains on the banished list. If he is not reinstated this season his vacation will cost him about $3,600 worth of spy change.

Just before getting aboard the Century, accompanied by his pet portable victrola and his huge suitcase that contained, among other things, nine pairs of white flannel trousers, for which he has a failing, Ruth said the boys had given him a fuller time than he had anticipated. They kept him saying things about Huggins for a couple hours Sunday night and were back at his room early this morning. He was not very talkative.

"Guess I said enough last night," was the extent of his conversation.

verbal assault let loose in the direction of Huggins on Sunday night, climbed aboard the Century this afternoon, without having a chance to plead his case before Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis.

The $50,000 per annum Commissioner is summering at Burt Lake, Mich., so the $52,500 player made no effort to communicate with the office of the boss of the game.

Ruth, however, still insisted that he had been handled harshly and that statements about his gadding around at night and drinking had placed him in a false light. That's what he wanted to tell the Commissioner.

Over the long-distance phone Landis expressed surprise that Ruth should be seeking him. He wanted to know where Ruth was and whether the player had actually announced an intention to pay the Supreme Court of Baseball a visit.

Evidently convinced that Ruth had come to Chicago from St. Louis for the purpose of seeing him, Landis said that there was nothing to prevent the player from making a flying trip to Burt Lake. Landis even offered information about trains, but when it was suggested to Babe he said he wouldn't bother but would go back to New York to tell Ruppert that he wouldn't play under Huggins next season.

Whether Ruth will make any further effort to talk to Landis is doubtful. He knew that the Commissioner could take no action at this time because of his case being a purely sub rosa baseball affair, but if the banishment proceeds a ten-day period Ruth then will have the right of appeal. However, his chances of assistance from Landis are slim because of previous difficulties, one of which was the defying of the Commissioner's edict against exhibition games.

Three Races Are Won by Lea in International 6-Meter Trials

LEA WINS 3 RACES IN 6-METER TRIALS

LIGHT BREEZES PREVAIL

Eleven Yachts Compete Over Course Off Oyster Bay—Contests to Be Resumed Today.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., Aug. 31.—Elimination races to pick a team of four yachts to meet the six-meter representatives of the Scandinavian countries were started off here today under the auspices of the Seawanhaka Corinthian Yacht Club. Three races were sailed. In the first the fleet of eleven craft was divided into two divisions, the first containing five and the second six boats. This race was over a triangular course of six and one-half miles.

Then came match races over a five-mile windward and leeward course. The final race also was a match contest, the yachts again sailing to windward and return, the race, however, being only three miles. At no time during the day did the craft have anything but light breezes. In the morning the wind was moderate and from the west-southwest. It then backed into the west and became very light. The first of the match races was only a drifting match.

The wind was even lighter for the second match contest. Toward sundown it moved into the east and freshened. Still it never was a good sailing breeze. As a result, the light-weather boats showed up best. Lea, Question and Madcap, in particular, doing good work. Still, the picking of the team is arbitrary and the committee need not depend upon the actual races in making its choice.

On the committee boat today were C. Hoyt, Commodore Curtis, R. W. Emmons and S. Outerbridge, together with other well-known members of the Oyster Bay club. They got some valuable data on light-weather boats, which will be used in picking the team.

As an example, Lea, which has been on the American team in every international six-meter race, won the first division of the first race today. The Birmingham craft was sailed by C. Sherman Hoyt, who also has always represented the United States in these contests. She also won each of her match races, beating J. M. Hoyt's Dauphin in the first windward and leeward contest and Henry R. Plant's Natka in the second brush.

Dauphin was the winner of the second division of the triangular race, and in the second windward azad leeward race she defeated Gerald W. Ford's Question. The latter craft beat C. H. Crane's Red Head in the first match race. In the second match race Madcap was the winner over Madison Haythe's Iris and Robert Weed's Jean. The series will be resumed today and will continue throughout the week until the team is selected.

STRIBLING WINS IN SIXTH.

Georgian Knocks Out Warren in Bout at Dallas, Texas.

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 31 (AP).—Young Stribling of Macon, Ga., knocked out Fess Warren of Athens, Texas, in the sixth round of a scheduled ten-round boxing bout here tonight. The bell saved Warren in the fifth round. It was Stribling's fight all the way.

Tommy West Shades Arthurs.

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 31 (AP).—Tommy West of Trenton shaded Charley Arthurs of Newark in a ten-round match at the Laurel A. C., according to newspapermen at the ringside here tonight. In the semi-final Joe Derando of Lyndhurst defeated Babe Adams of Arlington in another ten-round bout. Al Bryant of Newark outpointed Benny Nabors of New York in a ten-round junior lightweight preliminary contest.

Kline Subs for Mars and Wins.

COVINGTON, Ky., Aug. 31 (AP).—Knockout Mars appeared at the arena here tonight with a sprained back and the club physician refused to permit him to box Tony Sanders of Chicago. Patsy Kline of Cincinnati subbed for Mars and shaded the Chicagoan in a ten-round contest.

New York Boxer Wins in Illinois.

AURORA, Ill., Aug. 31 (AP).—Ray Miller, Chicago featherweight, fought ten rounds to a draw with Chick Suggs, New Bedford, Mass., negro tonight. Archie Bell of New York shaded Connie Curry, Sioux City bantamweight, in ten rounds.

Reno Outpoints Rogers.

Hall Will Battle Anderson.

A six-round bout between Lee Anderson and Roscoe Hall heads the boxing program for the Ridgewood Grove S. C., Brooklyn, this Saturday night. Four other six-round bouts and a four-round encounter are scheduled.

Mlle. Lenglen, With Count Salm, Suffers Year's First Defeat

DEAUVILLE, France, Aug. 31 (AP).—Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, France's dazzling tennis star, came out on the losing side for the first time this season when she and Count Ludwig-Salm-Hoogstraten were defeated yesterday by Mlle. Huches and M. Arago in the mixed doubles final of the international tournament here. Mlle. Lenglen was in fine form and played all over the court, but she could not quite compensate for the weakness of the Count, who went in with an injured hand. However, she won the singles final, defeating Miss Daphne Akhurst of Australia, 6–2, 6–3.

HELMS TAKES TITLE IN N. Y. STATE CHESS

Beats Lear in Fourth Match of Play-Off After 45 Moves in Buffalo.

Special to The New York Times.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Winning the fourth game and finishing with a score of 3–1, Herman Helms of New York defeated J. L. Lear of this city and gained the championship of the New York State Chess Association for the ensuing year late tonight. The new champion, who succeeds Carlos Torre as titleholder, had a white side of a queen's gambit declined and by means of a pretty combination he captured his opponent's queen and scored after forty-five moves.

Earl L. Janowit, another Buffalo player, by drawing his adjourned game with Dr. H. M. Coss today, earned third place for himself in the championship tournament of the State Association, which was thereby concluded. Janowitz finished with a score of 4½–2½ and Dr. Coss took fourth place with 4–3.

Two other games were played today by the victor and his rival. The first was won by the Buffalo star, who gained his victory on the fifty-fourth move. The issue had been settled to all practical purposes, however, on the forty-second move, for the New York man erred in placing a knight on a square where both could go. With the move of a king's pawn bear won a piece, and that soon decided matters.

The third game was won by Helms in thirty-seven moves. Lear had the white side of a Fianchetto defense, which presently ran into a variation of the queen's gambit declined. On the sixteenth move the Buffalo player captured his adversary's queen's rook's pawn and lost a knight in trying to extricate the queen.

ROSE WANTS TO BUY KEARNS'S CONTRACT

Wires Offer of $150,000 to Dempsey's Manager for His Interest in Champion.

The heavyweight title situation in boxing simply refuses to stay put. Jack Dempsey, Jack Kearns and the championship bobbed into the limelight again yesterday when Charlie Rose, manager of Bartley Madden and local representative of Promoter Floyd Fitzsimmons of Michigan City, announced he had submitted by wire to Kearns, who is in California, a proposition to buy the manager's interest in Dempsey for the sum of $150,000. Rose said he has the backing of two men whose identity he declines to reveal at this time.

Rose's offer was contained in the following telegram which the manager said he sent to Kearns:

"Would you be willing to sell your contract with Jack Dempsey? Will give you $150,000 in cash. Will leave for Los Angeles with the money upon an answer to this wire if you mean business."

Rose then sent the following to Promoter Fitzsimmons in Michigan City:

"Be sure and be here Wednesday. Wills gets in Thursday."

Rose stated that if he can induce Kearns to sell his interest in Dempsey for the period which will cover a meeting between Dempsey and Wills in Michigan City, the manager's cut of the champion's earnings from this bout will exceed $150,000 and produce a handsome profit on the investment he proposes to make.

Of course, the entire arrangement has to meet with the approval of Kearns and Dempsey. Rose said he hasn't yet approached Dempsey on the matter, but he nevertheless expressed confidence that the arrangement would prove satisfactory to the champion, who, at last reports, was striving by every means at his disposal to discard Kearns.

The proposition, however, failed to arouse any great excitement here.

Fitzsimmons Expresses Doubts.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Aug. 31 (AP).—Promoter Floyd Fitzsimmons today said he had not authorized Charlie Rose to offer Jack Kearns $150,000 for his contract with Jack Dempsey.

"I guess Rose is after some free publicity," he commented.

Bout May Go to Coast.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31 (AP).—"If any arrangements were made for a Harry Wills-Jack Dempsey title bout at a conference yesterday between the heavyweight boxing champion and Lewis B. Mayer, motion picture producer, they were not revealed by spokesmen for the negotiators.

Dempsey's representative said an announcement would be forthcoming on Wednesday as to the progress of the project to finance a Wills-Dempsey bout in Los Angeles next July with motion picture money.

KUPCHIK VICTOR AT CHESS.

But Still Is Tied for Western Lead as Jaffe Also Wins.

Special to The New York Times.

CEDAR POINT, Ohio, Aug. 31.—A. Kupchik of New York and C. Jaffe of the Progressive C. C., New York, tied for the lead by defeating their opponents in the twenty-sixth annual tournament for the championship of the Western Chess Association here today. Third and fourth places for the time being are held by M. Palmes and S. Factor.

Today's results:

Round 8—Palmer adjourned with Winter. Kupchik defeated Factor, Palmi defeated Maxfield, Wildermoyer lost to Jaffe, Gelber lost to Margolis, Skilmer vs. Sweet, and Barron vs. Spero adjourned.

Round 9—Spero lost to Winter, Jaffe defeated Barron, Gerwenar lost to Kupchik, Margolis drew with Wildermoyer, Winter defeated Palmi, Factor drew with Skilmer and Maxfield vs. Goerlet adjourned.

Mack Stops Kennedy in Eighth.

The Associated Press.

BROWN DEFEATS GRAY ON COURTS

St. Louis Star Advances in Southern New York Tourney by 6-2, 6-2 Victory.

HADI ELIMINATES SHERIDAN

By ALLISON DANZIG.

Special to The New York Times.

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Wray Brown of St. Louis and Sam Hadi of India reached the round before the semi-final of the Southern New York State tennis championship today on the courts of the Westchester Biltmore Country Club. In the fourth round Brown defeated C. A. Gray at 6–2, 6–2, and Hadi put out A. B. Sheridan of the Yale tennis team at 6–4, 7–5. These were the only two matches played today.

Tomorrow afternoon Hadi will meet Percy L. Kynaston in one of the feature matches, the winner to go into the semi-finals. Two interesting third-round matches remain to be played. In one Cedric Mayer of the West Side Tennis Club, who has been going strong all season and who defeated A. H. Chapin Jr. of Springfield, Mass., in an exhausting battle at Southampton, will meet Louis B. Dailey Jr. of East Orange, N. J. Dailey's play at Wimbledon made an impression on the English critics, and his work in this tournament, his first since his return here, is being closely followed.

Anton F. Von Bernuth of the Montclair A. C. will be opposed to E. E. Jenkins Jr. in the other third-round contest. Herbert Bowman and Henry Bassford will meet in a fourth-round match, while Kenneth Fisher will play the winner of the Von Bernuth-Jenkins struggle and Ludlow Vandeventer will be opposed to the survivor of the match between Dailey and Mayer.

Brown was never pressed in winning over Gray. His strokes were under good control and he forced his openings in pretty fashion for finishing shots at the net. Gray was unable to handle his sharply sliced drives with accuracy and was guilty of a large number of errors.

The match between Hadi and Sheridan was much more of a struggle. The Yale star's sharp service and angling placements kept his opponent from far-off India working hard, and had he been a bit steadier he probably would have taken at least one of the sets. In the second chapter the American led at 5–3 and dropped four games in succession. Hadi chopped and volleyed with precision, handled Sheridan's speed in admirable fashion and was considerably the steadier of the two.

Play in the doubles tournament will start on Wednesday or Thursday. A number of players competing in the tournament at the Essex Club, Manchester, Mass., are expected to come here for the doubles, including Lewis N. White and Louis Thalheimer of the University of Texas, who defeated Lacoste and Borotra, the French Davis Cup team, at Boston, and possibly the Kinsey brothers and Brian Norton, who will pair with Brown if he comes to Rye.

DAVIS CUP STARS READY.

U. S. Players Will Go to Philadelphia Saturday for Challenge Round.

William T. Tilden 2d, William Johnston, Vincent Richards and Captain R. Norris Williams 2d, the four players named on the United States Davis Cup team, will leave for the Germantown Cricket Club, Philadelphia, at the end of this week to begin intensive practice for the challenge round match with the winner of the interzone final between France and Australia. In accordance with Davis Cup regulations, which provide that the members of the team must be named ten days in advance of the matches, Julian S. Myrick, Chairman of the United States Lawn Tennis Association Davis Cup Committee, formally announced again yesterday the selection of the four players for the team.

It is not necessary under the regulations to name who will play the singles and the doubles matches until twenty-four hours before play starts and the Davis Cup Committee has not yet publicly made known whether Richards or Johnston will play the singles with Tilden or whether Tilden and Johnston or Richards and Williams will play the doubles.

M. ALONSO ESCAPES DEFEAT

Conquers Chapin in Essex Tennis After Trailing 4-1 in Last Set.

MANCHESTER, Mass., Aug. 31 (AP).—Manuel Alonso of Spain was all but eliminated from play today in the opening round of the first invitation tennis tournament to be played on the courts of the Essex County Country Club. Trailing 4-1 in the third set, Alonso only pulled out a victory when A. H. Chapin Jr. of Springfield, apparently affected by the heat, lost five straight games in a row.

American stars from Rhode Island, Illinois, Texas and California survived first round matches as did Eduardo Flaquer of Spain. Among those to advance were Craston Holman, national junior champion; W. W. Ingraham, A. W. Jones, B. I. C. Norton, Lucien B. Williams and Lewis White of Texas, who put out Jose Alonso.

STASSEN WINS RIFLE TITLE.

Youth, 18, With Perfect Score of 400, Takes Intercity Honors.

CAMP PERRY, Ohio, Aug. 31 (AP).—With a perfect score of 400, Harold Stassen, 18 years old, of St. Paul, Minn., won the national intercity shooting championship here today. Stassen fired twenty shots prone, sitting, kneeling and standing. His score also made him junior champion in the National Rifle Association.

Theodore Hermanio, New Haven, Conn., was first in the intermediate division championship match for boys under 18. He shot 396 out of a possible 400.

The Canadian rifle team from Ottawa, with Lieut. Col. R. J. Birdwhistle in command, arrived today.

CYCLE STARS RACE TONIGHT

Will Compete in Mile Title Race at New York Velodrome.

The one-mile national professional championship, the twenty-second in a series of twenty-four races to decide the cycling championship of America, will be one of the stellar attractions tonight at the New York Velodrome. This event is expected to furnish a keen struggle in which Freddie Spencer, Willie Spencer and Bobby Walthour Jr. are expected to take a prominent part. Freddie Spencer now is leading the race for the sprint title with 36 points, while Bobby Walthour is second with 34 and Willie Spencer is third with 33.

Amateurs at Canarsie Tonight.

Amateur boxers will have their inning tonight at the Golden City Arena, Canarsie, where an amateur boxing tournament under the auspices of the Metropolitan A. A. U. is scheduled. Ten three-round bouts will be held.

Jack Wallace, Rutgers Coach, Recovering After Operation

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. Aug. 31.—Jack Wallace, head coach of the Rutgers University football team, is in Middlesex Hospital tonight where he is resting comfortably after an operation performed yesterday for appendicitis. Gangrene developed after the operation and it was announced during the day that little hope was held for his recovery. Tonight, however, physicians stated that his condition had improved and that his chances were good. He was graduated from Rutgers in 1915 and took the post as football coach when Foster Sanford retired in 1923.

LEAFS CLIP WINGS OF SKEETERS, 11 TO 3

Toronto Takes Series Opener After Poor Start—Three Banished by Umpire.

TORONTO, Aug. 31.—Toronto defeated Jersey City, 11 to 3, in the first game of their four-game series today. The Leafs spotted the Skeeters three runs in the first inning and then started out to trim them badly. Cliff Best failed to last and Sloan finished. The locals had a gala afternoon with their hitting, getting seventeen safe blows.

Umpire Gerald Hayes banished Catcher Manion, Acting Manager O'Hara and Joe Kelly, who was coaching at third base, during the game. President Colomon of the Toronto club has protested putting Manion out of the game.

CURRY GETS HOOKE'S POST

To Be Made Chief of Athletic Commission Deputies Today.

Eddie Curry will be formally appointed Chief of Deputies of the State Athletic Commission, and Daniel Skilling will be promoted from the office of Secretary to the post of Deputy at this morning's meeting of the commission, according to plans announced by Chairman James A. Farley. The changes will fill the vacancy caused by the resignation some time ago of Walter Hooke as Chief of Deputies.

Chairman Farley said no official appointment has as yet been made to fill the vacancy, which will be caused by the advancement of Skilling. It is understood, however, that Bert Stand has been suggested for Skilling's place and is being favorably considered.

FOOTBALL PRACTICE AT COLUMBIA TODAY

SEVEN REGULARS IN SQUAD

Pease, Sesit and Empringham Available but New Coach Must Find Successor for Koppisch.

With seven of last year's regulars available and a host of experienced reserve men of 1924 to build his football team from, Head Coach Charley Crowley will start his 1925 Columbia football practice sessions at Baker Field this afternoon. Seldom has a Columbia season started more auspiciously than this one. A squad of thirty-five men will report, better quarters will be found in the Manor House, which has been remodeled, and a strong staff of coaches will be on hand to drill the candidates.

This afternoon's work will be light, consisting of issuing uniforms and a few jogs around the field. In the evening in the Manor House Coach Crowley will deliver a blackboard lecture and from this time on hard work will be the order. There will be two practices a day, one in the morning and another in the afternoon, to be followed by blackboard work every evening.

The training period will last three weeks, after which the general call for candidates will be issued. The men then will be divided into squads and the weeding out process will commence. As was the custom last year, the freshmen will have a separate coach and will drill entirely independent of the varsity.

Crowley's greatest task, perhaps, is that of finding a man to take the place of Walter Koppisch, three times captain of the team. Captain Pease again will be at quarterback and as aide in the backfield will be Sesit and Empringham, two seasoned veterans. The question of course is, Who will fill Koppisch's place as the fourth man?

Wagner at end, Wilberg at tackle, Raphael at guard, and Schlmeitsch at centre are the other regulars who will be back. In addition there will be many of the star freshman team of last year, which was one of the best ever turned out at Columbia. From these players it is expected that the line will be filled out and that a successor to Koppisch will be found.

Columbia's first game of the ten-contest schedule will be played on Sept. 26 against Haverford on Baker Field. All the Blue and White's games will be staged in New York this year with the exception of the Ohio State battle, which will be staged in Columbus on Oct. 17. Cornell and the Army are two other elevens on the list, which is the most ambitious undertaken by the Blue and White in many years.

Levine to Clash With McGale.

Georgie Levine, Brooklyn welterweight, and Frisco McGale, California boxer, will be rivals in the principal bout at the Commonwealth Sporting Club Saturday night. They are scheduled for twelve rounds.

N. Y. U. ELEVEN GOES TO ITS CAMP TODAY

Meehan Will Give Squad of 29 Two Weeks of Drilling at Fort Slocum.

New York University will inaugurate its football training season this afternoon at Fort Slocum when twenty-nine players, previously selected by Head Coach Chick Meehan, take the field for a light drill. The players are to assemble this morning at 10 o'clock at South Hall and go by auto bus to Fort Slocum. While Coach Meehan plans to make the first day's work an easy one, he is determined that before the week is out he will have the football candidates going through their paces in an intensive manner.

The squad will remain at Fort Slocum for two weeks and then return to University Heights for a week's drill before starting the season against Niagara University on Sept. 26. In this period Coach Meehan hopes to have his team in excellent shape. The candidates he will being working on today are those who showed the most promise during the Spring training season, inaugurated shortly after Meehan took charge at N. Y. U.

Meehan probably will have plenty of problems to face, but in the backfield he is well fortified with seasoned material, and followers of the team feel that he will also have good material from which to build his line. Among the backfield men of last year who are to report today are Jack O'Neil, captain of the team; Steve Holden, who was the star punter of last year's eleven; Ralph Whitd, Frank Kelly, Bob Lincoln and Dave Shadkin.

The N. Y. U. schedule this season imposes quite a task on the eleven for the opening weeks. After the game with Niagara, N. Y. U. is called upon to face the Connecticut Aggies, Union and C. C. N. Y. on successive Saturdays. The first game of the season will be played at Ohio Field, and it is expected that the new stands, which are designed to seat 15,000, will be ready for the opening.

WEST VIRGINIANS AT WORK.

Mountaineers Hold First Football Drill With 83 Present.

Special to The New York Times.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 31.—Eighty-three West Virginia University football candidates took the field here today to prepare for the 1925 season. Fifty were candidates for the varsity eleven, while the other thirty-three are to try for berths on Joe Setron's freshman team.

After preliminary talks by Head Coach Rodgers and Trainer Art Smith on the general principles that will govern the work a brisk kicking and passing drill was held.

To Be Inaugurated by Running of Broadhollow Chase and Manhattan Handicap.

FUTURITY AT THIS SESSION

Matron, Nursery, Jockey Club Gold Cup and Grand National Also to Be Decided.

By HENRY B. ILSLEY.

Racing under the jurisdiction of the Jockey Club will be resumed this afternoon with the opening of the thirteen-day meeting of the Westchester Racing Association at Belmont Park. Although many horses still remain at Saratoga because of lack of shipping facilities, there is a fair entry for the first day.

This is to be one of the most important meetings of the New York season, including as it does the running of such notable stakes as the Nursery Handicap, the Lawrence Realisation, the Matron, the Futurity, the Jockey Club Gold Cup and the Brook and Grand National Steeplechases.

The card for next Saturday is featured by the Brook at two miles and a half, with $10,000 in added money, and the Lawrence Realisation at a mile and five furlongs, with $7,500 added. For the second Saturday there will be a triple bill. It will include the Grand National at three miles, with $5,000 added; the Futurity, with $10,000 added at seven furlongs, and the Jockey Club Gold Cup of $10,000 added at two miles.

The Futurity Stakes this year will be run for the three seventy-fifth time. It is one of the richest stakes run in the United States, Mother Goose last year winning $65,730 for Harry Payne Whitney. There will be tremendous interest this year in the running of this historic stake, since it will again bring together the stars of the two-year-old world, including Joseph E. Widener's unbeaten Haste and W. R. Coe's Pompey, winner last Saturday of the Hopeful Stakes at Saratoga. These two have met once and Haste won decisively. If he comes down in front in the Futurity, he will have an undisputed claim to the juvenile crown.

Will Be Real Test.

Seven furlongs is a sterling test of two-year-old form, and the winner will have to show conclusively that he can go a route. Unfortunately, the Idle Hour Farm Stable's Bubbling Over is not a Futurity eligible. He is a nominee, however, in the Nursery Handicap tomorrow, a six-furlong event for the two-year-olds that will serve as a preparation for the more important event. Haste, Pompey and Walter J. Salmon's Flight of Time, the latter having finished second to Pompey on Saturday, are also eligible in tomorrow's event, and it is hoped that all will go to the post. Color Sergeant, which created somewhat of a sensation in winning the last race at Saratoga for Harry Payne Whitney, is in the Futurity but not in the Nursery.

For this afternoon there are two stakes on the card. The Broadhollow Handicap Steeplechase, with $2,500 added at about two miles, has drawn a splendid field of ten sterling jumpers, headed by J. E. Widener's veteran Duettiste and J. E. Davis's four-year-old filly Relentless, both of which have been asked to take up 154 pounds.

The other stake is the Manhattan Handicap for all ages at a mile, with $2,500 in added money. The Rancocas Stable's gray three-year-old Silver Fox tops the seven that are named with 117 pounds, and the distance should suit him. He will be giving weight to Blind Play, Shuffle Along, Cherry Pie, Dunlin, Priscilla Buley and Pepp.

The largest field of the afternoon has been entered for the Autumn Dash, eighteen having been named. Mino and Serenader have been regarded equally by the handicapper at 125 pounds.

More Changes at Course.

Visitors to Belmont Park this afternoon will find many further improvements, carrying out the scheme that was begun so effectively last Spring.

During the Summer the roof of the enclosure portion of the stand was painted, the soft shade of green that has been used with telling effect everywhere in the big structure. Boxes, railing and iron work have been renovated, and the floral effect along the front of the stand is even more brilliant than at the Spring meeting.

Last Spring it was announced by President Widener that the enclosure accommodations would be increased. This has been accomplished by carrying the railing ten feet nearer the track. The grass-covered area in front of the grand stand, that became thick with dust before the close of the second day of the meeting and treacherously muddy in rainy weather, has been covered with fine bluestone to add to the comfort of the thousands who occupy it daily.

The infield will present an unwonted appearance, since work on the new diagonal chute has progressed to a point where it resembles a golf course in its preliminary stages. Top soil and sand are heaped about awaiting the conclusion of the meeting to be spread and the surface put in condition for the Winter.

Son of Former Crown Prince Wins German Sport Insignia

BERLIN, Aug. 31 (AP).—Some of the younger generation of one-time royalty are going in for sports. Prince William, eldest son of former Crown Prince Frederick William, has won the right to wear the "Sporting Badge," an insignia granted to youths who have passed various athletic requirements, including swimming and skating. The badge was inaugurated after the World War by the German Committee of Physical Training as an incentive for young people to go in for sports. Former Prince William is 19 years old.

$2,000 PACE IS WON BY ARDEN STABLES

PETER MALTBY IN FRONT

Goshen Two-Year-Old Trots Each of Two Heats in 2:07¼ in Milwaukee Opening.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 31 (AP).—Anna Bradford's Girl, a brown mare owned by the Arden Homestead Stables of Goshen, N. Y., and driven by Dickerson, rambled home an easy pacing winner in the $2,000 feature race of the initial program of the Grand Circuit at the State Fair Park here today. The winner's time was 2:02¼ in each of the two heats she won. The field of six starters were well bunched nearly all the way, with the Goshen mare getting and maintaining the lead throughout with the exception of the first heat, when she placed third.

Peter Greene, a bay gelding, entered by McKay brothers of West Allis, Wis., claiming two seconds' time allowance, gathered in second place and money. Theodore Guy, roan gelding, owned by the Murphy Stables of Syracuse, was third.

Only one other race figured in the Grand Circuit card today, this being the two-year-old trot for a stake of $600. The race was won by Peter Maltby, brown colt, also owned by the Arden Homestead Stables, and driven by Dickerson. The colt won each of the two heats in 2:07 1-4, a time said by track officials here to have been as swift as any race run by two-year-olds on any track this season. The colt took the lead at the start and was never headed. Petrena Harvester was second and Polly Peachtree third.

RICKARD PLANS TITLE BOUT.

Slattery and McTigue May Meet If Successful on Sept. 11.

A world's light-heavyweight championship battle for the new Madison Square Garden before the end of the current year became one of the finite possibilities yesterday when Promoter Tex Rickard announced he was considering the advisability of arranging a match between the winners of the Paul Berlenbach-Mike McTigue title struggle and Jimmy Slattery-Tommy Loughran contest, which will be held at the Yankee Stadium Sept. 11.

Rickard announced yesterday he had received assurances from McTigue that if the Irish boxer regains his title from Berlenbach he will defend it in one of the early bouts in the new Garden against any contender Rickard selects. Slattery has been promised the match if he demonstrates in his coming encounter with Loughran that he is entitled to such consideration.

CHAPMAN AND WALKER LEAD BIKE SCORERS

First in Motor-paced and All-round Championships—Croley Heads Amateurs.

Nine points separate George Chapman, defending champion, from Frank Keenan, his nearest rival, in the race for the American all-around motor-paced cycling title, according to the standings announced yesterday in the American motor-paced professional and amateur all-around cycling championship races. Chapman has 139 points, while Keenan has 130. Vincent Madonna, Italian star, who has been Chapman's closest rival for most of the chase, now is third, with 126 points.

Cecil Walker, Australian rider, has a commanding lead in the professional all-around title quest, with 165 tallies. His nearest rival, Alex McBeath, has 124, while Freddie Spencer is third, with 111.

In the amateur championship race Paul Croley has a twenty-point advantage over his nearest rival, with 182 tallies. Charley Winter is second, with 162.

Following are the standings in the all-around motor-paced professional and amateur cycling championships.

Time Payments on General Motors cars

ON August 1st General Motors announced important reductions in its time payment charges on General Motors cars—notwithstanding the fact that General Motors charges have always been the lowest.

The important thing to the purchaser is the total cost of a car. The time payment charge is a part of such total cost when the car is bought on time. These reductions therefore mean, in such instances, a substantially lowered total cost.

It is the policy of General Motors to pass on to the car purchaser economies wherever effected—in financing as well as in engineering, manufacturing or merchandising operations.

The purchase of a car out of income is a universally accepted practice. Six years ago General Motors organized the General Motors Acceptance Corporation (GMAC) to make credit available at the lowest possible cost to purchasers of General Motors cars.

The standard time price of any General Motors car is the cash delivered price, plus only the new GMAC charge.

Ruth Gordon Runs Through a Play.

THE FALL OF EVE, a comedy in three acts, by John Emerson and Anita Loos. At the Booth Theatre.

Percy.....Alonzo Fenderson
Mannny.....Nadine Winston
Larry Webb.....Reginald Mason
Enid Craig.....Diantha Pattison
Herbert Craig.....Claude King
Amy Parker.....Cora Witherspoon
Eve Hutton.....Ruth Gordon
Ted Hutton.....Arthur Albertson
Sarah.....Doris Kemper

If it had not been for a foul-minded spinster, a "speaking cat," a harridan and harpy, who believed too eagerly in the inevitability of appearance where men and women are concerned; who considered men "beasts," while all the real facts prove quite the contrary, and who poisoned the mind of one who listened to her evil tongue—if it had not been for this creature, this vixen, this hussy, Ruth Gordon might never have run through her tricks last evening at the Booth, where "The Fall of Eve" occurred, and the audience might never have been entertained. As it happened, however, this angular person was there and planted the seeds of a comedy; and a loosely written play by John Emerson and Anita Loos quickly came to life.

Nevertheless, in the play itself this confidante had only a minor part. She was merely the spring to the action. Even before the curtain rose she had been playing upon the frail mind of Eve Hutton, exciting her to suspicion of her husband's purely professional interest in an over-married actress. And after all this had been passed on to the audience "The Fall of Eve" began. For Miss Gordon played the part of this intense, ill-balanced, incredulous wife in her own particular fashion. From comedy the piece passed to farce and to burlesque, with a touch now and then of "drama." The futile, bewildered advances of Ted Hutton's excited child-wife kept the audience constantly amused. This is no scintillant comedy, perfected to the last detail. But its rambling course through a definite situation provides merriment, and sometimes engages the sympathies.

The ethical point at stake is whether a man and woman, unmarried at least to each other, can pass the night in the same house without breaking the law. It seems they can. But when Ted Hutton worked the whole night through on the income tax return of this unprincipled actress at Great Neck (on March 15, 1925, if the date matters), there being only these two in the house, his wife believed what the movies had taught her. At the end of Act I in the present play she refused to go with him to the opening performance of a piece in which the actress was star. That, for several reasons, seemed to be the end of the Hutton marriage. Where men and women were concerned, Eve was impossibly romantic.

To this lachrymose moment drama brings its own particular good offices. Two fine old bachelors, Larry Webb and Herbert Craig, in whose house most of the action occurs, soothe Eve's jangled nerves with copious bumpers of wines and liquors. Her spirits mount high, while her vision grows foggy and her mentality blurs more than ever. Larry keeps in constant, discreet attendance. When she is so absurdly befuddled as to mistake him for her forgiving husband he does not disillusion her, nor take a bachelor's advantage. For he is a gentleman as well as bachelor. On the contrary, he lays her comfortably on the divan, and with the help of his negro mammy rolls her safely into the studio and leaves her. Even the most cynical people in the audience last evening could not avoid seeing this mammy take up her faithful watch at the door.

Well, six weeks later, in Act III, Eve is discovered fingering baby clothes. Never having dreamed of how honorable old bachelors can be, especially when their affections have not been aroused, she has the courage of her convictions and decides that she must divorce her husband and marry Larry Webb. The aforementioned hussy, who happens in at the moment, has a transfixed expression of ecstacy on her snivelling countenance. Here is more than she dared to hope. But, after all, the chivalrous race of old bachelors is proved blameless. Eve has not been assaulted. Ted returns. Eve inquires, "I wonder if I've been a fool?" Ted gives a purely rhetorical question.

In this well-fitting part of Eve, Ruth Gordon gives an extremely amusing performance—blended of intensity and eccentricity. Throughout the entire piece her acting does not vary from this particular forte. The gaucheries of her gestures, the embarrassment of her emotions, whether of laughter or of tears; the rapidity and completeness of her movements about the stage, and her general appearance of having been put together in a breathless rush are all truly comic. In other plays she has done all this before. Once or twice in the present play her comedy collapses, however, and she breaks into tears with the pitiable helplessness of the small child. Here is well-plotted performance. The rest of the cast play in a respectable drawing-room manner; now and then some of them appeal to the audience by rolling their histrionic eyes.

LECTURER TO WED SOLOIST.

Marriage Will Close Bible Institute Sessions in Colorado Springs.

Special to The New York Times.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Aug. 31.—The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago will close a two weeks' engagement here tomorrow with a bit of romance, when the Rev. Dr. William F. White, an extension lecturer, and Mrs. Theresa R. Beckley, a soprano soloist, will be married by the Rev. Dr. James M. Gray, President of the institute. Dr. White is 60 years old and lost his wife sixteen years ago, while Mrs. Beckley is the widow of a Portland (Ore.) lumber merchant.

The couple met in Portland at the United Presbyterian Church, where Dr. White was pastor and Mrs. Beckley a soloist. They will spend a short honeymoon in this region, after which they may visit Chicago. They will make their home in Portland.

Scottish Players to Act "Courting."

"Courting," by A. Kenward Mathews, will be produced by the Shuberts late this month. It is a play of Scottish life and will be acted by Archibald Forbes's Scottish Players, who have appeared in it previously in Edinburgh and other cities in Great Britain. The company includes Jean Cyde, Denryll Mather, Jean D. Wilson, Betty Lely Wilson Ransay and James Ragian.

Colombia to Get $5,000,000 From U.S.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—The Treasury of the United States, it was announced at the Department today, will tomorrow place $5,000,000 to the credit of the Government of Colombia, this being the fourth of the payments due on account of the $25,000,000 provided in the treaty between the two countries growing out of the separation of Panama from Colombia in 1903. Dr. Enrique Olaya, Colombian Minister here, acting on behalf of his Government, will receive the $5,000,000, which will be deposited with the Federal Reserve System to be drawn against by the Treasury of his country. The final payment will be made on Sept. 1 next.

Last Governor's Day at Camp.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 31.—Governor Silzer announced today that Sept. 6 would be the last Governor's Day at the National Guard encampment at Sea Girt. He said that invitations had been extended to the people of Essex, Union and Monmouth Counties to visit the camp on that day and to attend a reception to be given by the Governor.

THE SCREEN

By MORDAUNT HALL.

Heavy-Handed Humor.

SEVEN DAYS, with Lillian Rich, Creighton Hale, Lilyan Tashman, Mabel Julienne Scott, William Austin, Hal Cooley, Rosa Gore, Tim Nilson, Edward Gribbon and Charles Clary, adapted from the stage farce by Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood, directed by Scott Sidney; Colony "Melody Masters"; Ada Forman in Hindu dances; "Melodic Merrymakers," Paul Zimm and his Chicago Orchestra; "The Tale of the Prodigal Palm," a "sensation." At the Colony.

There is length and feverish action, with a minimum of real comedy, in the film conception of "Seven Days," the stage farce by Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood which caused no little glee when it was presented before the footlights. The depiction of two characters chasing each other up and down a dumb-waiter for an interminable time and the occasional glimpse of an extravagant comedian playing solitaire behind a screen or squatting in a chimney, does not strike one as very funny. Coupled with this nonsense there are a number of subtitles which are quite wearying.

One of the many failings in this production, which was directed by Scott Sidney, who triumphed with his screen version of "Charley's Aunt," is the lack of that all-important factor, suspense. The characters dart hither and thither without much reason, and during certain interludes they engage in slapstick comedy which is not even redeemed by throwing custard pies. But if such missiles are not used one has the opportunity of seeing a man, sitting in a cellar about to eat a chicken. Before he has a chance to partake of a mouthful a ton of coal is shot down on him and he is hidden from view.

The house with all the people is quarantined, and nobody, not even a policeman and a burglar, is permitted to leave. There is Aunt Selina, who is eager to get away. She hides under a table cloth on the tray of which food had been brought to the house. She is discovered, and as an explanation for concealing herself, the caption writer inserts:

"Don't you see I'm trying to make the guards think I'm a cup and saucer?"

Aunt Selina, who is annoyance to the young couples, is carried outside, but when one of the guards sprays the white cover with a disinfectant, he, of course, finds the elderly and decidedly plain woman. So, just as the young people are celebrating her departure from the house, she returns through the window in an ignominious fashion.

We have in this narrative a woman who believes that she is a mystic medium, and the director has a telephone apparatus thrown down the chimney twice and hauled up on the end of a rope. The burglar, who at that moment is concealed in the chimney, ties the telephone to the end of the rope. All this is very silly and it is filmed in a jumpy way.

Then you have the burglar moving the screen, with the result that the gullible young woman thinks that her knowledge of secret words has caused it to shake. this burglar, played by Edward Gribbon, hides in several places including a spot behind the piano, and also beside the gas stove. The audience in the Colony did laugh yesterday afternoon when this burglar was shown to be perspiring in the latter mood, and at times they chuckled when somebody showed signs of intoxication after imbibing Aunt Selina's tonic.

There are a number of experienced players in the cast, but they have little opportunity to demonstrate their talent. Lillian Rich is attractive and as natural as she can be in the circumstances. Creighton Hale also does the best he can.

This film falls far short of standing up comparison with "Charley's Aunt." It is all the banana peel type of comedy, and most of the ideas are kept going too long. It is a pretty dull affair.

Trains, Tunnels and Love.

THE LIMITED MAIL, with Monte Blue, Vera Reynolds, Willard Louis, Tom Gallery, Master Jack Huff, Edward Gribbon, Otis Harlan and Lydia Yeamans Titus; adaptation and scenario by Darryl Francis Zanuck, directed by George Hill. At Warners's.

They have at Warners's—as the Piccadilly has been rechristened—one of those popular films calculated to bring a tear to the eyes of some young people. It is called "The Limited Mail," and it deals, of course, with trains, tunnels, freight-cars, locomotive drivers and love. Some of the situations, which were obviously intended to elicit sighs of sympathy from the spectators, are very apt to make one chuckle.

It seems quite natural that a fat husband would be rather surprised when he looked out of his private car and observed his bride embracing a freight-train locomotive driver. There are a number of similar situations in this production, which incidentally is heralded as a "Warner Brothers Classic of the Screen." There is, however, the chance that it won't live for long to masquerade as an entertainment.

One or two of the characters pay with their heart's blood for being in this story. There is Jim Fowler, a train postal clerk, who has the audacity to fall in love with the heroine, when he ought to have known that she was meant to be the hero's bride. Hence he had to be killed off, in spite of the fact that he left a motherless child. Bob Wilson, the successful young locomotive driver who in the end has a misfortune with his train, first appears as a tramp. He is befriended by Jim Fowler, and becomes such a capable locomotive driver that he is finally trusted with the Limited Mail.

Little Bobby is one of those screen children who finds the centre of the railroad tracks a great attraction. The highlight in this story is where Bob Wilson has to choose between saving young Bobby and warning the driver of the express train. He swims the river to accomplish the feat of stopping the Limited Mail, and little Bobby is rescued by an old tramp friend of the hero. Wilson, who had been in disgrace since his train was wrecked because of his gallant conduct is pardoned and reinstated.

The big question in Wilson's mind is whether Caroline Dale really loves him. She does, but she was bewildered by the fact that Bob's divorced wife still called Bob her husband.

Monte Blue does quite well in the role of big-hearted Bob, and Vera Reynolds is sympathetic as Caroline. Otis Harlan figures as the justly indignant husband who was so dazed at the conduct of his wife.

"The Limited Mail" is a subject of tedious length, and one feels quite heroic after having viewed it all.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"All Dressed Up" will open at the Eltinge Theatre on Wednesday night, Sept. 9.

Adrienne Morrison will rejoin the cast of "Love for Love" when it reopens at Daly's Sixty-third Street Theatre on Monday night, Sept. 14, for its two-weeks engagement.

Patterson McNutt, producer of "The Poor Nut," has taken over the role of Coach Jackson during the enforced absence from the play of Cornelius Roddy, due to serious illness in Mr. Roddy's family.

Billie Burke, it is announced, will be the star of a London production during the coming season.

Sara Sothern will have the leading role in "Arabesque," to be produced by Norman-Bel Geddes and Richard Herndon in October.

Sylvia Field has been engaged for the cast of "The Butter and Egg Man," now in rehearsal for Crosby Gaige.

Louis Wolheim last night returned to the cast of "What Price Glory?"

MUSIC NOTES.

The performances of "Carmen" which the Municipal Opera Company was to have given tomorrow evening at the Polo Grounds has been postponed for a week. Dreda Aves, the young American soprano who sang Aida, is to have the leading role and Cesare Sodero, who conducted in the previous performance, will direct an orchestra of 100 pieces.

Weyland Echols, New York tenor, will give a concert Friday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Beverley Bogert, Mile End Corner, Newport.

HIPPODROME RE-OPENS.

Paul Whiteman and His Orchestra Head an Entertaining Bill.

The new vaudeville season was opened at the Hippodrome yesterday with an exceptionally attractive program that met with the enthusiastic approval of two capacity audiences.

The headliner was Paul Whiteman and his concert orchestra, making what is declared to be their only New York appearance before a December concert that is to act as their farewell against an extended tour on the road. Mr. Whiteman's most popular offerings were of Gershwin's "Rhadsody in Blue" and the "Mardi-Gras" movement from F. Grofe's "Mississippi."

There were, further, the ever-amusing Mandel brothers in their notorious defiance of the laws of gravity; Moran and Mack, the soft spoken, and an accomplished young woman named Alba Tiberio, who did ever so many difficult things remarkably well, but who rather belied her alleged Italian origin by her "eins, zwei, drei, vier" instructions to the orchestra and by her repeated announcement to the audience that she was now about to go into her "tans."

Other acts included the Bostock Riding School, the Keller sisters and Lynch, the Sun Fong-lin company of Chinese magicians and "The Cobbler," a Hal Roach movie.

MAY TEST STATE FILM LAW

Connecticut Theatre Owners Await Arrest of Exhibitors.

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 31.—The possibility of legal steps by the theatre owners of Connecticut to test the effect of the State film tax law on exhibitors was said today by Joseph W. Walsh, President of the State Association to be growing rapidly. He said the special committee appointed two weeks ago by the theatre owners to represent them in the negotiations concerning the tax is considering the appointment of counsel to determine the course to be followed.

Mr. Walsh said an exhibitor may be arrested for showing films not registered, and his committee is waiting for such a situation to bring court action. Such action would be pressed just as far as the distributers are now carrying their test case against the State, he said.

Practically every theatre here experienced some kind of inconvenience yesterday and today caused by the removal of film exchange offices from New Haven Saturday and the adoption of mail or express delivery. Many of the films that were to have been delivered yesterday morning either by express or by mail did not reach the theatres until Sunday night.

"Love's Call" to Open on Sept. 10.

"Love's Call," by Joe Byron Totten, will open at the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre on Thursday night, Sept. 10. The cast includes Galina Kopernak, Robert Gleckler, Mitchell Harris and Norma Phillips.

MOTION PICTURES.

MAE MURRAY JOHN GILBERT

VON STROHEIM'S

THE MERRY WIDOW

A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Picture

"The Embassy is a very charming little place, seating some six hundred or so. Considering its capacity and the interest which its opening production should arouse it will probably finish with 'The Merry Widow' about 1930."
—Evening Sun

"Most notable event of the current cinema year. Here's one picture you don't want to miss seeing."
—Dorothy Herzog, The Mirror

"Had I a hat on I'd take it off to Erich Von Stroheim for the delightful picture he made of 'The Merry Widow'."
—Rose Pelswick, Eve. Journal

"By all means go and see this motion picture. I have never seen more delightfully entertaining photographic effects. Eric Von Stroheim has presented the new and amazingly stylish Embassy Theatre with a superb exhibit, The Merry Widow." The opening was simply Gloria's (!)
—Quinn Martin, The World

"One could write columns about the grandeur and fine points of the unusual production, 'The Merry Widow' to want to—if you miss it, you deserve it."
—Harriette Underhill, Herald-Tribune

"The Merry Widow' offers an evening's entertainment that will linger long in your memory. Like the catch line of a famous advertisement, 'It's good to the last drop'."

"I'M one of the waitresses at the Hermitage and last night I saw Helen MacKellar in 'The Mud Turtle' at the Bijou, and believe me, if any guy did to me what that man does to her, I'd knock him so far it would take two dollars to send him a post card.

I don't know how foreigners treat women, or if they all punch women in the nose and call them dirty names, but I do know a dinner plate is harder than a man's head and that's what I'd use to settle the argument.

I got in for nothing, but I'd a liked 'The Mud Turtle' even if I had a paid."

The Complete One-Room Hotel Apartment

SEVERAL of the largest and best-located rooms in the New Addition have been luxuriously furnished as Complete One-Room Apartments for two people.

Due to the great size and efficient layout, each of these rooms is equal in comfort and utility to a fine two-room suite.

Rooms average 13x19 feet. Each has a steel casement studio window 8 feet square—closet 2½ feet deep and 10 feet long, as well as modern tiled bath of generous size.

All furniture is of refined period design done in mahogany or walnut. Carpets are deep and luxurious. Hangings are of splendid design.

Lighting fixtures, pictures, writing tables, end tables, etc., are such as you would select for your own home. Chairs are deeply overstuffed.

By day the room is definitely a luxurious living room. By night the two day beds change instantly into wide, restful beds with deep box-springs and fine hair mattresses.

Rates on these special rooms are extremely low and include full hotel service:—$39 to $43 weekly; $34 to $38 on yearly lease.

The public rooms of the Greater St. George are unmatched in beauty, while cuisine has been a noted feature here for 40 years.

From an express station within the building you are whisked to Wall Street in 4 minutes, to Times Square in 15.

We earnestly solicit an inspection of the New St. George at your convenience.

Management
BING & BING, INC.

En Suite rates range from:—
2 single rooms . . . $46 per wk.
1 single & 1 double . $55 per wk.
2 double rooms . . . $68 per wk.

Very fine single rooms are available at $23, $25 and $27. Splendid double rooms from $32. ALL RATES SUBSTANTIALLY LOWER ON YEARLY LEASE.

A Luxurious Living Room by Day; A Delightful sleeping Chamber by Night.

ZIEGFELD PLANS $3,000,000 THEATRE

PLACED PLAYS IN LONDON

Returns With His Wife Billie Burke and Enid L. Parson He Picked From 1,000 Chorus Girls.

Florenz Ziegfeld returned yesterday from Paris and London on the Leviathan with his wife, Billie Burke, and their little daughter ready to start work upon his program for the coming season.

He said that he had plans for the construction of a new theatre which he contemplated building jointly with William Randolph Hearst in the Columbus Circle district at a cost of $3,000,000. "It will be the largest theatre in the United States," he said.

The theatrical producer added that he was going to make his first motion picture, which would be called "The American Girl." He would also produce a new play, called "Going South," and a new play for Billie Burke, which has not yet been named.

During his stay in London he made arrangements with Sir Alfred Butt for putting on "Louie the 14th" at Drury Lane Theatre when the run of "Rose Marie" is over.

Also he arranged for the production of "Kid Boots" by Grossmith and Malone at the Winter Garden Theatre, London. Leslie Henson, the principal comedian of the theatre, would come over to this country for three weeks, Mr. Ziegfeld said, to see "Kid Boots," which opens in Chicago on Sept. 15.

"I saw several plays in London," the New York manager continued, "but the only big successes of the season were 'No, No, Nanette' and 'Rose Marie,' both American plays. I saw Raquel Mellor, the Spanish singer, in Paris, and she told me that she was coming to New York next April to sing for three weeks under contract to Ray Goetz, who had assumed all responsibility in connection with the violation of her previous contracts with Gilbert Miller and others."

Mr. Ziegfeld expressed his personal opinion that the Spanish artist would not come to the United States. She had a delicate constitution, he said, and the voyage would fatigue her. Raquel Mellor had her own clientele in Paris, he said.

Ethelryad Terry, the star singer in "Kid Boots," also returned on the Leviathan and will rejoin the company and remain until the end of the Chicago run of the play. Then she will return to New York for a new play Mr. Ziegfeld has in view for her.

Enid Lillian Parsons, the eighteen-year-old English blonde who was engaged in London by the producer of the Ziegfeld Follies, came on the Leviathan with her mother, Mrs. John B. Parsons, direct from Birmingham. The young English girl has had very little experience on the stage except in small roles. She will start rehearsals with the "Kid Boots" company today.

Mr. Ziegfeld said he was driven away from the Ritz Hotel, London, through a friend putting an announcement in a newspaper there that he wanted a thousand chorus girls to send over to New York. Piccadilly was blocked next morning, he said, and for some time the police were powerless to get the traffic through because of the crowd. One girl managed to get into the Ritz, Enid Lillian Parsons, and he engaged her. The people in Birmingham are smarter than they are in London, he said.

He was met at the pier by Bernard Sobel and Eddie Cantor, who said to him: "Open your trunk and give me my present now and I will go away."

PHYSICAL DIRECTOR A SUICIDE IN SCHOOL

Charles J. Johnson of New Rochelle Hangs Himself—Left No Note, Motive a Mystery.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Charles J. Johnson, physical director of the New Rochelle High School, committed suicide yesterday afternoon in his office in the school building by hanging himself from a water pipe crossing the ceiling, his body not being discovered until this morning, when Clifford F. Bradon, Principal of the school, accompanied by a friend of Johnson, went to the building after Mrs. Johnson had informed them that her husband had not been home all night.

Johnson, who was 36 years old, was extremely popular with all of the pupils at the school, and his widow is unable to account for his action. He left no letters or notes. So far as is known, he was in no financial difficulties.

Leaving his home yesterday afternoon and telling his wife he was going for a walk, he was not seen again. At 10 o'clock last night Principal Bradon and Charles H. Blatchley went to the high school building to Johnson's office. The door was locked and apparently no one had been there. This morning Johnson's body was discovered dangling from the end of a piece of rope thrown over the steam pipe.

Lineman Killed in 40-Foot Fall.

Tribune Seized for Fascisti Criticism.

ROME, Aug. 31 (AP).—One of the editions of The Tribuna was seized today by the Prefect because it contained an editorial attacking the policy of repressive discipline on the part of the Fascists imposed by Roberto Farinacci, Secretary General of that party. The editorial alleged that the Fascist Party under Farinacci has been carrying discipline to an absurd degree.

Approve Long Beach Road Widening.

MINEOLA, L. I., Aug. 31.—The Board of Supervisors of Nassau County met today and discussed the widening of the Long Beach Road. As no objections were made the project was approved. It is planned to widen the road from fifty to seventy-five feet from lower Lincoln Avenue at Oceanside south to Mott Street, a distance of one and one-half miles.

Crowned Queen at Asbury Park.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 31.—Miss Mildred Estelle Moon of Union Hill, N. J., was crowned Queen Titania XXXIV. in the Beach Arcade. The coronation ceremony, attracting more than a thousand, officially opened carnival week here. The baby parade will take place Wednesday afternoon.

Albany Population 116,750.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 31 (AP).—Population figures for the cities of Albany and Syracuse, the first two cities to be completed in the 1925 New York State census, were announced today by Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, Secretary of State. The population of Albany was given as 116,750, a gain of 5,406 in five years and 8,771 in ten years. Syracuse shows a total population of 182,008, an increase of 10,286 over 1920 and of 36,710 over 1915.

Find 3 Skeletons 5,000 Years Old.

MACON, France, Aug. 31 (AP).—Three human skeletons, believed to be of the neolithic age, have been discovered by the archaeologists who for some time have been delving into the mysteries buried at Solutre, near here. The skeletons are believed to be from 4,000 to 6,000 years old. The last of them, found on Saturday, was that of a man of about 40 years of age. The bones were well preserved.

SPREADING THE RIDICULOUS.

The Catholic priest of Brooklyn who yesterday came out against HYLAN gave as one of his reasons for doing so that the Mayor is making the city "ridiculous." This is a job at which the Mayor has long worked industriously. On numerous public occasions he has given deep mortification to citizens who would like to see the city honored in the person of its Chief Executive. The only reason why Mr. HYLAN has during the past two weeks seemed to outdo himself in affronting the intelligence and pride of the people of Greater New York is simply because he has given himself more frequent opportunity to belittle the office of Mayor. That he has been doing this with almost suicidal effect politically is rapidly coming to be the common belief. His opponent in the Democratic primary has humorously remarked that it really is not necessary for him to make speeches. Merely let the Mayor keep on talking and he will defeat himself.

Not all the supply of the ridiculous in this campaign comes from the City Hall. The Mayor has several rivals in the art of making the city election seem absurd. The manager of the Mayor's campaign, Judge COHALAN, has a perfectly amusing gift for solemnly asking questions which he knows will not be answered, in a way to provoke general laughter at his futility. With portentous gravity he sought yesterday to put Judge OLVANY on the stand and examine him in the matter of HYLAN and the Ku Klux Klan. The Tammany leader only smiled. Everybody else laughed. And who could fail to see how unconsciously ridiculous are the officials of the improvised "Honest Government League," mostly honorary Deputy Police Commissioners, who throw full in the face of the public such magnificent figures of speech as are to be found in their campaign statement?

The really great issue in this campaign is whether the pestilence of parading immorality stamped out by Mayor HYLAN shall again raise its sinister head. Before the Administration of Mayor HYLAN it had sunk its fangs into the very vitals of American institutions—the home.

It has often been said that there is no such deadly weapon in politics as ridicule. Seldom can it have been used as in this campaign against men who not only make themselves ridiculous but seem to insist upon everybody poking fun at them.

STONING THE GUIDEBOARD.

In less polished times it was a favorite diversion of wanton boys to "rock" the guideboard with its instructive, if almost effaced, hand, pointing, say, to "Swampscott, 6 m." More artistic wooden Baedekers now diffuse geography along vastly better roads. Improved children shun malicious mischief; yet the old sports survive, transformed and spiritualized. What else is the series of rumors, born in mischievous Yankee heads, that the Hon. WILLIAM MORGAN BUTLER, guide of the Republican Party, will be content to be but an appointed Senator; will not go before the people as an elective candidate, if that vote-compelling Democrat, DAVID I. WALSH, is to be his opponent? It is assumed by malicious Republicans who do not dote on Mr. BUTLER that he is so close to Mr. COOLIDGE that, should he be defeated, the President would be regarded as beaten in his own State.

Mr. COOLIDGE's "prestige" is personal. His instinct of thrift prevents his sharing it with anybody. If the Republicans are to lose a Senator in Massachusetts—and they seem pretty well frightened—Mr. BUTLER is the best man to lose. "Factions" and "enmities" in the party would furnish as good an explanation as could be cooked up. To pass over him would be an admission of weakness. Who else in the State symbolizes so completely the august protective tariff, the very heart of Republicanism, and working to such complete satisfaction in Massachusetts industries? Mr. COOLIDGE's attitude toward Mr. BUTLER may be described as benevolent neutrality. The Gillett candidacy and the Butler appointment made bad Republican blood enough. Many Massachusetts Republicans were irritated by what they regarded as dictation from the White House. The toes of several not unimportant Republicans are still sore. If Mr. BUTLER were to take himself out of the race, there would be a scramble among several aspirants. Former Governor COX, who once refused the crown, is "mentioned" as the legatee whom Mr. BUTLER prefers. But Mr. COX is understood to be through with public life, for the present at least. Anyway, he and almost anybody else "mentioned" would but open old wounds. FULLER, the post-Governor, is steeped in harmony, but would anybody bet on FULLER in a car of 750 Pegasus power against "DAVE" WALSH on a motorcycle?

No, the bad boys are stoning the guideboard. School will begin again soon and this barbarous amusement will cease. Who can believe that the Home Market Club will ever have cause to accuse CALVIN COOLIDGE of "abandoning" or "betraying" WILLIAM MORGAN BUTLER? Whoever runs against Mr. WALSH will find it uphill work and hard sledding. Mr. BUTLER'S proposed Irish-Republican clubs were scoffed at, but he was on the right track. He needs a lot of "Anglo-Saxon Republican" clubs to bring back the too numerous persons of that description to whom "DAVE" WALSH has given medicines. We must refuse to take seriously all this talk about weak knees among the watchmen of the Citadel of Protection or to believe that the Chief of Staff who is to win the Senate for the Republicans next year has any thought of stripping it of one of its newest ornaments.

FRENCH DEBT NEGOTIATORS.

The personnel of the French Debt Commission shows how anxious the Painlevé Cabinet is to invite Parliamentary approval of any agreement that it may reach. To a remarkable degree the French delegation to Washington gives representation to Senators and Deputies. The Finance Commissions of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies and the Foreign Affairs Commission of the Chamber will share in the negotiations. The plain intention is to placate the different political groups which make up the unstable coalition now in charge of the French Government.

French Parliamentary commissions are a distinctive feature of a balanced governmental system in which the Legislature lords it over the Executive. Senators and Deputies influence administration and policy to a far greater extent than is the case under other Constitutions. Indeed, as M. EMILE FAGUET remarked, "France is "governed eight months by the Cham-"ber and four months by a Ministry." The Chamber chooses twenty commissions of forty-four members each, with the political groups represented in proportion to their numbers. Each commission has a President, four Vice Presidents and six Secretaries. In the Senate there are eleven general commissions of thirty-six members each, chosen in the same way. These bodies are organized to articulate with the executive departments. They conduct inquiries, demand explanations of the Government and summon Ministers to appear before them. They examine and amend the texts of the bills that are introduced and the reporters prepare, for the edification of the Chamber, elaborate reports. One reason for this is that the reporter of today is the Minister of tomorrow. M. BRIAND, for example, got into the political limelight through his report on the Church and State. The Budget Commission of the Chamber is known as "la Commission des successeurs," so frequently have hostile manoeuvres against the Government called reporters or Presidents to posts in the Cabinet.

Such a legislative organization may seem inconsistent with the theory of Ministerial responsibility. Each commission is a mirror of the Legislature; its opinion may carry weight equal to that of the Minister, and its members are so numerous that a Cabinet always seeks to make of them friends rather than enemies. During certain phases of the war the Army and Foreign Affairs Commissions were more powerful than the Ministers. POINCARE succeeded BRIAND as Premier in January, 1922, largely on account of pressure from the Foreign Affairs Commission. The Washington treaties were held up for months in the Commissions on Naval Affairs and on Foreign Affairs. M. PAINLEVE has been forced repeatedly to justify his Moroccan policy to the appropriate commissions. It is only rarely—as in the case of M. CLEMENCEAU—that a powerful Minister need not cater to Parliament and dares to ignore the commissions.

The Painlevé-Caillaux Ministry, not being powerful, is naturally anxious to secure the collaboration of the men upon whom it must depend for Parliamentary approval of any debt settlement that it negotiates. The American commission that the French delegates will meet also consists of Cabinet members and Congressmen. This, however, was the compromise forced upon President HARDING, who desired that authority over the debt be delegated to the Secretary of the Treasury. Congress refused to do this. Instead it created the commission and laid down certain rules to govern its negotiations. Settlements not under these rules have to be submitted to Congress.

GERMANY AND AUSTRIA.

Steady progress is being made toward the solution of the big after-war problems affecting Europe in general and Germany in particular. But the task is not so near completion that Germany can afford to reach out for a few more thorny questions. The new flaring up of agitation for the "reunion" of Austria with Germany is a case of borrowing trouble. It was not quite a triumph of tact, at this moment when Germany's entrance into the League is under debate, for the Socialist President of the Reichstag to suggest that German membership in the League will facilitate the union of Austria with the Reich. This is more than an academic question just at the present. French opinion is a bit nervous about this new twist to the difficulty of Germany in the League; and though in all probability the latest Pan-German furor will not be allowed to stand in the way of much more immediate settlements, it does add to the general stock of suspicions and fears, already more than sufficient for Europe's needs.

Incorporation of Austria into the German Reich would involve a radical revision of the peace treaties. If ever the permission of the League can be secured for such a step, the pressure and the demand must come not from Germany but from Austria. So far the worst forecasts by those who denounced the new Austria as an economic monstrosity doomed to perish have not been fulfilled. If the dire prophecy, however, should come to pass, the union of Austria with Germany is the very last solution to which the allied nations will consent. Before that happens a remedy will be sought by way of tariff reform in Central Europe, the constitution of a Danubian Customs Union, or even a loose political Danubian Federation of some sort. Strenuous though the objections would be from Czechoslovakia and other succession States, customs union or federation would be regarded as a much less serious menace than the addition of 7,000,000 population to the German Reich.

Actually, the movement both in Germany and Austria lacks that unanimous and determined drive which alone could imaginably overcome the formidable obstacles in the way. It is an issue which antedates the World War by many years and which has fluctuated with the rise and fall of special party interests. The majority Protestant opinion in Germany before the war was not particularly enthusiastic over the prospect of adding 7,000,000 Catholics to the population of the empire. In Austria the Catholic element was not eager to join an empire in which the godless Social Democrats enjoyed power and prestige. If at the present moment the German Socialists are favorable to the idea, it is because the Socialists are strong in Vienna. Let a conservative régime arise in Austria, and the German Socialists will be much less eager.

SELF-PUNISHMENT.

In its issue which announces the informal opening of the Bronx River Parkway over its entire length to Kensico Dam, The Hartsdale Herald records an incident of possibly greater importance. A motorist from New York City with a feminine companion was regaling her with chocolate creams. As they munched and gazed they threw out paper wrappings on the parkway. From Butler's Woods, above Scarsdale, to Woodland Place Viaduct, in White Plains, they fed their eyes and their palates. Then Officer FRANK MACCABE of the parkway police shot up beside them and asked them if they were enjoying themselves. When they admitted that they were, he said that it was the intention of the parkway authorities that all others should be similarly privileged; and he made the young man walk back four miles and pick up all the papers, personally conducting him on his motorcycle.

Seldom has an "object all sublime" been more sublimely accomplished. The authorities in Central Park might well emulate Officer MACCABE in making the punishment fit the crime. A wayfarer caught in the act might be induced to clean up a hundred feet of the walk. Picnickers abandoning newspapers, sandwich wrappings and banana peels on the lawn might be persuaded to restore half an acre. True, a few more policemen would have to be provided, especially on Sundays, and also more numerous and convenient receptacles for waste. But the expense would be comparatively slight. Most of it would be made up in the wages of the men who now go about with cape-pick and bags—whose labors are scarcely ended when Sunday comes again. It would take precious few such exhibitions of just retribution to change the mood of those who now, while enjoying the Park, make it hideous to others. Habitual offenders would doubtless stand by and jeer with an air of superior virtue. The forty-eight languages of Manhattan and the fifty-seven varieties of bad manners interpose no obstacle. In a few weeks Central Park might be as neat as the new parkway.

For a nation devoted to education we have a curiously defective sense of it. Doubtless it means something that the newer pilgrims to our shores thrill when the American flag is waved, sing the National Anthem more tunefully than their elders, and when asked who was the father of his country joyfully shout the name of GEORGE WASH. Yet this is small gain unless it is understood also that there can be no liberty among a people who, in exercising their own rights, mock the rights of others. Americanism consists not only in munching chocolates and sucking oranges, but in leaving the park landscape as the constituted authorities have made it. Or, if this is not yet precisely the case, it is what Americanism should be—and will be when the procedure of Officer MACCABE becomes general.

AN AMBASSADORIAL NAVARCH.

There is poetic fitness in having an Admiral as our representative on the Bosporus—that narrow strait which not only holds together the two great seas but makes its tide the only medium of physical communication between two continents. Leander would not have met his fate had Hero's tower o'erlooked the Bosporus instead of the Hellespont a little further down. Great ferry-boats, ships with sails "full swelling" like that of the Argonauts to get the Golden Fleece at the other end of the Black Sea; thousands of picturesque little oared boats through which the modern motor boats dart to and fro and till lately the destroyers which gave such splendid service; these suggest a navarch rather than a landsman as a high commissioner to a city which, as a recent visitor has described it, rises as an enormous sea of houses itself and stretches out "ardent arms to a shimmering sea."

Whose keel of wondrous light the skillful hand

It has also been a fortunate thing that we have had a man of such fearlessness and straightforward fairness as Admiral BRISTOL at Constantinople during these critical years. He first came prominently into the news when it was reported in 1919 that without special instruction he had warned the Turks that they must stop killing Armenians. But he was fully as strong and impartial in his insistence that the Greeks should not massacre the Turks. He was accused of leaning now toward the Greeks and now toward the Turks, while all the time he was trying to do the right thing without fear or favor. He continually subordinated his feelings of like and dislike that he might do the just and humane thing.

Particularly will his prompt and effective service at the time of the Smyrna disaster be gratefully remembered, not only by the Greeks and the Armenians but by the sympathetic world. Yet he has intimated as clearly as possible that Turkey should at least have a chance for national development, and has done everything that a man in such position may do, not only to protect his own country's commercial and educational interests but also to give encouragement to the country to which he was commissioned as it makes its first experiment in republican government. And he has faith that it will be found that it is right to ratify the treaty.

America may gratefully welcome Admiral BRISTOL as he returns for a brief furlough. Yet, having spent a good part of seven years along that water path to Chalcis, he no doubt feels more "at home" where the Scorpion floats beyond the Golden Horn.

THE JERSEY-PENNSYLVANIA BRIDGE CONTROVERSY.

New Jersey bullying the Keystone State in the Camden-Philadelphia bridge controversy is a figment of Governor PINCHOT'S imagination. The bridge is not yet completed. The Pennsylvania Legislature decreed that so far as Pennsylvanians are concerned it shall be a free bridge. Pennsylvania must pay its share of the cost, but the method is not that provided for in the New Jersey act authorizing cooperation with Pennsylvania in the building of the bridge. It directed that bonds should be issued, interest and principal to be met by the collection of tolls. As the bridge would cross navigable waters, the sanction of Congress had to be obtained. Senator EDGE of New Jersey on Jan. 5, 1921, introduced the enabling bill, and in six weeks it became a law by the signature of President WILSON. In the original draft Section 2 authorized an agreement between Pennsylvania and New Jersey "for regulating the "[bridge] traffic and policing the "same, and for fixing and collecting "tolls and charges for the use of "such bridge." This section was stricken out because, so said Secretary of War BAKER, the consent of Congress to construction was "broad "enough to embrace any lawful "agreement between the States which "may be necessary to effect the pur-"poses of the grant."

New Jersey cannot afford a free bridge. Moreover, the statute under which it proceeded required that tolls should be levied. The New Jersey Interstate Bridge and Tunnel Commission is directed "to enter into agree-"ments with Pennsylvania or its con-"stituted agency to provide for the "fixing of tolls." The New Jersey Interstate Bridge and Tunnel Commission has asked Governor PINCHOT to call a meeting of the Delaware River Bridge Commission to devise some means of collecting tolls. He refused. "I am convinced," he said, "that "the bridge should be free, and there-"fore I am in hearty agreement with "the declaration of the Pennsylvania "Legislature." The commission then urged the Governor to call a special session of the Legislature. The communication was rather brusque. It drew from Governor PINCHOT the retort: "Your attempt to bully the "State of Pennsylvania is a serious "mistake. Our people are for a free "bridge, and so am I."

On Saturday Governor SILZER took up the gage for New Jersey. He did not mince words in stating his policy. "We are not at the mercy of Penn-"sylvania, in any sense of the word," he declared, "because we can stop "the building of the bridge and we can "also apply to the Secretary of War "to have tolls fixed for our share of "the cost." He had in mind the Federal act of 1906, which provided:

> If tolls shall be charged for the transit over any bridge constructed under the provisions of this act, * * * such tolls shall be reasonable and just, and the Secretary of War may at any time, and from time to time, prescribe the reasonable rates of toll for such transit over such bridge.

Governor SILZER directed the commission "to award no further con-"tracts for the completion of the "bridge until tolls are established." Work to the amount of $2,022,800 remains to be done. "You should im-"mediately request the Pennsylvania "Commission," said the Governor, "to join you in application to the "Secretary of War under the Federal "act of 1906, requesting him to ap-"prove a schedule of tolls."

New Jersey is committed to tolls and cannot forego them. Pennsylvania and its Governor protest that the bridge shall be free, but it would puzzle a Philadelphia lawyer to tell how Pennsylvanians crossing the bridge to Camden could get by the New Jersey collector without paying. Governor PINCHOT may have influence enough to induce the Legislature to repeal the Free Bridge law and provide for a tolls agreement with New Jersey. There is possibly another way out. When the completed bridge becomes subject to Federal regulation, the Government might decide to impose tolls and under direction of Congress divide the revenue between the two States.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Is Four-Four a Failure?

Those members of the House Committee on Alcoholic Liquor Traffic who went to Ontario to study there the experiment with light beer were at a feast of the Ontario Prohibition Union the other day. Representative HUDSON of Michigan, a Dry of Drys, is convinced, as he was before his travels, that "investigation shows" that the permitting of mild drinks "does not reduce the number of illicit sellers, for it fails to wean the moderate and habitual drinkers away from hard liquors."

At first there was a decrease, but the beer drinkers soon found that Four-Four could not give them the yearned-for "kick." So they went back to their hard cups or took out permits to make beer at home. These permits are rapidly increasing in number. "The use of liquor in the home is enormous." It is hard to see how Mr. HUDSON or anybody else finds out how much liquor is used in the home; and by whom is the revenue derived from the experiment "estimated to be at from one-fifth to one-tenth" of the sum expected by the Government? By the Ontario prohibitionists or by the Government?

The good faith of Mr. HUDSON and his associates is not in doubt. But if observers from the Anti-Prohibition Association "investigated" the working of the Ontario scheme, they would find it as effective and beneficent as the other fellows found it futile and maleficent. When we get an unprejudiced official statement we shall know what to believe. Mr. HUDSON may be right. If he is, cynics will fall back on economic determination and say that 4.4 per cent. costs too much for its content.

Research Into the Obvious.

The investigator animated by the real spirit of research will not confine himself to the pursuit of vast, unsuspected truths. There are humble, everyday truths of common cognisance which may yet profit by the weight of expert authority.

The President's Bureau of Efficiency at Washington has just concluded a six months' study of the economics of handling paper currency, and finds that a great deal of waste is involved in the use of bills of small denominations when larger bills would do. The one-dollar bill is excessively employed. Its place might often be taken by the two, five and ten dollar bill. The Bureau of Efficiency lists no less than eight advantages to be gained by making change with as few bills as possible: Saving in the bulk of currency carried about in pockets, in the bulk of currency handled in banks, in the counting of money everywhere, in the bulk of money paper manufactured by the Government, &c.

If it be suggested that these are not astonishing discoveries for an inquiry lasting six months, it might be recalled that many longer and more ambitious inquiries have resulted in less novelty. Elaborate questionnaires are all the time demonstrating the facts that milk is good for babies, that sophomores who sleep eight hours a day make a better showing in class than those who sleep four hours or twelve hours, that opponents of prohibition are hostile to the Eighteenth Amendment and supporters of prohibition are for it.

In the matter of the two and five dollar bill versus the one-dollar bill there is one factor which the Bureau of Efficiency may not have taken into consideration. The habit of using bills of larger denominations might easily prove inimical to thrift by setting up an exaggerated standard of expenditure. Prices have a way of being considerably affected by the common unit of exchange. In Europe before the war the franc or lira, being equal to less than 20 cents, accounted in some measure for the lower cost of living. This would be true also in England, where the real unit of popular reckoning is not the pound but the shilling. Thus there would be some danger that habituating the American people to think on a two-dollar basis might cost more than the savings contemplated by the Bureau of Efficiency.

An American May Get It.

Rummaging around recently in that sot of Parliament which sets aside Lord Lee of Fareham's gift of his estate, Chequers, as a country house for successive Prime Ministers, Mr. HAROLD STANNARD unearthed an interesting fact. It is that the United States Ambassador at the Court of St. James's ranks fourth in claim of residence. The eighth clause lays it down that only three officers of state—the Chancellor of the Exchequer, the Foreign Minister and the Colonial Secretary—stand between the American envoy and the British Premier. The Ambassador precedes both the Speaker of the House of Commons and the Lord Chief Justice of England.

Mr. STANNARD sees in this find more than a personal gesture. "I do not know a case on our statute book," he declares, "where there is a more frank recognition of the tie between the two English-speaking nations." However, the chances of Mr. HOUGHTON or his successors entering Chequers as its squire remain pretty slim. Presumably, only in the event of a civil war would the beautiful house revert to an American claimant.

The Chequers Estate act interferes with the notions of an Englishman's home as his castle. It decrees the minimum number of servants. It forbids the incumbent to alter or redecorate the rooms. It prohibits the removal of books or manuscripts from the Chequers library. Above all, it will not allow the Prime Minister or his wife to move any piece of furniture from one room to another. Special clauses set aside fixed sums for this or for that domestic purpose. From all which the Tory rear-guard must presume that Mr. BALDWIN when he leaves Downing Street for Chequers and his beloved pigs sets himself up as a shining example of country life in England under communistic conditions.

The Cricket on the Farm.

As man's ingenuity has devised means of drawing fertilizers for the soil from impalpable air, as his commercial schemes include the harnessing of the tides and the purposeful breeding of foxes, it is hardly to be wondered at that he now is making money by raising crickets. The strange thing is that the insect world has not been compelled to pay tribute before this. True, the bee, the silkworm and the cochineal have done their duty these many hundred years, but have yielded not a large proportion of excise from a citizenry numbering millions.

The enterprising cricket-raiser is a resident of Montgomery, Ala. He keeps his thousands of cheerful, chirping prisoners in a specially constructed cage, whence they are removed to be shipped to fishermen all over the South, who find them ideal bait for almost all kinds of fish. For two years the cricket farm has been in operation, though at the beginning of the second year it was necessary to restock the cage, as few of the adults had survived even the mild Alabama Winter. An appeal to the Government brought advice on feeding, shelter and general methods of propagation, and it is hoped to keep the great-grandfather crickets alive this Winter on "rags, dried grass, rotten wood, seaweed and dead shellfish." The Department of Agriculture is interested, and has recommended various modern conveniences for the use of possible blue-ribbon crickets.

There are other insects whose confinement in an impervious prison might more greatly rejoice the heart, but it is futile to think of such things until some profit can be made out of the captives. When a speculative swamp-dweller finds a sale for mosquitos at 50 cents a hundred, the roving and pestilential flier will doubtless disappear.

Figures on Game-Birds.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You seem to be impressed by the report of the United States Biological Survey "during the second half of 1924 and the first half of 1925," on the "supply of migratory game-birds" in this country. Do you know how these reports are made up by the "thousands throughout the country"?

Maybe the following exhibit of the manner in which our reports are made up will cause you to have less confidence in their sense and credibility. I have in my hand a copy of a postcard sent out from East Islip, L. I., recently—a photostat copy—which reads:

Dear Sir: If you desire to keep the duck bag limit the way it is at present, write at once a personal letter to E. W. Nelson, Biological Survey, Washington, D. C., that you believe that there are more ducks now than ever before. Hornaday is collecting data to prove to the Government that the bag limit must be reduced. Back up Nelson. J. V. JEROME.

I am credibly informed that thousands of these cards have been sent out by "sportsmen" like Jerome (above) to their friends in every State of the Union, and that this sort of "backing up" Nelson and the Government is what you have got from those reports which you quote so approvingly and authoritatively to show THE TIMES readers that "game-birds are plentiful"?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the issue of your paper of Aug. 23 there was a report about remarkable musical instruments belonging to the members of New York Symphony Orchestra.

It is true that I am the owner of a cello of the Italian master Nicola Amati, which was owned by the famous Russian writer Turgenief, but I am not a member of New York Symphony Orchestra.

THE YELLOWSTONE PARK.

Writer Backs the Directors in Their Management.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As one who has spent much time in Yellowstone National Park and is pretty intimately familiar with the facts involved in the present investigation, may I register a word of comment?

In the first place, my congratulations to THE TIMES for its thoroughgoing handling of the matter. You have sensed that the administration of our national parks is a matter of fundamental public interest, and it is a pleasure to see the intelligent exposition you have given this present tempest in a teapot and all the space you have devoted to it.

It happens that a year ago I looked into the Silver Tip Ranch matter pretty thoroughly. Also, I knew at first or second hand most of the critics of Horace M. Albright. And to know them and to know Colonel Albright is answer enough to the whole thing.

Silver Tip Ranch, as has been explained by Albright in your news columns, occupies a key position at the very edge of the park. In the hands of some one hostile to game protection and those things for which the park stands, it is a serious menace. For years it has been a delight for poachers. Thanks to Albright's far-sightedness, Silver Tip's present owners became interested in it, so that without expense to the Government the park's game protection activities are vastly increased.

I have been over most of the trails in Yellowstone and at about all the hotels and camps. I know Albright intimately and most of the rangers. For their jobs there could be no more altogether admirable group of men. There has to be some discipline of employes and visitors, and Albright, though a disciplinarian, is a wise and politic one. That he has some petty enemies in the vicinity is inevitable. That the investigating Senators should permit their time to be wasted is the pity. The greater pity is known to the people who follow the national park activities and who are given to understand that the basis of most of the present trouble is the personal hostility of Senator Cameron of Arizona toward Director Stephen Mather of the national parks.

Mather, it is said, in the interest of the parks and the people who use them, has spoiled certain of Cameron's monopolies. And so most of the real object of the present row is "to get even with Stephen Mather," who is personally responsible, if ever an individual could be, for the magnificent administration and splendid development of our national parks. FRANCO-BRITISH DEBT.

Britain Viewed as Scoring Another Diplomatic Victory.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Most editorial comment seems to treat the Franco-British debt arrangement as a too clever trick of M. Caillaux which is doomed to failure. This is no doubt correct if we regard it as purely a piece of French diplomacy. But obviously it is first of all a piece of British diplomacy.

The Churchill-Caillaux agreement very possibly gives England all she could ever get out of France, anyway. If we meet England's terms to France, England gets the credit, in Paris, of beating us down. If we do not, Mr. Churchill is at liberty to make a new arrangement with France, if he thinks it will do him any good, or to demonstrate England's greater degree of Christian charity by leaving the arrangement as it is. In either case the United States is in the hole.

The trick may "fail" from the French viewpoint, in that we shall exact a promise of more money than the present agreement envisages (how the money can be collected is another question); but obviously, from the British viewpoint, it was not a question of collecting money, but of acquiring good-will in France and putting Uncle Sam visibly in his place as the natural enemy of all Europe. British diplomacy has succeeded in winning the favor of France at the expense of America, just as it succeeded in winning the favor of America at the expense of France in the course of Mr. Harding's new benediction of understanding at Washington. Whoever loses the current diplomatic battle, old Rule Britannia generally wins it.

For our own sake we ought to try to take a realistic view of these matters and to understand that the British are going to work hard in every diplomatic conflict, because they must. The war, which was a glorious triumph for the British Empire, pretty nearly sank Great Britain. If Americans had had a taste or a talent for high politics, we should have been able to replace England as the strongest power in the world. We have more people, we have more money—but the British, unfortunately, seem to have not only more energy but more brains. In 1923 they convinced America that France was militaristic and that England alone sympathized with American idealism. In 1925 they convince France that America is greedily covetous and that England alone sympathizes with French practical necessities. In the struggle for existence success goes to those who struggle hardest and use their heads. ELMER DAVIS.

Wants More Pay for Engineers.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

While considering the necessity for, and the merit of, increases in salaries, it might be well to note that at present there is in the employ of the City of New York a body of workers whose training, experience, duties and responsibilities are perhaps greater than those of any other public employes.

An increase of 25 per cent. is being advocated for all engineering employes in the service of the city. That such an increase is only just and deserved can easily be understood when one considers the years of study required, the experience necessary and the responsibilities involved in the work undertaken and carried out by these public servants. Yet, in the main, such men receive less than the laborers and other unskilled and unschooled men whom they direct.

It may be well to know that, until appointed to a higher grade or position, members of the engineering profession working for the city can receive a maximum salary of only $3,180 per year. Many times it is as low as $1,200. Averaging on a daily basis we find laborers getting from $6 to $7 a day and skilled mechanics from $10 to $12 a day, yet the engineering employes, men who direct these laborers and mechanics, receive only from $4 to $7 a day.

This plainly shows that engineering is not receiving its just recognition. The increase of 25 per cent. is exacting, and yet not at that, should be simply the beginning of a movement to place engineering in its proper sphere on an equality with medicine, the bar and other recognized professions.

New Yorkers should consider it a duty to see that the engineering employes receive the increase, for it is to them that the people look for protection and improvement in their bridges, water supply, sewers, highways, sewers and rapid transit. L. A. T.

POWERS MAY SOLVE CHINA'S PROBLEM

D. H. Lawson of Shanghai Tells Corporation Officers His Views of Situation.

TARIFF MAY BE RAISED

Newspaper Man Says Chinese Trade and Commerce Will Expand If Stability Is Restored.

Definite progress toward a solution of the Chinese problem will be made at the conference of powers to be held in Peking next month, in the opinion of D. H. Lawson, business manager of The China Press of Shanghai, China, who is in New York on a visit. Mr. Lawson was the guest yesterday of Emil Schulz, head of the World Wide Advertising Agency, at a luncheon in the Bankers Club attended by officials of several corporations which have large investments in China. Those at the luncheon included Clark H. Minor, President of the International General Electric Company; George Scott, Vice President of the United States Steel Products Company; F. H. Somerton, Vice President of the World Wide Advertising Agency, and J. R. Pollock of the New York Telephone Company.

Mr. Lawson said that the whole trouble in China today centred on the demand of the powerful elements in the country for a recognition of sovereignty. He declared that popular feeling was not against foreigners as such, but that the Chinese felt they were the victims of outside domination. The popular movement, he said, was being led largely by younger Chinese who had been educated in American and European colleges, and that a restraining influence was being exerted by the elder statesmen of the country.

The foreign population in Shanghai in general feels that the Chinese have something of a grievance, according to Mr. Lawson, and he believes that the international conference would give its sanction to an upward revision of Chinese import tariff duties. He declared also that a compromise probably would be reached regarding the question of extraterritoriality, under which China would obtain some jurisdiction over the foreign quarters, with foreign business concerns retaining the right to have their legal cases tried before courts of their own nationality. Mr. Lawson said he expected the United States to take a position in sympathy with China at the conference. This country will be represented at the conference by Ambassador McMurray and by Silas Strawn, an international lawyer of Chicago.

Mr. Lawson said that the Shanghai strike was virtually over, except for the British cotton spinning and weaving mills and British shipping. The strike, he said, had started in mills owned by Japanese and had spread generally. The Japanese and other foreign interests, including Americans, had adjusted their differences with the Chinese, leaving the British trade situation the only one to be settled.

Mr. Lawson said that if stability were achieved by the international conference a great expansion of Chinese trade and commerce would follow, and that this would be financed to a great extent by American capital.

RADIO TEST FOR EUROPE.

Geneva Experiment Will Determine Wave Length Allocation.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Aug. 31.—At midnight tonight, an all-Europe broadcast test will take place here in connection with the project recently decided upon at the international radio meeting to allocate to every European station a certain wave length, which will prevent interference with transmissions between countries.

This will involve the alteration of the wave length of nearly every country in Europe. International authorities and the leading experts of every country are aiding in the measuring of the wave lengths.

The success of the experiment largely depends upon absolute accuracy in transmitting on the allocated wave lengths to each country. Arthur R. Burrows, director of the International office of radiophony in Geneva, will direct operations here.

BLAMES US ON LEAGUE.

Sir George Foster Says We Could Aid Arbitration.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 31 (AP).—Sir George Foster, former Vice President of the League of Nations Assembly, believes that the Americans, by their "tardiness" with regard to participation in the League, have made it more difficult to bring about compulsory settlement of differences between nations either by arbitration or through the Permanent Court of International Justice.

In an address explaining the aims and accomplishments of the League before an audience here the veteran Canadian statesman said:

"Had the mighty force of the United States been with us in the last few months, I believe that today compulsory arbitration of international disputes would be an accomplished fact and the menace of war removed from civilized nations." The League no longer is weak, he said, but has developed great power and influence.

SOUTHAMPTON, L. I., Aug. 31.—Southampton got a thrill this afternoon when Charlie Chaplin, without the mustache and the big feet, walked up Main Street followed by an adoring retinue of small boys.

This village as a rule takes little interest in its distinguished Summer visitors. But Charlie's coming caused great excitement. From every doorway and window fingers pointed and voices called "there he is."

The little comedian was dressed in a gray flannel coat, a sky blue sweater trimmed with yellow, striped flannel trousers and a straw hat. He explained that he was here "just for a rest" with friends, and was enjoying the ocean bathing.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 31 (AP).—Mrs. Imogene Remus, wife of George Remus, former Cincinnati bootleg king, filed a suit for divorce here today.

The petition, which charges cruelty, was filed on the eve of Remus's release from the Atlanta Penitentiary, after having served a sentence of two years for violation of the prohibition law.

Remus will be re-arrested at the prison gate and brought back to serve a second sentence, one year in jail and fine of $1,000. On his arrival in Cincinnati he will also be arrested on an indictment returned against him in St. Louis.

MRS. WRIGHT DROPS OPIUM COMPLAINT

OUR CONSUL APPLAUDED

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Aug. 31.—Mrs. Hamilton Wright, prominent American opium crusader and assessor of the League of Nations Opium Advisory Committee, today withdrew the charges that a superfluous amount of opium, permitted to enter North Borneo, was flooding the Philippines. Her action followed receipt of a cablegram from General Leonard Wood, Governor General of the Philippines, which states official reports indicate a very small amount of opium is being smuggled into the American Eastern Island possessions.

The information, Mrs. Wright said, indicated that American attempts to deal with the opium problem had not been a failure. "If it is possible to protect some thousand-odd islands from smuggling, and prevent importation of opium save for medicinal purposes," she said, "it shows the United States has not been unsuccessful in carrying out Chapter 2 of The Hague Convention, which calls for progressive and effective suppression of opium save for smoking even though China is directly across the way."

Mrs. Wright then demanded to know where the immense amount of opium in North Borneo was going if it was not entering the Philippines. In the last statistical year there were 22,000 pounds or 7,500 grains per capita for the adult Chinese population there, Mrs. Wright then asked to have copied for circulation the legislation passed for restriction of the use of opium in the Philippines.

Mrs. Wright, since the opening of the commission's session a week ago, has stressed the injustice of permitting superfluous quantities of opium to go to a country whence it was smuggled to the Philippine Islands. Her effort to turn her mistake to advantage caused some surprise in the commission.

The report on the work of the commission which was discussed at length in a private session, on the need and usefulness and qualifications of assessors was published today. It is interpreted as indicating there will be more than one change in the three assessors assigned to the commission. It also contains material for the League Assembly discussion.

American Consul Pickney Tuck, at the close of the session, asked that his status be changed from "observer" and that it be indicated he was instructed by his Government to attend the meetings in an unofficial capacity. He made a brief statement that his Government was always desirous of cooperating in any effort to enforce and strengthen The Hague Convention.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Aug. 31 (AP).—The declaration of the American Consul, S. Pinkney Tuck—"It is the desire of my country to continue cooperation with other nations on the basis of The Hague Convention of 1921 for the suppression of the traffic in opium and other drugs" was received with applause at the final session of the League's Advisory Committee of Opium and Drug Traffic today.

The Chairman, Sir Malcolm Delevigne, in thanking Consul Tuck, expressed his colleagues' pleasure at the Consul's presence, if only in the capacity of an observer.

"I hope he will be here next year," said the Chairman, "if his Government lets him come."

PASTOR SAYS COOLIDGE WON'T RULE ON CHURCH

Brands Story of Split in President's Congregation "Hot-Weather Fiction."

Characterizing as "hot-weather fiction" a recent story that the First Congregational Church of Washington, D. C., is rent over questions relative to the site and type of the new church building and that President and Mrs. Coolidge would be asked to help decide these matters, the Rev. Dr. Jason Noble Pierce, pastor of the church, in New York yesterday for speaking engagements, issued a statement regarding the controversy, Mrs. Pierce said.

A campaign is contemplated to raise funds for the church, of which President and Mrs. Coolidge are members.

"The questions of location of the new church building and the type of building have not yet been finally determined," said Dr. Pierce. "There is unanimity of desire that we should remain in a downtown church in the center of the hotel and retail business section of the city, where transportation will converge. We are endeavoring to forecast whether we should move a few blocks to a new location which might be in a more strategic centre in the future.

"It would be a great mistake to imagine that a democratic-spirited President like President Coolidge would wish to exercise any more voice or vote in decisions than any other member of the First Congregational Church.

"Moreover, we have to avoid even the appearance of building for a prosperity that might be purely incident to the Presidency of Calvin Coolidge. The work which our church has to accomplish in the next century must be planned not on the basis of its being the Administration church, but on the basis of its being a free, evangelical church in the downtown section of the nation's capital, which is also the leading educational city in America."

LONDON, Aug. 31.—London is holding a fashion show to prove that English dress artists can be as original as their Paris rivals.

The most startling novelty is a "snakeskin" dress made of chiffon velvet stamped to look like a snakeskin. The serpent illusion is heightened by the fact that the dress consists of narrow strips of material arranged to give a shaded effect.

Tiger, leopard, crocodile and other skins are similarly imitated in other gowns, all having slippers and other accessories to match.

Originality is shown in an evening dress of velvet which shades from purple, suggesting night to pinks, suggesting the "rosy flush of dawn." The right side of the gown starts from the right shoulder and the crescent moon in diamante on one side and a few diamond stars scattered on the bodice give the key to the scheme. Dawn appears toward the hem.

There is a picture gown wherein 250 yards of lace are used. Another striking creation gleams with phosphorescent lace.

There is not much material in a certain tubelike walking dress of black rep but this restraint is counterbalanced by the lavish use of buttons, of which it boasts 600.

Padded hips on low waisted evening frocks and even a bustle gown were to be seen, but the last named failed to arouse any enthusiasm.

Lady Knill in opening the exhibition discussed the question why women take pains to dress well. She did not agree that it was in order to please men and expressed the opinion that it was to please themselves. Women, she said, could not be suitably dressed if they were "barely" dressed. "I don't think real men care very much for this bare dressing," she added.

In this connection it may be mentioned that a number of gowns shown exposed the wearer's back bare nearly to the waist while the front was full up to the shin. The tendency of all dresses is to become longer.

20 MERRYMAKERS GO DOWN WITH BOAT

Lone Survivor Swims Three Hours to French Coast for Assistance.

PARIS, Aug. 31.—The fishing smack Teresa Maria of Port Vendres capsized under dramatic circumstances at Banyuls Bay yesterday when bringing home twelve and according to some reports, twenty, passengers from a local festival.

The boat set out all right in fine weather and a calm sea late last night from Banyuls-sur-Mer, a small seaport at the foot of the Pyrenees, making for Port Vendres. This morning a man was seen struggling off Cape Bear, making toward the shore against a stiff breeze and the strong sea that had risen during the night. He was young Riere, son of the skipper of the Teresa Maria.

Helped ashore, he reported that a sudden squall had struck the boat during the night and capsized her.

While an unknown number of passengers clung to the wreckage Riere decided to attempt to reach land and search for aid.

Swimming three hours, he finally succeeded.

A lifeboat searching the sea on the spot of the accident found no trace of the wreckage, and it is feared all perished.

SEIZE GEMS ON LEVIATHAN.

Searching Squad Acts on Tip From Paris—Steward Is Held.

While the Leviathan of the United States Lines was steaming from Quarantine yesterday afternoon to her pier a special searching squad from the Treasury Department seized eighteen diamonds valued at more than $3,000 which were in the possession of J. Norman, a bedroom steward, who was arrested and will be taken before the Local Division of the Custom House today.

Information that Norman had the jewels had been received from Paris and was as usual given by the clerk in the jewelry store through the agent of the Treasury Department. The former will receive 25 per cent. of the duty paid or the sum realized for the diamonds if they are confiscated and sold by the Federal authorities.

The Leviathan was delayed in docking until 4 P. M. on account of the tide. She carried 1,550 first and second-class passengers.

FAST RUN FOR MACMILLAN.

Explorer Reports Record Voyage on Return Around Greenland.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 31 (AP).—Donald B. MacMillan, returning from the Arctic with the Bowdoin and Peary, is making a record-breaking run around the Greenland coast, he reported in a radiogram received today by Daniel W. Hoegg of this city. The message, which was picked up at Pittsfield, Mass., was as follows:

"Bound home with fair wind. Having a record-breaking run around the Greenland coast. Shall call at Holstensburg tomorrow. All well."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (AP).—The MacMillan expedition planned to take on coal at Umanak, on the west coast of Greenland, before proceeding to Godhaven, where ancient Norse ruins will be studied, said a dispatch received at the Navy Department today from Lieut. Commander Byrd.

SAMUEL LEDERER DEAD.

Chicago Brewer Dies in Luzerne—Made Millions on Prohibition.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Samuel Lederer, rich brewer and real estate operator, died in Luzerne, Switzerland, on Saturday, according to telegraphic information received by his family today.

Mr. and Mrs. Lederer left here two months ago for a European trip. He had been ill and took the trip in the hope of regaining his health. He was 63 years old and is survived by his widow, a daughter, Mrs. Allen Keefer, two brothers and five sisters. Mrs. Keefer is now on the way to Europe.

In February Mr. Lederer was ordered by the Government to pay income taxes amounting to $650,000 for the years of 1919 and 1920. Mrs. Mabel Boisecke, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, filed a lien of $1,000,000 against his property. He was reputed to have made millions through huge whisky holdings at the time prohibition went into effect.

Services Held for W. O. Stoddard.

Services for William O. Stoddard, author and last private secretary to President Lincoln, were held yesterday afternoon at the residence of his son, Ralph Stoddard, at 37 Crescent Grove, Madison, N. J. The Rev. Minot C. Morgan, pastor of the Fourth Street Presbyterian Church of Detroit, a brother-in-law of the younger Mr. Stoddard, officiated. In a brief eulogy the minister referred to Mr. Stoddard's associations with Lincoln, his military service in the Civil War and his love for children as exemplified in his many books for boys. Burial in Hillside Cemetery, Madison, followed the services.

F. G. MATHER DIES; AUTHOR AND EDITOR

Historian of Sons of the Revolution in New York Was a Kin of Cotton Mather.

A VOLUMINOUS WRITER

His Topics Included Canada, Legislation and Outdoor Life—Member of Many Societies.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., Aug. 31.—Frederick Gregory Mather, journalist and author, who wrote more than 200 articles for magazines and encyclopedias, died at his home, 710 Prospect Street, yesterday, after a week's illness. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Evan S. Kellogg of Schenectady, N. Y., now in Europe.

Mr. Mather was born in Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 11, 1846, a descendant of the Richard Mather who was the father of Increase Mather and the grandfather of Cotton Mather, and who arrived in Boston in 1635. After graduating from Dartmouth in 1867, he spent several years in the lavish use of buttons, of which it boasts 600. Cleveland, trying both business and law, before he found that writing was his true vocation. In 1874 he became an assistant editor of The Binghamton (N. Y.) Times, soon purchasing an interest in the Binghamton Republican, of which he assumed the chief editorship. The two papers were later combined, Mr. Mather retaining his interest and direction of the enlarged property.

In the winters of 1874 and 1875 Mr. Mather, as the representative of the United States Bureau of Education, inspected the schools and colleges of Quebec and Ontario. Leaving Binghamton in 1879, Mr. Mather made a tour of New York State as political reporter for The New York Tribune, and soon afterward established his home in Albany, where he remained for seventeen years, from 1880 to 1897, acting as correspondent for several newspapers.

In 1888 John Hay's famous novel, "The Bread Winners," was published anonymously, and at once was made the subject of lively guessing as to its authorship. A Cleveland paper, supposed to be wiser than its contemporaries on a home matter, announced that Frederick G. Mather was the author. The inspiration of the guess was probably a similarity of anagrammatic names for Cleveland and Buffalo in the book and in a magazine article which Mr. Mather had published some months before. The error was promptly pointed out by Mr. Mather in a letter to The Buffalo Express denying that he wrote the book.

The voluminous writings from Mr. Mather's pen covered a wide range of subjects. At first he specialized in Canadian topics, later treating all sorts of local historical subjects, legislation, outdoor life and mechanics. His series of articles in St. Nicholas, "Plays, Things and Amusements of an Old-Fashioned Boy," delighted both young and old readers. He edited "New York in the Revolution" and gathered a mass of original material relating to the War of 1812. His earlier magazine articles were illustrated by himself.

Mr. Mather was the historian of the Sons of the Revolution in New York, and he was a member of many historical and genealogical societies and clubs, among others the Society of Mayflower Descendants, Society of Colonial Wars and the Ohio and Albany Societies. He was formerly President of the Stamford Yacht Club and the Stamford Historical Society, 1911-1923.

ARTHUR T. BRADLEE DIES.

Prominent Bostonian Stricken While on Vacation in Maine.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 31.—News reached here today from Prout's Neck, Me., of the sudden death there this morning of Arthur T. Bradlee, President of the William Whitman Company, Inc., of 78 Chauncey Street. Mr. Bradlee, who had been at Prout's Neck with his family about four weeks, was planning to return to Boston tomorrow. He had suffered from heart disease for some time.

Mr. Bradlee had been with the Whitman company for thirty-five years. He was a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he also served on the faculty of the mechanical engineering department. He was a member of the Union Club, the Exchange Club and the Country Club. He is survived by his widow, who formerly was Gertrude Bemis, and a son, John T. Bradlee, a graduate of Harvard in 1922.

There are four surviving brothers, Harry G. Bradlee of the firm of Stone & Webster, Edward C. Bradlee of the law firm of Warner, Stackpole & Bradlee; Charles W. Bradlee of the Bradlee, Chapman Company, and John T. Bradlee of New York, who is connected with the New York firm of Henry W. Peabody & Co. Three sisters, living here, also survive.

Mrs. Van Rensselaer Buried.

Services for Mrs. Sarah Jauncey Van Rensselaer in Newark yesterday marked the passing of the last member of the Schuyler family, who were pioneer settlers in that section of New Jersey.

Mrs. Van Rensselaer was a direct descendant of Arent Schuyler, who in 1719 purchased a plantation on both sides of the Belleville turnpike, extending from the Passaic River and including the copper area in the Arlington section of Kearny. Burial was made in Christ Episcopal Church Cemetery, Belleville, after services in Trinity Cathedral, conducted by the Rev. Peter R. Deekenbach, rector of the Belleville church.

James Ferdinand McCann, Painter.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Aug. 31 (AP).—James Ferdinand McCann, 66, of Boerne, Texas, noted painter, died here yesterday. He had been in ill health for the last three years, but his condition was not considered serious until a week ago, when he came to San Antonio for medical treatment.

McCann attained prominence as the painter of "The Golden Monarch of the Golden West," "Sweet Texas" and "The Sphinx" and "The Texas Longhorn."

His son, Claude C. McCann of McFaddin, Texas; a brother, Henry McCann of England, and a sister who lives in Russia, survive him. The funeral will be held Monday afternoon at Victoria.

150 HONORARY BEARERS AT POWERS'S FUNERAL

Policemen and State Troopers Escort Cortege From Jersey City to Trenton, N. J.

The funeral of Patrick T. Powers, sports promoter and President of the old Eastern Baseball League for eighteen years, was held yesterday morning from his late home, 2,617 Hudson Boulevard, Jersey City. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at 10 o'clock in the Roman Catholic Church of St. Aloysius, Kensington and West Side Avenues, by Msgr. J. J. Mooney of Babylon, L. I., a cousin of Mr. Powers. He was assisted by Msgr. Mark Duffy and the Rev. Ralph Glover, both of Jersey City.

One hundred and fifty honorary pallbearers marched two abreast from the house to the church. Among them were A. Harry Moore, Jersey City Commissioner; Jack Dunn, President of the International League; William Murray, formerly manager of the Jersey City baseball team of the International League, and Fire Chief Roger Boyle of Jersey City.

After the service an escort of four motorcycle policemen accompanied the cortège to the Elizabeth line, where they were relieved by State troopers, who continued to Trenton. There local policemen acted as an escort to St. John's Cemetery, where a burial service was conducted by the Rev. Peter J. Hart, rector of the Sacred Heart Church of Trenton. Mr. Powers was a trustee of the Grand Lodge of Elks and flags draped in black were seen at every Elks lodge along the route from Jersey City to Trenton.

This New Pen of Precious Metal

IS going into the schools as well as the offices because it serves modern needs better—and costs no more. Metal construction* makes Wahl Pen proof against all ordinary wear and abuse—it is practically unbreakable. Ink capacity is increased, weight and balance perfected for the smoothest writing action any pen has ever possessed.

All models are gold or silver, as these precious metals have the best wearing qualities as well as beauty. Yet prices are the same as for other good pens.

*Fountain pens as first made carried the ink supply in the pen barrel itself. To prevent corrosion by ink acids, the entire pen was constructed of hard rubber.

Then the self-filler was brought out. The ink reservoir in this type of pen is a soft rubber sac inside the pen barrel—no ink touches the inner walls of the pen.

The self-filler made possible the next big step in pen improvement—Wahl metal construction. Cap and barrel of Wahl Pen are gold or silver for beauty, balance, lightness, strength and durability for a lifetime of wear.

Wahl Pen carries the guaranty of The Wahl Company, foremost manufacturers of fine writing equipment.

Andy the Ashman asserts

ANDY is an authority on back-door gossip. And his profession gives him a good line on the kind of heaters folks use. "It's a funny thing," opined Andy solemnly, "what different amounts o' fuel people burn winters. The Gigleys used three tons more'n the Lanes and their houses is twins. The only way I kin figger it out is that the Lanes has a Thatcher Boiler. I hear coal's goin' up considerable, this Fall."

THE special "Staggered Fire Travel" of the Thatcher Round Boiler puts the smoke and gases to work heating the house instead of allowing them to go to waste up the chimney. This method causes the direct heat to pass between and over every part of the section.

FROM THE FOUNDER'S WRITINGS

some people ask. If you could have heard yesterday morning's pre-sunrise around the white porch, where they flocked at about 6 A. M. for breakfast, you would say you never heard such singing in all your lifetime from any human beings trained in Italy or elsewhere.

There they were, a happy family of robins, bluebirds, blackbirds, threshers, meadow larks, sparrows, bobolinks, not all singers, but trying to practice their scales, and some of them only half fizzling a note or a whistle, as if they were only dreaming in their sleep.

"The birds are entitled to our great respect," as Audubon used to say, for their perseverance in following the furrows and cleaning the bark of trees of millions of insects, bugs and creeping things that swing up where the farmer's plow turns the furrows, upon the dead wood in the forests and groves where they find cover.

This Store takes lessons from the birds and books and daily intercourse with its customers to be useful to the people.

Opossum in the new shades—red fox, fitch, cocoa, natural, skunk, stone marten and black.

Fitch comes into its own, either in its natural beauty, or in silver, Havana or German.

Civet cat, for its brilliant black and white design, has mounted in favor.

Squirrel will be used in the blue fox or kolinsky shades as well as its natural color.

And there are the long hair furs, wolf and fox, of many kinds and colors—along with the soft beauty of ermine, mole, beaver or nutria.

Imported Velvet Brocaded Chiffon

One of the most important weaves of the season

at $8.50 yard

FOR THE $11 TO $14.50 GRADES

The story in a nutshell: One of the best-known importers of beautiful fabrics offered us at a very low price his entire collection of fine French velvet brocaded chiffons. They are quite the loveliest brocaded chiffons we have seen anywhere this season, and his offer enables us to pesent them at an incomparable price.

THE NEW FASHIONS

have a decided inclination toward fullness, and velvet brocaded chiffon will obviously be a highlight in the new mode, for it is very soft and pliable.

EXQUISITE PATTERNS AND COLORINGS

A notable feature of these brocaded chiffons, and one that instantly proclaims their fine quality, is that the patterns are all woven. In the collection you will find every new light and vivid shade that Paris has adopted for the new season, as well as the darker shades that year after year retain their important place in the mode. 36 and 40 inches wide.

MONTANA STOCKMEN ASSAIL SETTLERS

Tell Senators That Homesteaders Get Their 640 Acres to Unload on Big Ranchers.

PLEAD FOR GRAZING LEASES

Witnesses Declare Forestry Service Permits Should Be Put on Permanent Basis.

CALL LAND UNFIT FOR TREES

Reduction of Range Herds, It Is Asserted, Means Higher Meat Prices to Consumers.

Special to The New York Times.

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 31.—This was Montana livestock men's day with the Senate Committee on Public Lands. It was a fine pioneer crowd of men who appeared before the committee and they told a story of hardship, so far as the stockmen are concerned, the members of the committee will long remember.

They were not "kickers" and did not blame the Government for the failure of the rain to fall or the reluctance of grasshoppers and other forage eating insects to quit the country on short notice. But they did argue that the problem of the national forest, the public domain and the Indian reservation is one of the first magnitude, the solution of which will redound to the benefit of all the people in all sections of the country.

It was testified that in Montana vast areas of so-called national forests are areas where trees never have and never will grow, while the Federal homesteading policy is an "illusion" which works to the injury of the livestock man and the impoverishment of the man who comes West expecting to create a home in the great open spaces.

Fresh from the invasion of Yellowstone National Park—and the Senators wish they had left that national beauty spot off their schedule—the committee arrived in Helena this morning to find cattlemen and sheepmen from all parts of Montana waiting to tell their stories. At Missoula the big chiefs of the Flatheads will be on hand ready to argue the cause of the redmen.

Ranchers' Program Outlined.

The first witness today was J. A. Morse of Dillon, for thirty years one of the big men of the Montana live stock industry. He comes from the Beaverhead country, and his herds of cattle and flocks of sheep graze both the national forest and the national domain. He said he was reluctant to criticise the men who are at the head of the Forestry Service, yet there was, he added, much that could be done to aid the cattlemen and help the meat-consuming public, for in the end, no matter how great the burden of the cattle raiser, that burden, he declared, is passed on to the meat-eating public of the United States.

To begin with, said Mr. Morse, the Forestry Service should permit the cattlemen to run their animals into the forests on May 1 instead of four weeks later, and grazing fees should not be increased but if possible lowered, until the cattle raiser should have some sort of a guarantee that his use of the land has a permanent status instead of being revocable at the pleasure of some forestry official.

"What of these forest reserves?" Mr. Morse was asked.

"Those in my part of Montana," he replied, "are covered with grass. There are a few trees. They don't amount to much from a tree viewpoint; just about enough trees on them to make a few fence posts or a little firewood."

"Don't you think," Senator Kendrick asked, "that if protected over a long period of time trees of real timber value will be the result?

Says No Timber Was Ever There.

"Well," replied Mr. Morse, "the Indians had these lands for thousands of years and the trees did not grow, and I don't know any reason why they should grow now that the white man has them. Timber never was in these so-called national forests I have in mind."

"Who in the end pays the bill due to the misfortunes of the cattle industry," inquired Senator Oddie.

"Everybody," replied Mr. Morse, "must know the answer to that question. The troubles of the men who raise live stock, their failures, their financial burdens are, of course, reflected in the prices the consumers must pay for what these men produce. The live stock business is the backbone of this Western country, and its prosperity is just as essential to the happiness and welfare of the people who live in the East and South as of those who live out here. There is no question about that."

It is estimated that of the Western cattle herds fully 70 per cent. graze the national forest and public domain ranges. In the last few years there has been, in the opinion of Mr. Morse, a reduction of from 30 to 50 per cent. in the public range herds.

"What of the 640 acres public domain homestead law?" asked Senator Stanfield.

"In my opinion," answered Mr. Morse, "that law is a joke. Very few homesteaders, now, are sincere. They come out here with a few blankets, a small stove, some kitchen utensils, and build a little sabin and come around every ten days or so. Their land is on the range, and when the cattle man comes along he has to settle, and off goes the homesteader."

Another big figure in the Montana cattle and sheep business is C. H. Williams in Deer Lodge, the next witness. He is a member of the State Senate and has been a cattleman for more than forty-two years.

He was in agreement with Mr. Morse as to the wisdom of making it possible by law for a cattleman or sheepman to obtain a term of years grazing areas in the forests and on the public domain. In all the Deer Lodge country, he declared, there remains no public land on which a family can homestead and make a living. Those who homestead now, he asserted, are but the victims of an "illusion."

The position of the cattleman or sheepman, added Mr. Williams, should be legalized. He is entitled to a standing before the courts in matters relating to his use of the public lands."

Answering a question by Senator Kendrick, Mr. Williams said he did not believe it would ever be possible to make trees grow in the Deer Lodge Forest reserves.

Peter Paulett, another veteran live stock man, followed Mr. Williams. He argued for a law that would make possible a long tenure of forest or public domain allotments by stockmen. His testimony was in agreement with that of Mr. Morse and Mr. Williams.

Declares Many Have Sold Out.

William Terrett, representing the Montana Cattle Owners' Association and the holder of a permit in the Custer National Forest, urged a reduction of grazing fees and declared that cattlemen in his part of the range country are still operating at a loss. He predicted that the reduction in the size of herds will reach, unless the situation changes, at least 35 per cent. In the Custer Forest area a great many old-time cattlemen, he said, have given up the fight, sold what they had left and quit the country.

Mr. Terrett complained that there are many users of the Custer ranges who are operating without permits, and he charged that the Federal authorities have made no effort to drive these illegal users off the ranges or to penalize them in other ways. He declared the cattle business is still in a precarious condition.

"Yes," replied Senator Kendrick, himself one of the biggest cattlemen in the West, "it is still on the toboggan."

Mr. Terrett told of one man who had a permit to graze 14,000 head of cattle on the Crow and Flathead Indian Reservations. When he shipped the cattle to market, added Mr. Terrett, it was found that he had nearer 40,000.

"We are going into the Indian situation tomorrow," remarked Senator Cameron.

There were many other witnesses, all of them well known in the Montana cattle and sheep business. They endorsed everything Mr. Morse, Mr. Williams and Mr. Terrett, who were the principal witnesses, had said.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 31.—There is 75 cents at the City Hall here and no one knows what to do with it.

For the last three weeks Alfred Patterson, secretary to Director Kuehnle of the Department of City Property, has received a quarter each Saturday morning in the mail. Except for the words written on a piece of note paper, "enclosed is 25 cents," the letters, all exactly alike, do not say where the money comes from nor what it is for.

Mr. Patterson said the money is probably a "conscience payment."

BROOKHART WINNER IN TENTATIVE RECOUNT

Senate Check-Up Shows 184 Majority Over Steck, With Ruling on 8,727 Contested Votes to Come.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—(AP)—At the close of the Senate recount tonight of the votes cast in the Iowa senatorial election, supervisors for both Senator Brookhart and Daniel F. Steck, his Democratic opponent, claimed victory for their candidates.

The final outcome, however, will not be known until the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections canvasses the 8,727 challenged ballots and officially passes on them. If all of the challenged ballots should be declared valid, Senator Brookhart would have a plurality of 184 votes.

The total Senate count for the State, including both paper and voting machine ballots and those challenged, as well as the undisputed votes, gave Brookhart 450,019 and Steck 449,835. The State Auditor's certified report filed after the election gave Brookhart 447,504 and Steck 446,840, which showed a plurality of 754 votes for Brookhart, who accordingly received a certificate of election.

When the machine ballots were checked up, however, Senator Brookhart was found to have received 631 more votes, which increased his plurality to 1,385 at the start of the recount of paper ballots. In the recount of paper ballots 5,420 more ballots were counted than the State election officials had allowed and out of these Steck gained 1,201 votes, reducing Brookhart's lead to 184.

The disputed ballots include 6,461 for Brookhart and 2,266 for Steck.

SHOOTS AT WOMEN ENTERING HOTEL ROOM

Guests Excited as Assailant of Actresses Dashes Out Through Lobby.

Two young women, said to be actresses, were attacked by a man early yesterday morning on the ninth floor of the Hotel America at 145 West Forty-seventh Street. The intruder, who had evidently waited several hours for the young women to return to their room, fired one shot at Miss Babe Price. Both Miss Price and her companion, Miss Babe Bradley, escaped uninjured.

Their assailant made five unsuccessful attempts to fire his revolver at them as they stepped from the elevator. The revolver jammed but was discharged on the sixth attempt, the bullet striking the tiled floor a few feet from Miss Price. The man then ran down the stairs, still carrying the revolver in his hand, and dashed through the lobby and disappeared down Forty-seventh Street.

The screams of the two women aroused other guests in the hotel and Miss Price fainted. It was thought at first that the bullet had struck her, but Dr. Schmidt of Bellevue Hospital found that she was uninjured.

Later Miss Price said she recognized the man as one she had met in Rochester, N. Y., and who followed her to this city.

H.H.LIHME SUED FOR $50,000

Brother of Princess Lobkomicz Faces Guard's Auto Injury Suit.

WATCH HILL, R. I., Aug. 31.—Harold H. Lihme, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Bai Lihme of New York and Watch Hill, and brother of the Princess Anita Lobkowicz, married on Saturday, is defendant in a suit for $50,000 damages, brought by Edwin D. Vennard, a former member of the Coast Guard here.

Vennard claims that as a result of a collision between his motorcycle and young Lihme's Packard car he has lost the use of his right eye and his right ear and will be permanently unable to follow his usual vocation.

He charges that Lihme was driving carelessly and with great speed and that he drove his car against the plaintiff's motorcycle with violence.

The accident occurred on Sept. 28, 1924, in Westerly.

The suit will be tried in October in the Washington County Superior Court. John Ferguson Jr. is the lawyer for Vennard and Judge Herbert W. Rathbun is Lihme's counsel.

At the time of the accident Lihme was brought up on a charge of reckless driving and paid a fine of $100 and costs.

STRIKE MAY DELAY MAJESTIC'S SAILING

Cunarder Berengaria Also May Be Held Up by Seamen at Southampton.

SITUATION GROWING ACUTE

Australian Ports Report 33 Vessels With £660,000 Cargoes Unable to Leave.

Copyright, 1925, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—The Giant White Star liner Majestic, which vies with the Leviathan for the title of the world's biggest steamship, may be prevented from sailing from Southampton for New York on Wednesday as a result of the seamen's strike. It is possible that another of the world's largest liners, the Cunarder Berengaria, which is due to sail from Southampton for New York on Saturday, also may be held up at Southampton by the strike.

Besides these two great vessels several other steamships may be affected and one—the Royal Mail liner Arlanza—already is in difficulties as a result of the discontent of her crew. The latter refused today to sign for a voyage to South America on the reduced wage scale recently made effective. The Arlanza is due to sail Friday from Southampton for Buenos Aires.

As for the men of the Majestic, it is stated tonight by the Marine Workers' Union that they are cancelling agreements to sail for New York Wednesday, despite the fact that they were signed on, as is customary, immediately after the Majestic's arrival at Southampton last Friday. It is feared that the Majestic's crew may give the twenty-four hours' notice required for terminating their agreement unless the old wage scale is restored.

The situation in Southampton today is acute and there is considerable unrest apparent along the docks. Besides the ships mentioned, others which may be affected by the strike include the Union Castle liner Edinburgh Castle, due to sail Friday for Africa, and the Royal Mail liner Araguaya, which is expected to leave on a pleasure cruise. Both hope to sign on crews tomorrow, but in view of the crisis among seamen in Southampton it is feared the men may refuse to sign on, thus preventing these liners from sailing.

Another liner besides the Berengaria due to depart from Southampton for New York next Saturday is the Royal Mail steamship Orduna. She, too, may be held up by refusal of her crew to sign on. This is true also of the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Scotland, due to sail from Southampton Saturday for Quebec.

Besides the liners slated to leave Southampton several are scheduled to call there during the next few days, including the Red Star liner Belgenland from Antwerp for New York; the Cunarder Antonia, from London for Montreal, and the Canadian Pacific Company's Minnesota, from Antwerp for Montreal. So far, however, there seems to be no reason to fear there will be interference at Southampton with these ships.

The majority of the discontented men at Southampton are members of deck and engineering departments.

Taken in conjunction with the shipping crisis in Australia and South Africa, considerable apprehension is felt here that Southampton developments may become serious.

33 Vessels Held in Australia.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Aug. 31 (AP).—It is estimated that thirty-three vessels, with cargoes valued at about £600,000, are being held up in Australian ports by the unofficial strike of British seamen.

Two vessels have been able to put to sea with mixed crews for the voyage to England, they carried much of the cargo which was intended for shipment by several vessels tied up at the dock here by the strike.

BOMBAY, British India, Aug. 31 (AP).—A contingent of 700 Indian Lascars, the first to be recruited here to replace the striking British overseas sailors, left today for South Africa.

Blames Reds for Shipping Strike.

QUEBEC, Aug. 31 (AP).—Havelock Wilson, President of the British National Seamen's Union, said on his arrival here today from England that the strike of British overseas seamen, which is not authorized by the union, is to be explained by the efforts of Reds to destroy the British Empire.

"The Reds recognize that our shipping is the main artery and connecting link of the empire," Mr. Wilson said. "For a long time the Reds have cast longing eyes on the British shipping industry, believing that if they could capture the men of the sea their propaganda would become world-wide and that it would be possible to overthrow Governments in all countries and bring about world revolution.

"There is no doubt that many of these Reds are in the pay of the Russian Soviet Government."

MINISTER RETURNS TO WIFE.

Roscoe Ziegler, Former Klan Kleagle, Reconciled After Trip to Texas.

Roscoe Carl Ziegler, former New Jersey minister and a King Kleagle of the Ku Klux Klan, who went to Texas recently with Miss Margaret Roberts and took with him $1,800 of Klan funds, has effected a reconciliation with his wife, according to a message received yesterday by his counsel, Walter D. Van Riper of Newark, N. J.

Action by the Federal Government against Ziegler on charges of conspiracy to violate the Mann act is still pending. A divorce action brought by the Klansman's wife is also pending.

According to Mr. Van Riper, Ziegler and his wife are living together at Milford, Pa. Miss Roberts was engaged to be married to another man. At that time Mrs. Ziegler was bitter in her denunciation of her husband and declared that she was through with him.

Ziegler, who was a Methodist minister, formerly held a pastorate at Bound Brook, N. J. He moved to Hope, N. J., and afterward to Washington, N. J., where, as King Kleagle of the local branch of the hooded order, he spent most of his time in Klan organization work.

FOILS $50,000 GEM THEFT.

Clerk Presses Burglar Alarm With Foot and Thugs Scurry Away.

The presence of mind of a clerk in sounding a burglar alarm foiled an attempted hold-up at the pawnshop of T. Newman & Sons, 1,076 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, yesterday and prevented the theft of $50,000 in jewels.

Harry Pinsker and two other clerks, Thomas Murray, a printer, and five customers were in the store when three men entered. All held pistols. Everybody in the store obeyed the command of "hands up." The thugs kept their eyes on a safe which contained $50,000 worth of jewels when Pinsker reached under the counter with his foot and released a burglar alarm. A bell rang outside and the robbers scurried out.

They jumped into an auto which sped through Fulton Street to Bedford Avenue, where it was lost in the traffic.

Roses From Trotsky at Red Agent's Burial; Non-Religious Funeral First of Kind Here

Hundreds of Bolshevist sympathizers gathered in Campbell's Funeral Church yesterday noon at funeral services for Ephraim Skliansky and Isaiah J. Hoorgin, Soviet industrial leaders, who were drowned Thursday. Paul J. Zlev, successor to Hoorgin in the Presidency of the Amtorg Trading Corporation of 165 Broadway, presided.

The ceremony was the first of its kind in this country and was non-religious. Mr. Zlev explained that under the Soviet Government religion was not recognized. Accordingly he confined his remarks to praise of the deceased and reminiscences of their connection with the Soviet Government. He recalled that Skliansky had formerly been a close associate of Trotsky. A large wreath of roses bore a card saying "To my dear friends and co-workers." It was placed there, Mr. Zlev declared, on orders from Trotsky.

Instead of the conventional funeral march there rang out the strains of the Russian Revolutionary hymn. Five hundred wreaths adorned the chapel. Not all who wished could crowd in. After the ceremonies a procession of four buses, two flower cars, ten limousines and other cars accompanied the two hearses to Union Hill Cemetery, where the bodies will be cremated, preparatory to shipment to Moscow.

Hoorgin had been in this country two years. His business was purchasing machinery for use in Russia. According to Charles Recht of 120 West Fortieth Street, attorney for the Amtorg Corporation, many of the floral tributes came from prominent American manufacturers and financiers, who, he declared, had held the Soviet leader in high esteem. Mr. Recht, however, refused to give out any names.

The two men were drowned when their rowboat capsized on Long Lake, N. Y. So far as is known, they had no relatives in this country.

HOLD-UP AS CROWDS PASS IN BROADWAY

THUGS POSE AS CUSTOMERS

One Pulls Coat Over Salesman's Head and Subdues Him—Many Join in Pursuit.

Heedless of crowds hurrying to and from the financial district, three men held up three employes of Mos Levy's clothing establishment at Broadway and Cortlandt Street yesterday morning. Before the policeman regulating traffic at the intersection of the thoroughfares could be told of the hold-up, the robbers had escaped with $500 which they had taken from a drawer in the cashier's booth.

The robbers entered the place on the second floor at 9:30 A. M. One of them told Abraham Goldberg, a salesman, that he wanted to buy a suit. Goldberg pulled a suit from a rack and had handed the coat to the "customer." The latter pulled the garment over the salesman's head with such violence that he forced Goldberg to the floor and sat on him.

The other two thieves than pointed pistols at Julius Morris, the manager, and compelled him to walk over to where the first robber was struggling with Goldberg. Allen Rollin, the porter, started to the assistance of Morris and Goldberg. He, too, was restrained and forced to stand beside Morris and Goldberg while the first robber rifled the cash drawer.

The hold-up men then backed out of the door, warning their victims they would shoot to kill if an attempt was made to follow them. They had hardly reached the street entrance, however, when Rollin darted after them, but they had disappeared in the crowd.

Rollin ran up to Policeman Daly, who was regulating traffic within fifty feet of the entrance to the building, and told him of the hold-up. Daly, followed by hundreds of civilians, searched in vain for the thieves.

CHASE FOLLOWS SHOOTING.

Alleged Gunman Caught After Cafe Employe Is Wounded.

John McCurdy, 28 years old, employed in a café at 540 West 145th Street, was shot three times and probably mortally wounded yesterday afternoon as the result of what police say was a fresh outbreak of a Harlem gang feud.

As the shooting ceased Daniel McCarthy, 25 years old, of 557 West 144th Street, identified later as McCurdy's assailant, rushed from the café, commandeered a taxicab, and at the point of a pistol started the driver on a wild, careening course. When the cab was abruptly halted by a collision with a truck, McCarthy jumped into another one whose driver finally obtained assistance from a traffic policeman.

McCarthy is the brother of "Tom" McCarthy, called "King of the Forgers" by the police and recently sentenced to seven years in Sing Sing. His capture then was due to publicity given to him following a raid upon his apartment by hold-up men, who stole $3,000 in cash and jewelry.

Shortly after eleven o'clock yesterday morning Daniel McCarthy, according to the police accounts, entered the café where McCurdy was working, and, shouting, "Now I've got you," fired four times. He commandeered the cab of Rubin Porton of 1,513 Charlotte Street, the Bronx, and with his gun at the driver's head sped east on 145th Street. Turning a few corners and returning on the same street the cab crashed into a truck owned by the International Business Machine Company at the corner of Amsterdam Avenue. The truck was overturned but no one was injured.

McCarthy immediately leaped into a second cab driven by Adolph Miller of 15,111 Ninety-ninth Street, Richmond Hill. At 145th Street and Eighth Avenue Miller slowed the cab and called to Policeman George Donnolly of Traffic B. The latter jumped on the running board, knocked McCarty to the floor as he started to lift his pistol, and arrested him for violation of the Sullivan law. A charge of felonious assault was preferred later against him.

McCurdy was taken to the Knickerbocker Hospital, where his condition was said to be serious.

Three Armed Men Hold Up a Newark Chain Store.

While making a collection in a branch store of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company at 359 Lyons Avenue, Newark, yesterday, Fred Hiller of 716 Bergen Street, Newark, a collecter, and another employe were held up by three men who pulled revolvers and relieved them of the receipts of a number of stores amounting to more than $1,000.

The robbers escaped in an automobile.

WIFE OF AN ARTIST COMMITS SUICIDE

Mrs. Marion Dickey Phones Her Husband, Then Shoots Herself.

Tiffany Employe Called Home by Her Message Finds Her Dying—Motive for Act a Mystery.

EAST ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 31.—Mrs. Marion Dickey, 37 years old, of 77 South Munn Avenue, East Orange, N. J., wife of James D. Dickey, executive artist of Tiffany's, in New York City, committed suicide today by firing four bullets into her head.

Early in the afternoon at his New York office Dickey received a telephone call from his wife asking him to come home at once, he said. When he arrived, about two hours later, he found his wife unconscious. Near her on the bed was a pistol, he declared. Mrs. Dickey was taken to the Orange Memorial Hospital, where she died.

Mrs. Dickey left a note, which read:

"Jim: This is the obvious and only way—sorry I didn't do it sooner and save you the expense of that trip—sorry you'll have the expense of burying me. You know I can't go home, and apparently home that here existed in my own mind.

"Please do whatever you think best about my clothes. Your shirts are at Zoa Lee's—I took them today. My accounts are balanced in my book. Tell the family I'm sorry, but I couldn't go back to (an illegible passage) on them.

"I'm too discouraged to try all over. I'll never—" (the remainder was illegible and consisted of five or six words).

Tells Chairman of Jersey Commission His Message Is "a Serious Mistake."

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31.—Governor Pinchot served notice today on the New Jersey members of the Delaware River Joint Bridge Commission that Pennsylvania could not be "bullied" into doing something that the laws of the Commonwealth prohibited.

From Uniontown, in Fayette County, he sent a telegram to Theodore Boettger, a member of the joint commission and Chairman of the New Jersey Interstate Bridge and Tunnel Committee, replying to one sent by that official to him last week. In Mr. Boettger's telegram there was a peremptory demand that Governor Pinchot call a special session of the Pennsylvania Legislature to amend the law under which this State is pledged to a free bridge.

The text of the Governor's message follows:

"Your telegram of Aug. 28 has been delivered. When you send me a communication free from all abuse of the Commonwealth of which I am Governor, it will receive attention. Your attempt to bully the State of Pennsylvania is a serious mistake. Our people are for a free bridge and so am I."

Governor Silzer of New Jersey, after reading a copy of the telegram, described it as a "well-deserved rebuke."

"When the Chairman of any commission tries to tell the Governor of a sovereign State how he is to run his Commonwealth, he deserves a rebuke," Governor Silzer said at his Summer home in Seagirt.

Mr. Boettger, at his home in Lodi, N. J., today, said: "I feel that Governor Pinchot has been very unfair to me."

He said that he would reply to the message in a few days.

RESTORES MARINE TO DUTY.

Mayflower Commander Disapproves Verdict Against a Coolidge Guard.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., Aug. 31 (AP).—Disapproving today the findings of a summary court-martial, Captain Adolphus Andrews, commander of the Mayflower, ordered Corporal Andrew Chantos of Cleveland, one of the Marines charged with going to sleep on guard duty, restored to duty without penalty.

Captain Andrews approved the court-martial sentence of 30 days' confinement and $23 loss of pay returned against Private Clarence Key of Centreville, Texas, the other marine tried.

WHAT IS STATIC?

The "Carnegie," a non-magnetic yacht built by the Carnegie Institution of Washington, is soon to start out to sea with a group of scientists on an unusual quest—to study static. Some of the questions to which it is hoped an answer may be found are:

What conditions aid radio waves and what interferes with them? What is magnetism? What is gravity?

ROLLING AUTO KILLS EX-CHAMPION RIDER

Charles S. Wells Releases Brake to Get Car Off Fire and Then Tries to Check It.

Fatally Injured as Rear Wheel Passes Over Him—Telegraph Operator Dies in Crash.

Charles S. Wells, 50 years old, who, in 1895 won the one-third-mile national bicycle championship, was instantly killed yesterday morning when he matched his strength against an automobile rolling backward down Baltusrol Mountain Road, two miles from Summit, N. J. He was knocked down and one of the rear wheels passed over his chest.

Wells was a member of the Spooner & Wells corporation, commercial photographers at 1,931 Broadway, this city, as well as the Eastern representative of Motor West, an automobile magazine, published in Los Angeles by his partner, F. Edward Spooner.

He and Mr. Spooner left their home at Baltusrol Hill for a ride in Mr. Wells's car to Summit. They had gone but a short distance when a blaze started in the carburetor, which had become flooded with gasoline. Mr. Spooner jumped out and ran toward their home for water. Mr. Wells quenched the flame with sand, but noticed that the burning gasoline had dripped to the ground beneath the car and was rapidly flowing under it toward the gasoline tank.

He released the brake and then ran to the rear of the automobile to pull it away from the flames. He is believed to have given the car too much momentum and when he realized that it would probably crash against a cement embankment he braced his feet on the road and, throwing his hands against the rear of the car, attempted to check its descent. The weight of the car, as it gathered momentum, proved too much for him, and he is believed to have made an unsuccessful attempt to leap out of danger.

The victim of the accident was the son of the late "Honest John" Wells, supervisor of Alameda County, Cal. He came into unexpected prominence in the cycling world about thirty-five years ago when, with Zigler and Foster, who like himself, virtually were unknown as bicyclists, participated in the national bicycle meet in Denver and they won all the prizes.

Mr. Wells was at one time editor of the old Newark Advertiser. He had previously been for many years secretary of the New Jersey Automobile Club. He is survived by two brothers, one of whom is sheriff of Livermore County, Cal.

Charles Borden, 60 years old, of 80 Coffey Street, Brooklyn, was instantly killed last night by a motor truck at Atlantic Avenue and Hicks Street, near his home. Ralph Schaffer, driver of the truck, of 5,901 Sixtieth Street, Maspeth, Queens, after carrying the body in his truck to the Long Island College Hospital, reported the accident at the Butler Street Station and was arrested on a technical homicide charge.

Ralph L. Henry, telegraph operator at the Hampton Bays station of the Long Island Railroad, was fatally injured early yesterday morning when the automobile in which he was riding with two other men was in collision with a stalled motor truck at Montauk Highway and Riverhead Road, near Hampton Bays.

The automobile, which was being driven by Theodore Bond, also of Hampton Bays, formerly superintendent of the estate of the late Democratic leader Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, was overturned by the impact, pinning Henry under it. He died in the Southampton Hospital five minutes after his arrival. Bond was unhurt. William Gilbragg, the third occupant of the car, escaped with slight scratches.

Julius Ritz, 16 years old of Gloucester Heights, N. J., fell under a rear wheel of a truck on West Collingswood Heights, near Gloucester, yesterday and received injuries from which he died soon after.

Mrs. Delia Kunz of 620 Baker Avenue, the Bronx, died yesterday in the hospital at Stamford, Conn., of injuries she received last Friday when the car in which she was riding plunged through a wire fence at Stamford, after leaving the road on a sharp curve.

Mrs. H. V. Bruce of Glen Rock, N. J., who was injured last week when the car in which she and other members of her family were riding collided with a tree at Ridgewood, N. J., died yesterday in the Hackensack Hospital.

559 AUTO DEATHS HERE SINCE JAN. 1

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—A slight decrease in automobile fatalities in fifty-seven cities of the United States of 100,000 population or more between Jan. 1 and Aug. 15, 1925, as compared with the corresponding period of 1923, is reported in a country-wide survey just completed by the Department of Commerce.

For fifty-seven cities with an aggregate population of 27,000,000 there were 3,578 deaths for the period of Jan. 1 to Aug. 15 this year, as contrasted with 2,885 from Jan. 1 to Aug. 31, 1923. Comparable figures for last year were not reported. Deaths in the entire year 1924, however, were 4,092, as against 4,827 in 1923.

So far this year New York City has reported 559 automobile fatalities, Chicago 344, Philadelphia 273, Detroit 158 and Los Angeles 138, while for the last four-week period the figures are: New York City 58, Chicago 45, Philadelphia 24, Detroit 31 and Los Angeles 17.

Automobile fatalities in New York City in the first eight months' period of 1924 were 600. The total for the year 1923 was 966 and in the succeeding year 1,001. In 1923 the rate of killed per 100,000 of population in New York City was 14.5 per cent. and in 1924-16.5 per cent.

Thirty-six of the cities reporting show more automobile fatalities in the four-week period ending Aug. 15 last than in the previous four-week period. Norfolk shows no fatalities for the last eight weeks and Dayton, Houston, Lynn, New Bedford, St. Paul, San Antonio and Waterbury show no fatalities for the last four weeks.

New Bedford, with two deaths, holds the low record so far for 1925 among cities of 100,000 or more population.

Two Seriously Injured in Plunge From Montgomery Bridge.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Two persons were seriously injured today when an automobile operated by Samuel Brody of New York City crashed through the guard-rail on the Montgomery Bridge and plunged to the edge of the river eighteen feet below. Brody suffered a broken arm and may be injured internally. His companion, Miss Britt, a trained nurse of New York City, suffered a broken leg.

Both were taken to a hospital here. They were en route to New York City from Sullivan County.

Inspector Cahalane Quits; Holds Record for Rapid Rise

Deputy Chief Inspector Cornelius F. Cahalane retired yesterday from the New York Police Department, his resignation taking effect at midnight. Inspector Cahalane retires holding the record for swift promotion and also the record for having made the highest marks in all examinations for departmental advancement from sergeant to Inspector in his twenty-five years of service.

He is considered an authority on police procedure and his two textbooks on the subject are used in cities throughout the country.

About a year ago, when rum-running in New York Harbor and along adjacent shores was at its height, Inspector Cahalane took charge of the harbor division and put an immediate and rigid curb on rum-running.

He plans to open a police school, specializing in instruction for civil service examinations.

FOSTER DUE TODAY TO HEAD DRY OFFICE

WARNS OF NEW POISONS

Federal Chemist Calls Brucine Sulphate and Nicotine Worse Than Wood Alcohol.

John A. Foster, Acting Prohibition Administrator for the Second District, successor of Romaine Q. Merrick, who left last midnight for Buffalo to assume his new duties there, is expected to arrive here this morning. Mr. Merrick will return on Saturday to confer with Mr. Foster and to formally turn over the office to the latter.

Discovery of two new deadly poisons in liquors seized recently from distilleries in Manhattan, Brooklyn and the Bronx were announced yesterday. The new poisons were found by J. W. Quillen, Chief Government Chemist, after an analysis of alcohol seized during raids on distilling plants in Vestry Street, Manhattan; Pacific Street, Brooklyn, and a third "somewhere" in the Bronx. The poisons, according to Mr. Quillen, are brucine sulphate and nicotine, both more deadly than wood alcohol. It was declared that large quantities of the concoctions made into alcoholic beverages from this alcohol and sold in this city are now in the hands of consumers here.

"In my opinion," said Mr. Quillen, "the death rate from poisonous liquor will increase during the next six months at an appalling rate. I am surprised that it is not already ten times as great as it is."

These beverages have been disposed of in large quantities, it was said, to roadhouses, speakeasies and the retail trade in general.

"Brucine sulphate is a poison the use of which is permitted in the manufacture of specially denatured alcohol for perfumes and toilet articles for external use," said Mr. Quillen.

"Persons who operate 'recovery plants,' which is the trade name for illegal distilleries, put this denatured alcohol through a redistilling process which, they believe, extracts the substances they know are poisonous. But in almost every such case the brucine sulphate is not eliminated. We have proved this by tests on 'imported Scotch and gin.' The same tests applied to alcohol which has been sold to cutting and bottling plants produced the same results."

Nicotine, he declared, was found in other tests as the basic element in liquor supposed to be good. The nicotine alcohol is said to have been diverted from the tobacco industry, where it is used legally.

Before leaving for Buffalo Mr. Merrick said he was convinced that it would be virtually impossible to dry up the metropolis.

Twenty persons arrested over the week-end for alleged Prohibition law violations were arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner William Wilson in Brooklyn and held in bail for trial. Proprietors and managers were held in $1,000 bail each and waiters and bartenders in $300 each. The places raided include the Canoe Place Inn, a fashionable roadhouse in Hampton Bays, L. I., where Julius Keller, owner; John Fields, manager, and Mario Fischero, a waiter, were arrested; Speonk Inn, Speonk, L. I., where Fred Spiegers, owner, was arrested; a café at 599 Manhattan Avenue, Brooklyn; a Russian cabaret at 3,020 West Twenty-second Street, Coney Island; a drug store at 918 Cortelyou Road, Brooklyn; the Russian Tea Restaurant, at 2,915 West Twenty-third Street, Coney Island; the Villa Penza Restaurant, 1,323 Surf Avenue, Coney Island, and a café at 10 Clinton Street, Inwood, L. I.

Inquiry at the office of United States Attorney Emory R. Buckner concerning an action for alleged violation of the Prohibition law against "Arnold Hoekelman, John Doe and the Roman Catholic Church" brought out the information that the church at 500 Hicks Street, Brooklyn, is named as owner of the premises at 37 Lexington Avenue, but that the church is not charged with knowledge of any violation of law.

R. L. MADDOX ENDS LIFE.

Former Superintendent of Foreign Mails Shoots Himself.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Despondent over ill health, Robert L. Maddox, former Chief of the Bureau of Foreign Mails and Purchasing Agent of the Post Office Department, regarded as one of the nation's foremost postal experts, today shot and killed himself in a room in the Harris Hotel, near Union Station.

During the World War Mr. Maddox exercised direct censorship over all cablegrams and telegrams, as well as complete postal censorship. During his forty years of service with the Post Office Department he held many positions of trust.

Mr. Maddox was appointed Assistant Superintendent of the Foreign Mails Division in April, 1893, and became Superintendent of the division in 1913.

In June, 1917, he was sent to Europe by President Wilson to arrange postal facilities for the American Expeditionary Forces, and was commended for his work in this capacity by General John J. Pershing and by the French Army Postal Service.

FOUR STATES PLAN DEATH TAX REFORM

AIDS SECURITY TRANSFERS

Officials Agree on Reciprocal Measures and Will Urge Their Enactment.

DOES AWAY WITH RED TAPE

Six Other States and the District of Columbia Also Will Share In Benefits.

To remove State barriers against the transfer of securities in settling estates and to advance the movement for eliminating the evil of multiple death taxes, tax officials of New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Connecticut yesterday agreed to urge their States to adopt uniform laws. Such laws would permit executors or administrators of estates to obtain immediate transfer of securities from one State to another in cases where a resident of any of these States dies holding property in any of the other States.

Under existing laws much red tape and delay surround the transfer of securities in such cases, with the result that large sums of money are lost by estates through the shrinkage in security values between the date of death and the time when the stock transfers can be legally made and the securities liquidated.

Even when no tax is due from an estate in one State to another State in which a corporation issuing the stock held by the estate is incorporated, the executor or administrator of the estate is required to furnish detailed and voluminous information to the tax authorities in the State of incorporation, and obtain consent before the corporation is permitted to transfer the shares on its books.

Benefits of the Plan.

The proposed reform, by which great saving in time and money is expected, is to permit the executor or administrator to obtain the transfer of stock or other non-taxable securities merely by presenting to the corporation issuing or having possession of them, or to its transfer agent, a short affidavit establishing the fact that the decedent stockholder was a non-resident of the State of incorporation, or a resident of a State having reciprocal laws, and that the property to be transferred is non-taxable.

This plan was decided upon by the tax officials in the realization that the removal of the delays surrounding stock transfers would greatly increase the benefits from the reciprocity laws recently enacted by the four States in question in order to reduce the evils from multiple inheritance taxation. Under the reciprocal laws, each State has undertaken not to impose inheritance or death taxes of any character upon the personal property of a person dying as a resident of one of the other States, providing the State of his residence does not impose similar taxes on personal property of resid

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Conflicting Movements on Stock Exchange—Bond Prices Firm, Call Money 4½.

Yesterday brought the August markets to an end with an extremely uncertain movement on the Stock Exchange and something of a downward trend in commodities. Only in the cotton market did the course of prices indicate positive conviction regarding the actual situation. Even the grain markets showed signs of vacillating judgment, which, indeed, is easy to understand when rising estimates on both home and foreign yields still leave the question open as to how our own prices would be affected by a deficient American wheat crop, even with an unusually abundant yield abroad. But the cotton market's action expressed emphatically belief that the "private experts" and the Government have both been underestimating the crop.

As for the Stock Exchange, the superficial movement might have seemed merely to repeat the story of other recent days; for the numerous more or less emphatic declines were offset by the renewed and sometimes aggressive bidding-up of some highly speculative shares. But a change in Wall Street's mood from that of a week or two ago has become rather noticeable. Perhaps because of the fact that the gradual downward reaction of prices has continued, without the "punishment of the bears" which came to be expected earlier in the month after each tentative decline of a day or two, the feeling has grown on Wall Street that speculation for the rise was overdone and will hardly be resumed at the recent pace. It would certainly have been unfortunate if an attempt to resume it had been successful; for the speculative markets are now close to the time of year when they cannot be allowed to float their balloons with the help of seemingly unrestricted use of banking credit.

In the day's actual changes, advances and declines were numerically not far from equal, and a few actually violent advances were effected, including a 15-point rise in one stock whose recent performances have become notorious, followed by a 6-point fall. But business done in these stocks narrowed; the larger transactions were in stocks which declined under the weight of visible selling pressure, and the market's generally reactionary trend was hardly checked by the four or five spectacular advances. Even the railway shares as a group went lower. But as a rule the day's changes, outside of the so-called "speculative specialties," were only fractional.

The rapid rise in the Danish and Norwegian exchanges continued yesterday. Neither is yet very close to par, but neither is now heavily depreciated, and their advance in the past few weeks has been respectively 5 and 12 per cent. The movement is the more interesting, when it is kept in mind that New York exchange on Sweden, Holland, Switzerland and Germany now stands at absolute parity, with sterling at pre-war rates. Whatever may be the incidental consequences, this return of European exchange to the gold-standard basis is at least a plain indication of Europe's changing economic position.

Yesterday's low price for wheat fixed the low level of the month; the decline of nearly half a cent per pound in cotton (a fall of 1 1-8 cents within a week, or nearly 6 per cent.) brought the spot market to the year's low figure. Cotton, in fact, has not sold for less than yesterday's price since October of 1922, except for one day last May and one other day last September. The speculative cotton market, not yet willing to concede a crop running well above 14,000,000 bales—even that figure would be nearly 400,000 bales over 1924 and would represent the largest harvest since 1914—has ascribed the lower prices to the early ginning and the consequent exceptionally large movement to market. But the Southern planter does not usually hurry his crop to the ginneries and the market unless he is anxious to get the benefit of existing prices, and when he acts upon that motive, it usually reflects his own expectation of a heavy yield.

MONEY.

MONDAY, AUG. 31, 1925.

After an easier tone at the opening, with call money renewals being arranged at 4¼ per cent., the money market firmed up and the rate advanced to 4½ per cent., remaining at that figure for the remainder of the day. An enlarged demand was apparent for time money and the tone was firm, sixty-ninety day loans being made at 4¼ per cent., compared with 4¼@4½ on Friday. There was no change in quotations on commercial paper, but the market was somewhat broader.

Traction Bonds of New York City

Many of these issues are protected by large equities in New York City real estate. The operating companies, in most instances, hold perpetual franchises and are now reporting substantial earnings on the five-cent fare basis.

The situation is one which will bear investigation by investors looking for real bargains.

HITCH OVER BONDS IN STEEL MERGER

Proposed $110,000,000 Consolidation With Otis and Midland Steel Products Is Delayed.

The fight that has developed over plans for a $110,000,000 merger of the Trumbull Steel Company, the Otis Steel Company and the Midland Steel Products Company has resulted in the National City Company withholding the proceeds of a $17,500,000 bond issue of the Trumbull Company, according to an announcement made by E. J. Kulas, President of Otis and Midland.

Conflicting reports regarding the status of the merger plans were received in Wall Street yesterday. Directors of the Trumbull Company will meet in Youngstown, Ohio, today, when it is expected that a solution will be reached. It is generally expected that J. A. Campbell, President of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, will head a committee that will be named to operate the Trumbull properties. Mr. Campbell announced yesterday his willingness to serve on an operating committee, but said that under no circumstances would his company buy Trumbull, as other reports had stated.

No information was obtainable at the offices of the National City Company yesterday concerning the status of the Trumbull bond issue. There was discord at the time the issue was floated the last week in July, when a number of the directors and stockholders of the Trumbull Company tried to halt the negotiations of Jonathan Warner, President of the company, with officials of the National City Company. The deal was closed, however, both Mr. Warner and the bankers asserting that the former had full authority to arrange the $17,500,000 loan. One report at the time was that Mr. Warner had pledged his personal fortune in behalf of the loan. The issue, bearing 6 per cent., was offered to the public at 97½ to yield 6.25 per cent., the bonds to mature in fifteen years.

Since then the situation has become tangled by talk of a merger with Otis and Midland. According to Mr. Kulas, the National City Company was to have paid the proceeds of the $17,500,000 loan to the Trumbull Company last Friday, and he said this had not yet been done. Seldom, if ever, according to opinion in the financial district, has a financing deal of such size been called back by the bankers.

According to messages received from Youngstown yesterday, large preferred stockholders of Trumbull Steel are making a strenuous fight against the merger terms. They declare the preferred's apparent assets above liabilities are three and a half to one. Assets behind the preferred stocks of the two other companies are not so great proportionately, and opponents of the merger declare that assets behind the preferred stock of the merger would be less than two for one on Trumbull stock. In other words, according to this view, the merger would make Trumbull preferred little more than half what it is worth now.

Mr. Kulas, who is slated to head the consolidated company, is confident that the merger will be carried out, but he said that differences over the value of the Trumbull properties would necessitate a new appraisal and cause a delay of several weeks. Without the $17,500,000 debentures against the Trumbull properties, the prospects for a merger are declared to be enhanced in more ways than one. The debenture issue would become a forced first mortgage on the property in case of a merger. This would mean that the new bonds to be offered would be issued against the Otis Steel Company and the Midland Steel Products Company only. If the $17,500,000 issue is withdrawn permanently, the $30,000,000 6 per cent. bonds listed in the tentative capital structure of the combined company would be a first mortgage against all three companies.

The Trumbull works are in Warren, Ohio, the Otis plants in Cleveland and the Midland properties in Cleveland and Detroit.

DETAILS OF BOND OFFER.

Associated Gas Specifies Issue Exchangeable for Options.

The Associated Gas and Electric Company announced yesterday that in connection with the offering of 6½ per cent. interest-bearing option warrants made to stockholders and bondholders having the right to become stockholders, the 6½ per cent. secured convertible gold bonds, due 1936, will be accepted in full payment for option warrants. They will be accepted on the basis of each $1,000 bond for thirty option warrants, $33 paid. This is equivalent to $105 flat for the bonds, the issue price at which they are callable, plus accrued interest.

Holders of the bonds who do not elect to make the exchange on this basis are entitled to rights to buy eleven option warrants at $35 paid. Holders of 6% per cent. debentures, Manila (P. I.) Series A, are entitled to rights to buy six option warrants. Holders of 6½ per cent. debentures, Manila Series B and C, are each entitled to rights to buy five option warrants. The 6½ per cent. Manila debenture series, however, will not be accepted in payment for option warrants.

An increase of 5,858,000 kilowatt hours is shown in the output of the company's properties for the first six months of 1925 over the first half of 1924.

BURNS BROTHERS TO EXPAND

Directors to Be Asked to Approve Acquisition of Three Concerns.

Directors of Burns Brothers, now the largest coal company in this city, will meet early in September to consider plans for further expansion which are expected to lead the company into Boston, Philadelphia and other Eastern cities. The directors will be asked to approve the acquisition of one wholesale and three retail coal companies.

The two principal properties which it is proposed to consolidate are the Wyoming Valley Coal Company and the Steamship Fuel Corporation. The Wyoming Valley has yards in Brooklyn, Long Island, New Jersey and New England. The Steamship Fuel Corporation sells to retailers in all North Atlantic States. The other companies are both retail distributors.

COPPER TRADING LIGHT.

Buying Expected to Continue on a Small Scale for Ten Days.

The demand for copper is small, both here and abroad, but offerings also are slight, and prices are held firmly by the producers. Indications are that buying will continue on a small scale for another ten days until American and European fabricators can determine a definite trend.

Electrolytic copper for domestic shipment is 14¾ to 14⅞ cents a pound, delivered to the end of November. European destinations are at a level corresponding with 14.50 to 14.75 cents c. i. f. Hamburg, Havre and London, with American producers virtually out of the market, asking 15.25 to 15.12 cents.

SPIRITED BIDDING BY BANKS

Dominion Announces Award to Blair & Co., Which Heads Nation-Wide Syndicate.

Following spirited competition among several New York banking houses, the Dominion of Canada awarded an issue of $70,000,000 one-year 4 per cent. notes to Blair & Co., Inc., yesterday. The notes will be offered for public subscription tomorrow by a nation-wide syndicate.

The issue will refund part of a note issue of $90,000,000 underwritten a year ago by a Blair syndicate, also at 4 per cent. Before that Canadian national financing in New York had been handled by J. P. Morgan & Co., which, among others, submitted bids for the present issue. The bids were opened and the award made in Ottawa yesterday. The Canadian Government will permanently retire $20,000,000 of the issue floated last year.

The new Canadian issue, which will be dated Sept. 15, 1925, and mature Sept. 15, 1926, is the largest foreign offering made in New York since the middle of July, when a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. floated a $75,000,000 Australian Government loan. Further Canadian borrowings are expected here later in the year to take care of additional maturities.

Besides Blair & Co. Inc., the houses that will participate in the present offering include the Chase Securities Corporation, the Equitable Trust Company, Cassatt & Co., the First National Bank of Boston and banks and investment houses throughout the country.

RUBBER MARKET FIRM.

Reduction of Stocks Abroad Brings Foreign and Domestic Demand.

A firm tone again prevailed in the local crude rubber market yesterday, due to the more favorable advices from abroad. It was reported from abroad that, following several weeks of increases, stocks in London were reduced 900 tons last week to 4,446 tons, and as a result there was an increase in demand both from domestic and foreign manufacturers.

Spot ribbed smoked sheets were quoted at 91 cents a pound, an advance of 1 cent for the day. This product was quoted at 88 cents for September delivery and 85 cents for October delivery. Other products advanced from ½ to 6 cents a pound. Brown crepe, thin clean, was quoted at 80 cents for spot delivery, 77 cents for September and 75 cents for October. First latex crepe, 94 cents for spot delivery, 91 cents for September delivery and 86 cents for October delivery. Fine Up-River Para was quoted at 78 cents for spot and futures. Reclaimed rubber was quoted as follows: Tires, 9¼ cents; shoes, 8 cents, and tubes, 15½ cents.

SPROULE INSPECTS RAIL WORK IN OREGON

Head of Southern Pacific Says Odell-Oakridge Gap Will Be Finished by Winter.

William Sproule, President of the Southern Pacific, issued the following statement yesterday:

"I have again spent a pleasant week in southern Oregon. I came through Medford and Eugene to meet the Chairman of the Executive Committee of our Board of Directors, Henry W. de Forest, that we might go over the new construction accompanied by some of our chief officers, notably our Executive Vice President from San Francisco, Mr. Shoup, and our Chief Engineer, Mr. Boschke.

"For this purpose we went from Eugene sixty-three miles through Natron to the railhead south of Oakridge, motoring over very rough country to the other railhead at Odell Lake, where rail is being laid at the rate of 6,300 feet daily. The length of the gap between the railheads is twenty-six miles. This interval our engineers hope to cut in two before the next snows shut us down. Any resident of this section who has a mind for such work will be greatly interested in making this trip between the two railheads for there he will see some of the heaviest railroad construction and it will bring home to him the faith the railroad must have in the people of the section served that permits the spending of the money necessary to create this service."

ST. PAUL INQUIRY TODAY.

Commerce Commission to Sift Sale of Trust Certificates.

A hearing by the Interstate Commerce Commission of the events leading to the sale of some $9,270,000 equipment trust certificates by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway to Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and the National City Company will open in Washington today.

Criticism of the road's sale of the certificates to the bankers who do most of their financing rather than opening them to competitive bidding was made recently by Freeman & Co., who asserted that they would have welcomed an opportunity to bid on the issue. The hearing involves a subject long a bone of contention between the carriers and the Commerce Commission. The railroads have on several occasions resisted attempts by the regulatory body to force them to receive bids from several bankers for their financing rather than retain the banker-railroad relationship now existing.

FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

Sharp Advance in French Government Bonds—London Quiet.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—High grade securities were easier on the Stock Exchange today. Oil shares were quiet and British industrials steady. Old 2½ per cent. consols ⅛ lower at 56⅝; British 5 per cent. war loans 101⅝; 4½ per cent. war loan 96⅝; both unchanged. De Beers Mining ¼ lower at 12⅞; Rand Mines unchanged at 3⅛.

PARIS, Aug. 31.—Prices moved irregularly on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes 95 centimes higher at 46 francs 30 centimes; 5 per cent. war loan 40 centimes higher at 50 francs 50 centimes.

Exchange on London 6 centimes higher at 103 francs 49 centimes. The American dollar was quoted at 21 francs 51 centimes, against 21 francs 51¼ centimes Friday.

When an Industry "Turns the Corner"

it is time to buy securities of sound companies in that industry without awaiting for the improvement to be recorded in earning statements. Such securities should be held, ignoring market fluctuations, until the anticipated improvement shall have become an established fact.

THE CIGAR INDUSTRY

The cigar branch of the Tobacco Industry has gone through a severe period of re-adjustment; possibly not as severe, but to many, almost as discouraging as that from which the rubber industry has recently recovered.

It is our opinion that the cigar business has now definitely "turned the corner," and that this recovery may begin to be reflected slightly in production figures for the last quarter of 1925; the potency of the recovery, however, will not logically become apparent in production statistics until well into 1926.

This opinion is based upon the passing of conditions which brought about the temporary decline, and upon changing production and marketing methods into line with these which have made possible the tremendous strides in the cigarette branch of the industry.

The high prices for tobacco last reached from 1918 to 1920, necessitating increased prices for cigars, the temporary passing of the 5¢ cigar and reduction of quality of many of the popular brands, due to poor quality of leaf available, and similar causes resulted in driving many smokers to other forms of smoking.

During the critical periods this year in domestic areas growing leaf largely used in the lower priced cigars, weather conditions have been almost ideal and all indications point to a very large crop of high quality cigar leaf—lower prices for a better quality of raw material. This undoubtedly will enable the manufacturer to produce a better domestic cigar for less money next year when this year's crop becomes available for cigar manufacture.

We believe that large volume, sanitary, mechanical production, together with national advertising and distribution, will make it possible for the smoker to enjoy his favorite cigar at a lower price almost anywhere in America, and with increased profits to dealer and manufacturer.

OTTO EISENLOHR & BROS. Inc.

With an upturn in the cigar business, which we believe will prove increasingly rapid during the next two or three years, it is our opinion that one of the most favorably placed companies in the industry is OTTO EISENLOHR & BROS., Inc.

This Company has behind it a record of seventy-five years of success. It produces (1) "Cinco," one of the best known, most popular and largest sellers of the 2 for 15¢ brands, (2) "Henrietta," another brand enjoying a very large market (price range from 10¢ to 15¢), and through its subsidiary, (3) "Webster," which is one of the best known and popular of the higher quality cigars (10¢ to 25¢) sold throughout the Middle West, and rapidly gaining ground in the East. These cigars are on sale at leading hotels, the United, Schulte and many others of the better class of stores.

Analysis of the last available balance sheets indicates that the Eisenlohr Company is in sound financial condition. The management is recognized as of the highest order. The plants and equipment are reported to be among the most modern and efficient in America. We believe any inventory adjustments which may be made during or for the current year will represent final adjustments of this nature for a long period, and mark the definite return to better earning reports. Every readily ascertainable element seems to indicate that this Company will be in the front ranks of the prosperous cigar companies when the full recovery of the industry can be written into their earning statements.

For these reasons we believe the investor who looks Eisenlohr common stock up, and is willing to await further developments, will ultimately enjoy very substantial dividend returns and commensurate market value appreciation. We do not recommend this stock for a "quick turn" speculation.

Our current circular letter outlining our opinions upon the cigar branch of the tobacco industry and analysis of Otto Eisenlohr & Bros., Inc., will be sent on request.

DIVIDENDS RESUMED ON NICKEL COMMON

International Company Declares a Quarterly Payment of 50 Cents a Share.

TIDE WATER OIL ALSO ACTS

Group One Oil Declares Three Additional Dividends of $200 Each—Chrysler Pays $2 on Preferred.

Directors of the International Nickel Company resumed dividends yesterday on the company's capital stock. Announcement was also made by the Tide Water Oil Company of the declaration of an initial dividend on the new no par value common stock, and the board of the Group One Oil declared three additional dividends of $200 each, making total payments of $1,425 a share for the current year thus far. Chrysler Motors directors declared only the regular quarterly dividend on the preferred stock. It had been expected in the financial district that directors would inaugurate dividends on the common stock and announce the proposed retirement of the preferred.

The International Nickel Company, as was expected, declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock, placing the shares on a $2 annual dividend basis. This is the first dividend declared by the company on the common stock since March, 1919, and is payable Sept. 30 to stockholders of record Sept. 11.

Chairman Hayden's Statement.

In connection with the dividend declaration Charles Hayden, Chairman of the Board of Directors, issued the following statement:

"A study of the quarterly and annual reports of the International Nickel Company for the last four years has shown a steady and continual improvement from the demoralized conditions existing in many industries during the period of deflation immediately following the war.

"By careful and intelligent research the company has now reached a point where it has replaced by good industrial business what it lost by disarmament. This is a much more satisfactory type of business.

"The price of nickel during 1923 and 1924 was definitely subnormal, and while the price today is less than it was prewar, and substantially less than it was during the war, it is one which is showing reasonable profits to the corporation. Its current earnings, plus its strong financial condition, has made the directors feel that the common shareholders are entitled to dividends, and they are glad today to have been able to put the common stock on the list of dividend payers."

Directors of the Tide Water Oil Company announced the initial dividend of 25 cents a share on the new no par value common stock, placing the issue on a $1 annual dividend basis. This is equal to the $4 a share paid annually on the old stock, before it was split up on a four-for-one basis. The dividend is payable Sept. 30 to stockholders of record Sept. 18.

Group One Oil Dividends.

The Group One Oil Corporation has declared three additional dividends of $200 each on the capital stock, payable Sept. 10 to stockholders of record Sept. 5 for the first instalment, Oct. 5 to stockholders of record Oct. 3 for the second instalment and Nov. 5, to stockholders of record Nov. 3, for the third instalment. The payment of these dividends will make a total of $1,425 a share paid thus far this year. Only 2,048 shares of the company's stock are outstanding, of which 32 per cent. are owned by the Texon Oil and Land Company.

Directors of the Chrysler Corporation declared the regular quarterly dividend of $2 a share on the preferred stock for the third quarter of the year, payable Oct. 26 to stockholders of record Oct. 10.

In connection with the dividend declaration, the following statement was issued:

"Shipments for August are running 50 per cent. ahead of those for July and will total over 18,000 cars for the month. Orders on hand represent 60 days' business at the current rate of production. Chrysler cars are now being sold to a dealer organization numbering over 3,800, nearly double the number of active dealers of a year ago. The increase of export business is a striking feature of the corporation's development. Export business this year to date has attained a volume of $8,500,000, and promises to become an increasingly important factor in the corporation's business."

CONFIRMS AN OFFER FOR BRITISH MOTOR CO.

General Motors President Says Purchase Awaits Action of Austin Stockholders.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr., President of the General Motors Corporation, confirmed yesterday the reports recently circulated that the company was negotiating for control of the Austin Motors, Ltd., of England. Acquisition of the property is subject to a vote of approval by the stockholders of the British company. Mr. Sloan's statement follows:

"The desirability of General Motors entering the motor manufacturing field in England has been under consideration for some time. In order to intelligently deal with the subject, a group of General Motors officials went abroad in July to study this and other phases of the corporation's export activities. As a result a proposition has been made and accepted by the directors of Austin Motors, Ltd., and will be submitted to their stockholders in due course.

"If favorable action is taken the result will be that General Motors will obtain control of Austin and will be responsible for its operations in the future. The Austin Company has an extensive manufacturing plant near Birmingham. It manufactures the Austin car, which is well regarded wherever known. The assembly operations of General Motors, now located at Hendon, near London, will be consolidated with the Austin plant at Birmingham. Through such coordination and with the addition of the Austin car to the General Motors line, the position of General Motors in Great Britain and in other overseas countries, particularly those under the British sphere of influence, will be materially strengthened."

JERSEY UTILITY PLANS.

Public Service Corporation to Spend Millions in Construction.

A report made public by the Public Service Corporation in Newark yesterday shows that the corporation spent $12,000,000 in the first half of this year for construction work.

One-half of the amount was spent on the plant and equipment of the Public Service Electric and Gas Company, which supplies more than 200 municipalities in New Jersey. The other half Kearny, N. J. The entire Kearny plant which the company is building in Kearny, N. J. The entire Kearney plant when completed will cost about $50,000,000. The first unit, on which $6,000,000 has been spent, will cost $24,000,000. The corporation expects to have this unit in operation within six months.

Besides the construction of the Kearny plant, another big job on the program is the building of the 50,000,000 cubic-foot capacity gas plant at Harrison, N. J. It is designed to be one of the larest and most efficient gas plants in the country. A 15,000,000 cubic foot gas holder of waterless type will be part of this station's equipment.

No Offer Made C. & O. Stockholders, Says Van Sweringen Agent.

The Van Sweringen brothers have begun negotiations with the minority interests of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad, with a view of settling the dispute over the terms offered the Chesapeake & Ohio which has prolonged the Interstate Commerce Commission hearing, according to a report in railroad circles yesterday. A representative of the Van Sweringen interests in Washington denied over the telephone that any such plans were under way.

If the Chesapeake & Ohio opposition continues, railroad men predict that the commission will not be able to reach a decision on the merger before the first quarter of 1926. If this obstacle is removed, however, it is thought that the unification of the five roads involved may be agreed to before the end of the year.

P. R. R. PLANS STOCK SALE.

Earnings Give Road Opportunity to Finance Improvements.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company, it was reported in financial circles yesterday, will take advantage of the road's favorable earnings to finance improvements by the sale of stock. The rumor was based on the assumption that the market value of Pennsylvania capital stock will reach par.

The month of July was exceptional for the Pennsylvania from the standpoint of earnings, net operating income increasing nearly 85 per cent. over the total for the same month of 1924.

CENTRAL ASKS COST OF 1,000 NEW CARS

Road Sends Inquiries for Hoppers in Revival of Equipment Market.

MAY SPEND $1,500,000

Nickel Plate Reported to Be Ready to Buy 25,000 Freights at Price of $30,000,000.

The railroad equipment market, which has undergone almost unprecedented dullness during the last few months, took on new life yesterday. The New York Central sent out inquiries for prices on 1,000 hopper cars, which will cost in the neighborhood of $1,500,000, and there were persistent trade rumors that the Nickel Plate wants between 20,000 and 25,000 freight cars, for which they probably will pay close to $30,000,000.

The Chicago & Northwestern is also asking for 1,000 cars, which, like the Central inquiry, is regarded as a "feeler" for a larger order. Railroad men would not be much surprised to see the New York Central place orders for 15,000 cars and the Northwestern for 10,000. The Central's recent order for seventy-five locomotives also has been followed by one from the Chesapeake & Ohio for 110 engines at a cost of $8,000,000.

The Georgia, Florida & Alabama is in the market for 250 box cars, while the Southern Railway wants ten steel horse cars, the Pennsylvania Railroad twelve steel passenger cars and the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western is inquiring for fifteen steel passenger cars. The Bethlehem Steel Corporation will build 800 mine cars for the Maryland Coal Company and the Pressed Steel Car Company has booked fifty mine cars for the Pine Hill Coal Company. The Lehigh & New England has contracted with the American Car and Foundry Company for heavy repairs to 600 hoppers.

RETAIL SALES SEASONAL.

General Motors Adopts Policy to Prevent Overstocking.

A statement issued to dealers of General Motors by Alfred P. Sloan Jr., President of the corporation, analyzes for their benefit the corporation's policy with regard to stockings of cars, in which he states that retail sales of motor cars is seasonal, the demand being at its highest in the Spring and relatively low in the Fall and Winter. The analysis of retail deliveries of cars throughout the country indicates that there must be available, he says, about twice as many cars for delivery in April as in October, and three times as many in April as are required for January. This, he says, is a national average, as a more detailed analysis of retail distribution in certain zones indicates even greater variations. In conclusion, he says:

"Perhaps the easiest way to sum up this whole discussion is to say that General Motors recognizes that every dealer is, in principle, a partner with it in a common enterprise. If there have been policies in the past which have adversely affected him, and at times the excessive carrying of cars undoubtedly had, these policies must be changed. He is entitled to and must receive a fair return upon his capital, provided he handles his business aggressively and constructively. It is to his interest and the interest of General Motors that he shall not be overstocked. It is equally to the interests of both that he shall always have sufficient cars on hand to meet the demands of an aggressive sales policy, and, further, that those cars be produced under the most economical conditions. Only in such way can both the dealer and the corporation prosper together. General Motors pledges itself to do everything possible to that end.

OPENS NEW OIL FIELD.

Continental Enters Virgin Territory in New Mexico.

The Continental Oil Company has opened a new oil field in the Table Mesa district, in San Juan County, N. M., according to advices received by the bankers for the company yesterday. The discovery well, which opens up virgin territory was brought in with an initial flow of 250 barrels of 60 degree gravity oil, which ranks among the highest grades produced in this country. The oil is of similar gravity to that produced in the Rattlesnake field, also in New Mexico, which is owned jointly by the Santa Fe Oil Company and the Continental Oil Company. The Continental Oil Company, however, owns most of the acreage in the Table Mesa field.

As a result of the recent discovery of the Rattlesnake field, the Continental Oil Company has erected a 500 barrel skimming plant at Farmington, N. M. This plant is owned jointly by the Continental and Santa Fe Companies. The refined products of this plant, it is pointed out, are marketed in the districts along the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railway in Southern Colorado and New Mexico which formerly were served by other plants. The erection of this new plant, it is said, will result in large savings in freight charges.

COHN-HALL-MARX REPORTS.

The annual report of Cohn-Hall-Marx Company for the fiscal year ended July 31 shows net profits available for common stock dividends, after taxes, reserves and other deductions of $490,930, or $4.90 per share. Current assets were placed at $4,995,213 and current liabilities at $2,062,308. Net tangible assets were shown at $3,055,435. The company has reduced its 7 per cent. preferred stock outstanding to a total of $734,100 at the end of the fiscal year.

President Lawrence Marx made the following statement to stockholders: "During the year past competition has been very keen in the textile trades. Sales have been kept up by continuous and constant efforts. Methods designed to effect economy of operations and to promote efficiency have been developed so that in spite of the unfavorable conditions in the industry we are able to report good profits."

LIVERMORE DENIES ACTIVITY

Says Only Present Market Interests Are Grain and Cotton.

Recent published reports in the financial district that Jesse L. Livermore had resumed operations in the stock market from his Lake Placid residence were denied yesterday by Mr. Livermore in a statement issued from there and carried on the financial tickers by Dow, Jones & Co.

He was quoted as saying that he had been out of the stock market for nearly a year, that he did not follow the stock market and held no opinion of its future, his only present market interests being grain and cotton. Mr. Livermore for years has been known as one of the leading "bear" traders of Wall Street and various stories have been published in the last few months regarding the nature of his current activity "in the market."

Curb Exchange Admits Two Issues.

Two issues have been admitted to unlisted trading privileges by the Committee on Listing and Securities of the New York Curb Exchange. They are the Christie, Brown & Co., Ltd. 10,000 authorized shares 7 per cent. cumulative preference stock par value $100, and 105,000 authorized shares common stock of no par value and the Mu-Rad Radio Corporation, 100,000 outstanding shares capital stock, no par value.

"Lost in the Woods"

EVEN experienced woodsmen sometimes miss their way in the forests, becoming "turned around," and are lost.

So it is that many investors become hopelessly confused in the financial woods, overlooking the well-defined path beaten by many footsteps, leading straight and true to that ideal safe investment—the mortgage guaranteed by this Company.

If You Want...

A care-free, worry-proof investment;
An investment that is second to none;
A guarantee that really guarantees;
A policy that does insure;
A company whose capital fully protects;
A company that limits the amount which it may guarantee;
A legal investment for trust funds in Pennsylvania;

—then let us mail a list of Guaranteed Mortgages to meet your need.

999 STOCK ISSUES LISTED ON EXCHANGE

GOOD DEMAND BY PUBLIC

Movement Is Regarded as Index of Steady Improvement of the Nation's Business.

The New York Stock Exchange now has listed for active trading the record total of 999 preferred and common stock issues, a gain of 73 since Jan. 1. This is an average of nine new stocks admitted to trading on the country's principal security market, per month, since the first of the year and reflects, according to Exchange members, the growth in the trading turnover as well as the increasing participation in the New York security markets of the nation's industries.

The character of the security and the standing of the corporation back of the security are the main points considered by the Stock Exchange in the process of acting upon the numerous applications for listing. Here many issues have been rejected in the period under review is known only to the Stock Exchange committees having these matters in charge.

While the total number of listings is representative of the growth of stock financing in various industries, it reflects only in part the extent of the issuance of new or additional stocks for general trading, since hundreds of issues are traded in on exchanges other than the New York Stock Exchange, here and in other cities. In addition, many securities of established reputation are bought and sold by the public "over the counter," or in what are called "outside markets." The Stock Exchange listings, however, are accepted as a good indication of the demand for stocks by the public generally, and, in this instance of nearly a thousand stock listings, of an accelerated demand in keeping with the present state of business.

Relatively easy money rates over a large part of the year to date, coupled with renewed agricultural prosperity, good business of the railroads as shown by million-car week loadings of revenue freight in recent weeks, greatly increased merchandise sales and shipments, and steady improvement in a number of basic industries besides the agricultural industry have all contributed to bringing out new enterprises and consequently new stock issues. The latter typify the speculative demand of the public for securities, as a rule, as contrasted to the investment demand more definitely typified by the issues of bonds, debentures and notes, which rank before the stocks in corporate capitalization and degree of security, interest guarantees, and so forth.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Scandinavian Currencies Reach New High Levels—Sterling Slightly Easier.

New high records for several years were established in Danish and Norwegian kroner on heavy buying both by European and American interests. A world-wide speculation in these exchanges is now in progress and in addition to other factors they have been strengthened by large loans recently floated in the United States. The movement has been steadily upward for several months, the advance in the exchanges amounting to 25 or 30 per cent. Danish kroner closed at 24.62, an advance of twenty-two points for the day and less than 2 cents under par, while Norwegian closed at 20.05, a gain of almost a cent for the day. Brazilian milreis continued to advance and established a new high record. Sterling was slightly easier and there were few changes in the other currencies.

ALABAMA TRACTION TO VOTE ON BONDS

LARGE CAPITAL PROVIDED

Net Earnings Increased From $830,804 in 1916 to $6,931,848 in Last 12 Months.

Holders of the five per cent. first mortgage fifty-year gold bonds of the Alabama Traction Light & Power Company, Ltd., issued under a trust deed dated March 1, 1912, made between the company and the Montreal Trust Company, as trustee, have been called to meet in Montreal on Oct. 7 to act on the offer of the Southeastern Power & Light Company to issue in place of these bonds 6 per cent. gold debtnures, series A, of the Southeastern Power & Light Company, warrants provided for in the offer will entitle the holders to purchase shares of common stock of Southeastern Power & Light.

The boadholders also are asked to sanction the release of the whole of the mortgage premises and discharge of the company and of the Southeastern Power & Light Company, as having assumed the same, from the whole of the principal and interest owing upon the bonds and from all other obligations under the deed of trust. The new bonds were recently sold to Bonbright & Co. in the amount of $10,000,000.

With the conversion of the Alabama Traction Light and Power issue the capitalisation of the Southeastern Power and Light Company, the new Alabama Power Company holding concern, will consist of the $23,668,900 6 per cent. gold debentures, of which $13,668,900 are to be given in exchange for Alabama Traction Light and Power Company, Ltd., first mortgage 5 per cent. gold bonds, 1962; preferred stock, no par value $7 cumulative, 100,000 shares, of which 19,375 are outstanding; common stock, no par value, 5,500,000 shares authorized and 1,700,000 shares outstanding, and option warrants to purchase common stock at $50 a share, for 473,378 shares to be outstanding. This capitalization gives effect to the proposed exchange of the common stock of the company at the rate of five shares of the new common for each share of the present stock.

Growth of the Southeastern's system is shown by the fact, mentioned in a letter to security-holders of the Alabama Traction Light and Power Company, that net earnings have increased from $830,804 in 1916 to $6,931,845 for the twelve months ended June 30, 1925. Gross for the latter period was $14,161,184, against $1,460,431 in the calendar year 1916.

George H. Artman, for many years connected with the loan department of the National Bank of Commerce, has resigned to go with Connor, Shaw & Co.

United Light & Power and General Gas & Electric Issue Reports.

The United Light and Power Company reported yesterday that for the twelve months ended July 31 its earnings reached a new high record. Gross earnings for the period were $35,712,569, an increase of $1,606,425, and the net earnings were $15,051,082, a gain of $1,440,963 over the preceding twelve months. The figures for this year do not include recent acquisitions of other utilities, which, the report showed, would add $3,650,000 to the gross earnings and more than $1,000,000 to the net earnings.

Operating revenue and other income of the General Gas and Electric Corporation and subsidiaries for the twelve months ended July 31, reported yesterday, were $20,500,549, compared with $17,528,558 for the previous twelve months. Net income after expenses, taxes, maintenance, depreciation and rentals was $6,875,027, against $5,192,130 in the preceding year.

LOW BROS. PLAN APPROVED

Creditors of Brokers Will Receive 100 Cents on the Dollar.

Creditors of Low Bros., brokers, of 2 Rector Street will receive 100 cents on the dollar under a plan approved yesterday by Federal Judge William Bondy. Each general creditor, according to the plan, will receive four notes, each for 25 per cent. of the amount of his claim. The first note will fall due at the end of one year and the others at the end of six, twelve and eighteen month periods thereafter.

Amounts due creditors who have filed schedules aggregate $628,596, and creditors who have not filed schedules have claims totaling $221,561. Judge Bondy appointed Oscar W. Ehrhorn Special Master to hear testimony on claims not yet filed.

As a result of the court action yesterday the partners of the firm expect to resume business soon. They were members of the New York Curb market and failed several months ago.

TO INCREASE STOCK IN MERGER PROJECT

Servel Corporation Shareholders Will Meet to Arrange for Wheeler Condenser Purchase.

CAPACITY OF NEW PLANTS

Will Be Able to Turn Out 100,000 Refrigerating Units a Year, Besides Other Products.

For the purpose of carrying out plans which will bring about the merger of the Wheeler Condenser and Engineering Corporation with the Servel Corporation a special meeting of the stockholders of the latter corporation has been called for Sept. 11 to approve an increase in the capital stock of the company. Part of the increased capital stock will be used to acquire the Wheeler organization, and part will also be issued in exchange for the Hercules Corporation acquired recently from Sears, Roebuck & Co.

The meeting of the stockholders of the Servel Corporation will be held in Richmond. At this meeting the management will ask the shareholders to approve an increase in the authorised Class A stock from 115,000 shares to 500,000 shares, and in the Class B stock from 115,000 shares to 500,000 shares.

The company also announces that to provide further cash for working capital the Servel Corporation has arranged for the underwriting and public offering of 125,000 shares of the Class A stock of $30 a share. The offering will be made through Watson & White, members of the New York Stock Exchange. Following the completion of this financing the company will have outstanding 380,000 shares of Class A stock and 115,000 shares of Class B stock.

Regarding these acquisitions the company in a letter to stockholders states that the new plants will have facilities to turn out 100,000 refrigerating units annually, as well as a large number of commercial machines and other products.

"The relations of the Wheeler Condenser and Engineering Company with the public utility interests are very close," the letter states, "and have extended over a period of many years, so that in acquiring this property Servel is extending and reinforcing its public utility connections.

"Upon completion of this financing the consolidated balance sheet of the Servel Corporation and its subsidiaries will show $7,000,000 in cash, short term investments, accounts receivable and inventory equal to almost six times current liabilities. Based on the business now on hand or in sight the Servel Corporation should earn a profit from refrigerating units and miscellaneous business of about $2,850,000 during 1926."

The letter adds that electric light and power companies consider electric refrigeration offers a great opportunity for additional revenue from their present customers, and that a number of public utility men have recently acquired a substantial interest in the Servel Corporation.

Phone Company Votes Expenditures.

The directors of the New York Telephone Company have authorized the additional expenditure of $1,890,895 for new construction in various parts of the territory served. This brings the total of appropriations made since the first of the year to $40,190,060, of which $34,579,785 was set aside for the enlargement of plant facilities in the metropolitan area.

Jewel Tea Sales Rise 1.80 Per Cent.

The Jewel Tea Company, Inc., reports that its sales for the first thirty-two weeks of 1925 were $5,417,837, compared with $5,320,288 for the same weeks of 1924, an increase of 1.80 per cent.

AUGUST TRANSACTIONS.

Transactions in stocks on the New York Stock Exchange for the month of August aggregated 32,885,127 shares, an increase of 562,319 shares as compared with the previous month and an increase of 10,437,522 shares as compared with the same month last year. COTTON DECLINES 40 TO 46 POINTS

Port Receipts Increase to 80,000 Bales, More Than Weekly Total of Month Ago.

HEDGING OPERATIONS LARGE

New Private Estimate Places Indicated Yield at 14,955,000 Bales.

Under the heaviest selling pressure of the season, cotton lost another quarter of a cent yesterday and closed at a net decline of 40 to 46 points. Port receipts increased to 80,000 bales, which was more than the entire weekly in-sight figures of a month ago, and cotton is now moving on a scale that necessitates extensive hedging operations daily. After beginning the session at a decline of nearly a dollar a bale, the market moved steadily lower until December touched 22.10, compared with 25.05, the high level during July. During the downward movement from 22¼ to 22.10 for December, it was estimated that speculative covering absorbed from 40,000 to 50,000 bales, which arrested the decline the last half hour.

The largest private estimate thus far this year was issued by J. W. Jay & Co., placing the indicated yield at 14,955,000 bales, based on replies received from all sections of the South on Aug. 24. In this estimate seven States are placed in excess of a million bales each, ranging from 1,074,000 for Georgia to 4,144,000 for Texas. Spot sales yesterday aggregated 47,000 bales at a general decline of 25 to 80 points, middling at Dallas being reduced 80 points, to 21¼c.

As was the case on Saturday, Liverpool weakened considerably more than was due to meet the loss in American markets, and as a result the selling movement under way the latter part of the week was resumed at yesterday's opening. Though an accumulation of trade orders around 22¼c. for December served to start quotations only 15 to 20 points off, the weight of contracts soon became such that prices moved steadily lower. In addition to activity in professional and speculative quarters, the quantity of hedges sold for Southern account reached the largest proportions of the season.

It was generally estimated that in the past three trading days a larger volume of hedge contracts has appeared in the market than during the entire month previously. Though each five-point decline encountered buying orders for both domestic and foreign mills, the supply of contracts was sufficiently plentiful to fulfill all this demand on a receding scale. Three active months sold below 22c., October, January and March. From time to time realizing occurred as sellers at higher levels took profits, and during the afternoon speculative covering attained large proportions, which brought a recovery of 10 points the last half hour. More cotton changed hands during the session than so far since the crop began to move.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

Most Products Irregular—Grains Again Lower—Metals React Further—Rubber Firm.

The movement of prices in the local cash commodity markets yesterday was again irregular. Grains were lower with wheat and rye selling down 2 cents a bushel. Spot cotton was off forty points, but crude rubber advanced 1 cent a pound. Copper, zinc and tin again moved toward lower levels.

Yesterday's closing wholesale cash prices for commodities, in the New York market unless otherwise noted, were:

Live Stock Markets at Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Hogs were steady to 10 cents higher early, but the advance was lost later and the finish was easy. The early top was $12.60, while the general average was $12.15, or five cents lower. Receipts of 30,000 were somewhat less than expected and shippers took 6,500. The carryover at the last was 7,000. The bulk of the 140-210 pound averages sold at $12.25@$12.50, with 225-300 pound butchers at $12.50@$12.80 and packing sows at $10.75@$11.10. Fat lambs were in good demand and the market was firmer, with top Westerns at $15.25. Best natives sold to city butchers at $15.35. Feeding lambs brought up to $15.50. The bulk of the lambs sold at $14.50@$15.25. Receipts were 25,000. Receipts of 34,000 cattle were in excess of requirements. The most sales showing 50 cents decline. Some sales were made around $1.50@$2 under the high of last week. Top steers sold at $16.10, with numerous loads unsold late and bids sharply lower.

WHEAT MARKET HITS DAY OF VICISSITUDES

Sharp Drop Early Followed by a Good Rally That Weakens Before the Finish.

FRACTIONAL GAIN AT END

Visible Supply Less Than Half That of Year Ago—Early Corn, With Oats, Lower.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—The wheat market was extremely unsettled, breaking 2@2¼ cents early on liquidation, only to rally 2½@3¼ cents from the low point on heavy and persistent short covering, and closed with part of the advance lost, with prices unchanged to ¼ cent higher. The buying was generally credited to leading Eastern operators who have been aggressive on the selling side for some time past and were taking advantage of liquidation by scattered longs to cover.

With the exception of the decrease in the visible supply, there was little in the general run of the news that was regarded as bearish, and during the day local handlers bought 600,000 bushels of Duluth No. 2 Northern to come here, shipment by Sept. 20, making 900,000 bushels reported bought in the last few days, and another cargo was being figured on with buyers and sellers ½ cent per bushel apart in their views.

The seaboard demand for Spring wheat was reported slow, and there are 875,000 bushels of No. 1 and No. 2 Northern Spring in store here now that are expected to be delivered on September contracts later in the week.

At one time today September went to around 2 cents over the July and was ¾ cent over at the last, as on Saturday. The private crop reports will probably be given to the trade tomorrow.

Aside from the short covering there was rather persistent buying of wheat futures by commission houses, which helped to absorb the offerings.

A decrease of 557,000 bushels in the visible supply brought it down to 82,566,000 bushels, against 83,123,000 bushels the previous week and 89,119,000 bushels last year.

Primary arrivals today were 2,631,000 bushels; week ago, 2,143,000; last year holiday. Shipments were 1,185,000 bushels; wk ago 865,000.

Liquidation was resumed in September corn toward the last and it closed 1½ cents lower, while the deferred deliveries gained ⅝@¾ cent. An increase of 1,266,000 bushels in the visible supply, making the total 6,724,000 bushels against 5,238,000 bushels the previous week and 5,070,000 bushels last year, had some effect on the September.

Dry weather over the West and Northwest is bringing in increased complaints of crop deterioration. Cash lots were ¼@¾ cent lower as compared with September.

Oats finished within a fraction of the lowest price on the crop, with net losses of ⅜@⅝ cent. Deliveries of around 1,500,000 bushels are expected on September contracts tomorrow. An increase of 6,884,000 bushels left the visible at 50,706,000 bushels against 11,403,000 bushels last year.

Primary arrivals of corn were 836,000 bushels; week ago, 959,000, and shipments, 432,000 bushels; a week ago, 203,000.

ELECTRIC CARS IN JAVA.

Their Installation Creates Excitement Along the Railroad, Engineer Reports.

In the Dutch East Indies railroad electrification is as much a live topic, in proportion, as it is in America. On the Government railway in Java the first electric motor car to run on an electrified steam railroad has just gone into operation. The construction engineer of the International General Electric Company, who had charge of the installation and test runs, reports that there was an animated scene on the day when he ran the first car at full speed. "There were hundreds of people," he says, "lining the fence along the railway. They became very much excited, and ran with the car as far as possible, shouting at the top of their voices. There was every race and mixture of races known to the East in this crowd, from naked blacks to richly dressed Chinamen and half-castes."

The prospect of electric service caused a stir in the town for months beforehand. Almost every day groups of residents called to see the car demonstrated. They were impressed by the electrical equipment, as well as by the method of propulsion. The electric fans, a distinct and refreshing novelty, attracted the lion's share of notice.

For New Grain Clearing House Plan.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—A strong appeal that members of the Board of Trade vote for the amendment authorizing creation of a new clearing house plan was issued tonight by a special convention headed by former President J. F. Griffin. L. F. Gates, a former President, who has heretofore been against any change in the clearing house plan today sent out a letter advocating adoption of the amendment. The movement has the backing of Secretary of Agriculture Jardine. The proposed plan if adopted may bring trading in bids and offers.

GARMENT CHAIRMEN REJECT PEACE PLAN

DEMAND SIGMAN RESIGN

Joint Committee for Action Declares Proposals Offer Nothing to Alleviate Strikes.

About 3,000 shop chairmen, representing as many shops in the cloak and suit industry, at two meetings last night unanimously adopted resolutions rejecting as "fraud" the peace plan submitted Saturday by the General Executive Board of the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union and the Joint Board of the Cloakmakers and Dressmakers' Union.

The interunion row, as a result of which twenty-five garment shops are involved in strikes, although in many cases there is no complaint against the employers, must go on, the chairmen said, until Morris Sigman, President of the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union, resigns or is ousted; until the seventy-seven suspended officers of Locals 2, 9 and 22 are reinstated and proportionate representation in the matter of votes on all questions is granted.

The resolution adopted in Webster Hall, 119 East Eleventh Street, and Manhattan Lyceum, 66 East Fourth Street, reads:

"Whereas Morris Sigman, having failed in his campaign to terrorize our members into submission to his leadership by the use of gangsters, wholesale discharges, arrests and injunctions, has now come forth with a so-called peace plan embodying a program of fake reform, and

"Whereas this plan completely ignores the repeated demands of the great mass of our membership for the resignation of Mr. Sigman, the reinstatement of the expelled officers of Locals 2, 9 and 22 and for the reorganization of the Joint Board on the basis of proportional representation; therefore, be it

Resolved that we, the shop chairmen, reject these proposals as a method of bringing peace in our union and brand them as a fraud intended to mislead our membership into believing that the officials of the International and the Joint Board actually desire peace; and

"Resolved that we pledge anew our loyalty to the Joint Committee of Action and shall refuse to consider any peace terms not directly negotiated with the Joint Committee of Action which has been authorized by the great mass of our membership to carry on our fight to a successful conclusion."

Twelve bonds in injunction proceedings against garment workers' unions were filed yesterday in the Supreme Court by Abraham Mann of 51 Chambers Street, attorney for the Roth Costumes, Inc. The defendants named are Louis Hyman, individually and as President of the Joint Committee of Action of Locals 2, 9 and 22; Sarah Bagoon, Lilli Hermlich, Anna Victor, Fanny Barris, Mary Kaplan, Frieda Gross, Ray Niedelman, Lena Lorber, Millie Gross, Roberta Friedman and Anna Weintzmann.

The Joint Committee of Action issued yesterday from its headquarters at 16 West Twenty-first Street, the following statement:

"Not one of the terms put forth by the Joint Committee of Action is met by the peace plan and the reforms it offers would not do anything to alleviate the situation. Mr. Sigman wants a new election, but he does not propose to let the expelled officials run for office. This denies our demand for reinstatement.

"The entire so-called peace proposal is nothing but a brazen fraud and will be accepted as such by the entire membership. It demonstrates the insincerity of Mr. Sigman and his machine. Mr. Sigman may continue his reign of terrorism, but the cloak and dressmakers have been once more convinced that no real peace can exist until Sigman and his clique have been entirely eliminated. The Joint Committee of Action, which, through the consent of the membership has been conducting this struggle against corruption in our union, is determined to carry on the fight for a union representative of the membership."

Mr. Sigman said last night the peace plan had been submitted to the entire membership of the international organization.

STANDARD CUTS GASOLINE.

One Cent Reduction by Indiana Company Affects Eleven States.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Another blow in the gasoline price war was struck today by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana in the announcement of a cut of one cent a gallon in the price of gasoline in the eleven States served by the company.

This brings the price of gasoline to 20 cents a gallon at service stations of the corporation in Chicago and 16 cents for tank wagon delivery. The cut goes into effect tomorrow and is the second reduction made within a week. Last Tuesday the price was cut two cents a gallon.

The official announcement made by the company gave "competitive conditions" as the reason for the reduction. Other companies operating in the same territory are expected to meet the new price.

The action of the Standard Oil of Indiana was preceded by a reduction of 1¼ cents a gallon in gasoline by the Standard Oil of Ohio, making the price 19 cents a gallon for tank wagon delivery in the territory it serves. This was accompanied in the same district by reduction of 1¼ cents to 19 cents by the Sun Oil Company. The Hickock Company came down to 20¼ cents from 22½ cents a gallon and the Johnson Oil Refining Company to 12 cents at filling stations.

WOULD STOP ALASKA LINE.

Mr. Free Calls Government Railroad a Costly Loss.

SEATTLE, Aug. 31 (AP).—Representative A. M. Free of California, ranking member of the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries, who arrived yesterday from Alaska, announced that he advocates the abandonment of the Government railroad in Alaska, built for $60,000,000, on the ground that it is costing more than it was worth.

"Running from Seward to Fairbanks," he said, "the railroad serves a population of less than 5,000. The cost of maintaining it each year is approximately $400 per person of the population along its route."

Mr. Free declared that, in addition to the payment of interest on its bond and sinking funds, the railroad has cost the Government $2,000,000 a year in maintenance and that the future held no prospect of a reduction. When asked what remedy he would suggest, he said: "Pull up the rails and make a highway of it, or build a highway from Portage Bay and abandon the railroad from Seward to Anchorage."

ADMIRAL BRISTOL BACK FROM TURKEY

U. S. High Commissioner Returns After an Absence of Seven Years in the Near East.

WANTS TREATY RATIFIED

Says the Turkish Government Is Making Progress, But It Is Liable to Be Slow.

After seven years' absence, which he spent afloat and ashore at the eastern end of the Mediterranean, Admiral Mark L. Bristol, United States High Commissioner at Constantinople, returned yesterday on the Leviathan of the United States Lines accompanied by Mrs. Bristol.

The Admiral declared that he expected to return toward the end of the year, but would not know the exact date until he had been to Washington. He was met at the pier by several naval officers who had sailed with him or had been under his orders in the Black Sea or the Mediterranean.

During the seven years he has been in the Near East the Admiral has passed through the revolution in Turkey, the overwhelming flood of refugees from Smyrna after the Greek debacle and the difficult problem of the Lausanne Treaty in 1923.

In a statement prepared for the press Admiral Bristol said yesterday:

"Every country in Europe and Asia has made treaties with Turkey except China, Siam, Serbia and Bulgaria. Bulgaria is now negotiating a treaty. Nearly all these countries have resumed regular diplomatic relations and the remainder are doing so as rapidly as it is practicable for the respective diplomatic representatives to present their credentials. The United States signed a treaty with Turkey Aug. 6, 1923, but it has not been ratified by the United States Senate or by the Grand National Assembly of Turkey.

"The Americans in Turkey, who are engaged in business, in operating schools, in rendering relief to suffering humanity and in philanthropic and missionary work, are desirous of having the treaty between America and Turkey ratified and regular diplomatic relations re-established. Our Americans, as well as all other nationals, are having some difficulties in adjusting affairs to the new régime in Turkey. However, they believe regular relations, with definite treaty provisions, will render all adjustments easier.

"The new régime in Turkey is a most remarkable evidence of an evolution in form and administration of a Government. Briefly, an absolute monarchy has been replaced by a republic. Church has been separated from State and religions eliminated from all law codes. Religion of any kind may be taught in the churches and the mosques, but not in the schools. All persons born in Turkey, without regard to race, religion or nationality, have all rights of Turkish citizenship. The Turkish leaders, without previous experience, must evolve the new administration. There are bound to be mistakes and the evolution will be slow, but there are many evidences of progress."

The Admiral said that he would spend a day or two in New York before going to visit his family and friends, whom he has not seen for so long.

SAYS FRANCE CAN PAY.

C. W. Barron Declares Her People Are Prosperous.

Special to The New York Times.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., Aug. 31.—C. W. Barron, a New York publisher, who called at White Court today, said he had explained to the President the effect the unscrambling of the Stinnes holdings would have on German affairs.

Mr. Barron reiterated that France was well able to pay the same interest as Great Britain on her war debt to the United States. He said France was better off industrially than at any time in her career, and her people were more prosperous.

"All that is needed by the French Government is to collect the taxes from her citizens and then the Government will be in a good condition," Mr. Barron said.

France would lose one of its biggest sources of income in the money spent by tourists from the United States and Great Britain, if it did not stop its inimical gestures, Mr. Barron declared. Tourists, he said, would omit Paris and go elsewhere because France did not offer a friendly atmosphere.

Preparatory to leaving for South America, the delegates from this country to the Pan-American Congress of Highways will pay their respects to President Coolidge tomorrow. They include Chairman H. H. Rice, Vice President of the General Motors Corporation; Charles M. Babcock, State Highway Commissioner of Minnesota; Representative E. Hull of Illinois, A. N. Johnson, Dean of the School of Engineering, University of Maryland; Frank Page, State Highway Commissioner of North Carolina; Thomas H. MacDonald, Chief of the United States Bureau of Public Roads; Dr. G. A. Sherwell of the Inter-American Highway Commission and Pyke Johnson, Executive Secretary.

HELD IN BOSTON DISASTER.

Building Foreman Arraigned for Manslaughter in Pickwick Collapse.

BOSTON, Aug. 31 (AP).—Manslaughter in having caused the death of Edith Jordan on July 4 was charged against Nicholas Corrangelo, foreman of a construction gang, when he was arraigned today on an indictment brought in connection with the collapse of the Pickwick Club, which cost the lives of forty-four members of a "night-before-the-Fourth" party. Corrangelo pleaded not guilty and gave bail in $3,500.

His indictment followed three others brought recently against an official and an employe of the Charles R. Gow Company and a city concrete inspector. Twelve persons, indicted previously, were acquitted.

In the course of the trial of those first indicted evidence was presented that the collapse of a pier composed of "rotten" concrete was accountable for the five-story building's collapse with its 125 or more dancers.

California Crude Oil Output Falls.

California crude oil production in the week ended Aug. 29 is estimated at 689,000 barrels daily, a decline of 7,900 from the previous week. In the Southern field, Huntington Beach declined 4,600 barrels daily, Rosecrans 4,400 barrels daily and Dominguez 900 barrels daily. Long Beach and Torrence each gained 1,000 barrels daily.

Southern Dairies Grows in Florida.

Southern Dairies, Inc., which recently acquired the Chapin-Sacks Company and other ice cream and dairy manufacturers in the South, is expanding its operations in Miami, Coral Gables, Hollywood and other Florida cities, it was announced yesterday.

Standardizing Payroll Records.

Standardization of payroll records throughout the cloak and suit industry will be accomplished shortly through the medium of uniform payroll books. The distribution of these books will commence today through the Unemployment Insurance Fund, according to announcement made yesterday by Arthur D. Wolf, Vice President of the Chatham and Phenix National Bank and Chairman of the fund. More than 2,000 employers, he said yesterday, will keep the payroll records of more than 85,000 cloak and suit workers in an exactly uniform way when the system of the unemployment fund is installed. Heretofore employers have complained of the great amount of clerical work which was necessary in connection with the administering of the fund. The new system obviates this, the payroll records and unemployment fund data being kept in one book. The triplicate sheet method is employed, one copy being retained by the employer for his record, the other two going to the insurance fund office. One of these latter copies will be sent to the recently organized Bureau of Research, which is making a further study of the industry by order of the Governor's commission.

Rug Auction Begins Today.

Today marks the opening of the carpet and rug auction of the Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Company, the sale beginning promptly at 9 A. M. The merchandise to be offered comprises 28,000 bales of axminster, velvet and tapestry rugs and carpetings which, according to W. H. Parkinson, sales manager, are valued at approximately $5,000,000. Two-thirds of the goods to be on sale are stock, the remainder being future production, the company reserving the right of delivery to Oct. 1. Mr. Parkinson said yesterday that he expected the attendance at the auction to equal, if not exceed, that of any sale ever held by the company. The terms of the sale are 4 per cent. Nov. 1, with anticipation permitted at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum.

Knitted Outerwear Improvement.

Conditions in the knitted outerwear market continue to show improvement, with both novelties and staples selling better than a short while ago. The general tendency, according to the National Knitted Outerwear Association, is for better bookings on women's goods in these fall selling items are balbriggan suits and dresses. Somewhat of a scarcity of the balbriggan cloth is reported. There is a better reception being accorded the men's and children's lines. The novelty lumber jackets and cricket sweaters are reported as selling well. Reports from New England state the outerwear trade there is below normal. While raw materials are higher the demand is for last year's prices and advance orders are being placed for only small quantities.

To Show English Fabrics.

Finsilver, Still & Moss will open their Spring (1926) lines of English women's wear fabrics today with approximately 300 different ranges of novelties in tweeds and mannish effects, suitable for coats, suits and sport wear. The price in tweeds for tailored suits ranges from $2.75 to $4.75, while in coatings the tweeds are from $2.95 to $5.75. Prices are said to vary only slightly from last year's quotations, since lower prices of woolen fabrics in England are fully balanced by the rise in sterling. Geometrical patterns and figures are said to play an important part in this offering, rather than the stripes and plaids of previous seasons.

Frame Bags More Popular.

Popularity of the metallic bead bag is reflected in reorders received thus far. These emphasize the pouch variety of bag with a frame. Antique metal effects are preferred in the frame, while scenic and flowered effects are prominent in the decorative bead work desired. Tapestry frame bags in needle point, gros point and petit point are also expected to sell round to the better trade. The new frequently taken is that the underarm variety of flat bag has had a sufficiently long run and that, although some of these bags will be sold, the trend is toward the type of bag which has a handle.

Reordering of Men's Suits.

Popularity of the double-breasted suit seems assured for the Fall, according to manufacturing clothiers. Reorders are said to be coming in very satisfactorily, this condition contrasting with the practice of cancelling orders in previous seasons at this time of the year. August sales of overgoods are held responsible for the earlier buying of suits. Various hues of blue stand out in these reorders, and an active business on suits of this shade is expected. This prediction is based on a feeling that the lighter shades have had a sufficiently long run, and that the time has come for switching to something new. It is believed that the more exclusive trade will favor the blue shades to a large extent, but their popularity in the lower priced clothing is also anticipated.

Cotton Yarns Continue Dull.

Business in cotton yarns remains dull, according to leading Worth Street factors. The crop reports last week did nothing to stimulate the market. More accurate final yield estimates are looked for and, meanwhile, dealers anticipate a waiting attitude. Users of the yarns are also measurably influenced by the lack of advance business, which brings no need for them to cover on yarns to any substantial extent. The prices of leading yarns were said yesterday to be about on a par with those of last week, although a firmer tendency toward greater regularity is noted.

Women's Silk Scarfs for Fall.

Women's silk scarfs for Fall are selling well in a wide range of hand-blocked futuristic patterns, although the printed scarfs in multi-colored effects are also in demand. The scarfs now offered have in discarded the fringe which appeared in the Spring merchandise. The scarfs, which are usually of crêpe de chine, are made longer to compensate for the absence of the fringe. In the higher-priced goods, the added length approximates fifteen inches. This allows of the tying of a bow and makes the scarf look more attractive upon the neck.

Tendencies in Silks.

While the satin-faced merchandise continues popular in the silk goods market, it is felt that they have reached the peak of their popularity, and that a swing toward the Canton crêpes and flat crêpe which have a full finish will now set in. Openings of Spring lines of silks will take place within a month. Advance buying of printed silks for the Spring is said to be very good. Futuristic and floral effects are said to be contending for the lead in this advance buying, with the indication that the trend will finally show the floral patterns predominating.

Gray Goods Prices Hold Firm.

Trading in gray goods yesterday was again quiet. The business done consisted of small spot lots at prices that showed no change from the close of last week. Among the transactions reported were sales of 39½-inch 64-60s at 9½ cents and of 39-inch 68-72s at 10½ cents. For 39½-inch 80-80s there was paid 8 cents for undefined quantities, while the ruling figure for 39-inch 80-squares was 10¾ cents. There was a sale reported of 39½-inch 44-40, 3.20s at 6½ cents, with 7.45s changing hands at 7¾ cents. Sheetings were comparatively inactive. Some business was done on the basis of 9¾ cents for 37-inch 48-square four-yard goods and 7¾ cents for 36-inch 56s. Nothing of note developed in pajama checks, drills or sateens.

FOR YOUR PROTECTON WE ANNOUNCE THESE FACTS

Certain firms, inspired by the astounding success which has greeted Campus Sport Coats, are endeavoring to foist upon the trade crude imitations of these coats.

Campus SPORT COAT

PATENTS PENDING

Made in original exclusive Indian designs produced by the world-famous Beacon Blanket Company in CHO-PA-TEE Indian Cloth —tightly woven of 80% fancy Chinese yarn in vivid designs.

The quality and patterns of this bizarre fabric are not even approached by any other. And as we have contracted for the entire manufacturing output of this particular cloth it cannot be offered elsewhere.

WARNING

This coat was originated and introduced by us exclusively and patents have been applied for. Crude, makeshift imitations are a danger to the merchant's interests. We, therefore, will prosecute to the fullest extent of the law all attempts to imitate it.

LATEST DEALINGS IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Fanden Realty Corp. Resells Corner Adjoining the Strand Theatre at Forty-eighth St.

Frank G. Shattuck Co. in Long-Term Lease for New Fifth Av. Location.

The southwest corner of Broadway and Forty-eighth Street, adjoining the Strand Theatre, was resold yesterday by the Fanden Realty Corporation to an investing client of A. N. Gitterman. The property brought a price of more than $1,250,000, on a basis of $1.37 a square inch, which is considered high for the Times Square district.

Improved with a five-story and basement building, known as 1,587 to 1,589 Broadway, the site is entirely surrounded by the Strand Theatre and returns an annual income of about $120,000. Although nothing further was disclosed about the new tenant and his plans, it was announced yesterday that negotiations are under consideration for the leasing of this plot for a long term of years.

The Fanden Realty Corporation, having as its president George Kern and Thomas J. McLaughlin Treasurer, bought the property in July from A. E. Lefcourt and announced at the time plans for its improvement with a twenty-five-story office and theatre building to cost $6,000,000.

The resale yesterday to Mr. Gitterman's client was made through Charles S. Lyons of L. J. Phillips & Co. This is the second million-dollar corner sold by A. N. Gitterman to the same buyers within a short time.

Discussing the future of the property, Mr. Gitterman said: "It is a little premature to discuss plans until a later date. I can, however, say that when the Brewster property on which the Strand Theatre was built, a plot 150 by 200 feet irregular, the net rental of $128,000 was paid. In the light of present-day values, however, this rental would not interest the owners of the small corner fronting only 50 feet on Broadway, with an average depth of 135 feet.

"I am informed that A. E. Lefcourt, a former owner of this plot, was contemplating the erection of a thirty-two-story building for a nationally advertised commodity, as the bend in Broadway makes this site one of the outstanding sky signs on the Great White Way. The present leases are all for short terms. With the inquiries received for space at this and other corners in my control in this immediate vicinity, I feel that $1.37 a square inch is still a low price, when the crowd able to buy commodities are passing for seventeen hours a day."

Schrafft Lease on Fifth Avenue.

Frank G. Shattuck Company, operating Schrafft's, leased yesterday from Frederick Brown, the operator, the six-story and basement building at 556 and 558 Fifth Avenue, 25 feet south of Forty-sixth Street. The building is on a plot 50 by 100 feet and was recently purchased by Mr. Brown from William Ziegler Jr.

The property was formerly the Knoedler Art Gallery and the lease has seven years to run, with three renewals of twenty-one years each, giving the Shattuck Company possession for seventy years. The latter gets immediate possession of the building.

The entire building will be altered for use as the finest restaurant, tea-room and candy shop in the Schrafft chain. This will be the first Schrafft location above Forty-second Street.

Shoe Manufacturers in New Location.

Alfred A. Kohn, manufacturer and retailer, is the latest Fifth Avenue merchant to decide in favor of moving to a new location in the side streets just off Fifth Avenue.

Mr. Kohn, who for the last twelve years has occupied the store and basement at 505 Fifth Avenue, between Forty-second and Forty-third Streets, has leased the store and basement at 20 East Forty-ninth Street, between Fifth and Madison Avenues, in the same block with the new Fifth Avenue store of Saks Co., and the new building being erected at the present time by James McCutcheon & Co., linen merchants, at Fifth Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street.

The brokers in the transaction were Douglas L. Elliman & Co. and A. N. Gitterman.

Before Mr. Kohn leased the store at 505 Fifth Avenue, about twelve years ago, he established himself, about twenty-one years ago, at the northeast corner of Broadway and Thirtieth Street, where he continued in business for about ten years. He then leased the 505 Fifth Avenue store through A. N. Gitterman and Douglas L. Elliman & Co., who, in conjunction with the new 20 East Forty-ninth Street lease, subleased the 505 Fifth Avenue store and basement to the Canadian National Railways, for whom Douglas L. Elliman & Co. have obtained an extension of the lease, at an aggregate rental close to $750,000.

Potter Estate Sells Loft.

A transaction of importance to the district on Broadway below Fourteenth Street, has been made through the sale of the six-story basement and sub-basement building at 806 and 808 Broadway, which runs through to 104 and 106 Fourth Avenue. This property, which contains close to 100,000 square feet of space, has been in the hands of the O. B. Potter estate for about sixty years. The Fourth Avenue part of this property was purchased many years ago by Orlando B. Potter from William Astor, and the entire plot, which is 51 by 231 feet, adjoins Grace Church.

The purchasers are Lubell Brothers, who for many years were located at 502 and 504 Broadway. They will utilize the building for their own business, which is the manufacture of blouses. The property has been occupied for many years by Phil Walkoff, the clothing manufacturer.

In purchasing this property, which was held at $450,000, A. H. Lubell said that his confidence in Broadway property below Fourteenth Street remains unshaken. His company also purchased only recently the southeast corner of Broadway and Twelfth Street, and also owns the six-story and basement building at 836 and 838 Broadway, which was purchased from the Roosevelt estate.

The brokers in the transaction yesterday were the Murray Brenner Company, Inc.

Henry Mandel Buys Block Front on Queens Boulevard.

The entire block front on Queens Boulevard, Long Island City, has been obtained by Henry Mandel with the purchase through Howard LeC. Roome, Inc., and Henry Duchardt of the block front between Van Buren and Madden Streets from Senator Maurice Featherson. The property fronts 200 feet on Queens Boulevard, with 175 feet on Van Buren Street and 175 feet on Madden Street.

Howard LeC. Roome, Inc., was also the broker in the sale to Henry Mandel of the plot, 200 by 400 feet, bounded by Nelson Avenue, Van Buren and Madden Streets, containing about forty lots and directly in the rear of the property purchased by Mr. Mandel from Senator Featherson. This plot was owned by the B. L. D. Corporation, who was represented by Louis Maltbaner.

Operator in Another Staten Island Purchase

Another Staten Island deal has been closed by Jacob A. Fine, an operator, whereby he purchased through U. Bock and R. Bernstein the entire holdings of the Stack Land Company, Inc., located in Great Kills and Eltingville, and extending from Amboy Road to Fresh Kill Road. These holdings consisted of more than 1,000 lots, with extensive frontages on the Staten Island Railroad, Wilson Avenue, Fresh Kill Road, Lamoka Avenue, Katan Avenue, Abingdon Avenue and Escanaba Boulevard.

NEW FLATBUSH LOTS SOLD FOR $644,775

At an auction sale of 195 lots in the Avenue U, Nostrand Avenue, Neck Road, Avenues S and T section of New Flatbush, Brooklyn, held last Saturday by the Jere Johnson Jr. Company, Fred B. Snow, auctioneer, the 195 lots sold for a total of $644,775, thereby establishing an average selling price of $3,300 per lot.

About 1,500 bidders were present at the sale and the bidding was extremely active.

Sixteen lots on Avenue U and Nostrand Avenue sold for $77,000 to Julius Pollack; 10 lots on Avenue U, Nostrand Avenue and Neck Road, sold for $61,000 to the Namils Owning Corporation; also 10 lots on Nostrand Avenue and Avenue S sold for $38,000 to the Bronx Borough Holding Corporation; 5 lots corner of Nostrand Avenue and Avenue T brought $5,000 each, and were sold to M. Simon. Both corners of Nostrand Avenue and Avenue T were sold for $5,000 each to a Mr. Berlin.

Some of the other buyers were Morris Jacobson, who purchased 14 lots for $42,500; Cyzille Wenger, 9 lots for $19,000; Herman Lipton, 10 lots for $29,750; A. & G. Investing Company, 9 lots for $23,400; Aaron Levine, 6 lots for $14,025, and Samuel A. Cohen, 4 lots for $10,000.

ADLON REALTY CO. BUYS THE PEMBERTON FLAT

Eight-Story Apartment on the Upper West Side Changes Ownership.

The Pemberton, an eight-story apartment house at 237 West Seventy-fourth Street, between Broadway and West End Avenue, was sold yesterday by Umatelle, Inc., to the Adlon Realty Company, J. F. Benaim, President. A. & S. Hermann were the brokers. The site is 60 by 102 feet.

The five-story apartment, on a plot 40 by 100 feet, at 505 West 135th Street, was sold by J. S. Maxwell for Joseph and May Billy. It was held at $80,000.

Isidor H. Kempner & Sons, Inc., have sold the property 410 Second Avenue. It is a four-story tenement, containing a store, with apartments above, on a lot 22 by 100 feet. The Kempners recently purchased the property from Anthony Saverese.

Edward Wolfe, operator, sold to Bernard Dolan 2,901 Eighth Avenue, a five-story brick house, with stores, held at $40,000. James H. Reilly was the broker.

KRESGE CO. LEASES BROOKLYN CORNER

Take Thirty-five Year Contract on Broadway and Grove Street Property.

S. S. Kresge Company of Detroit, Mich., has just closed a thirty-five-year lease on property known as 1,317-19-21-23 Broadway, Brooklyn, corner Grove Street. Possession of the property will be taken May 1, 1926, when the company will alter and improve with a modern building, 40 feet front inside by the entire rear, and open a 25c to $1 store.

nder the terms of the lease S. S. Kresge Company has the first refusal on the purchase of this property and the first right to renew the lease. The brokers in this transaction were P. H. J. Daly and Robert E. Fausel for the owners, and George A. Schilling representing the Kresge Company.

The Kresge Company recently also acquired a long-term lease on the neighboring property at 1,325-27-29-31 Broadway, where they will open a 5-10-25c store as soon as leases to present tenants expire. These two leases give the Kresge Company control of a Broadway frontage of 140 feet, the entire block from Grove to Linden Streets, except the property now occupied by the Buckley-Newhall Furniture Company.

A client of Hersfeld & Sweedler sold the northwest corner of Atlantic Avenue and Bond Street, being 20 feet on Atlantic Avenue and 80 feet on Bond Street. The property is a three-story building used for stores and dwelling purposes. The broker in the transaction was Milton M. Eisenberg. The property was on the market for $65,000.

BENSONHURST LOT BUYERS.

Greenfield Park Auction Sale Nets $155,587.

The tract of 149 lots was sold Saturday by Joseph P. Day, auctioneer, in Greenfield Park, a section of Bensonhurst, Brooklyn, for $155,587, or an average of about $1,400 a lot. The property sold has frontages on Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth Avenues, Bay Fortieth, Forty-first and Forty-third Streets and Benson, Bath and Cropsey Avenues.

The highest price of the day was paid for the plot of five lots on the corner of Bath and Twenty-fifth Avenues, the successful bidder paying $2,450 per lot. The seven-lot corner of Cropsey Avenue and Bay Forty-first Street was sold to Philip Glickman, a New York lawyer, for $1,425 a lot. His other purchases were five lots on Bay Forty-first Street for $900 a piece and five lots on the corner of Benson Avenue and Bay Forty-first Street for $1,075 a piece. A. Castellano, the Brooklyn builder, purchased three lots on Bay Fortieth Street for $900 a piece and also two lots on the opposite side of the street for $800 a piece. Morris Jacob purchased eight lots running through Twenty-sixth Avenue to Bay Forty-first Street for $1,050 a piece. Other buyers at the sale were Eugene J. Hancock, who purchased two lots on Bay Fortieth Street for $950 a piece; Meyer Finkel and B. Pikin jointly purchased five lots on Twenty-sixth Avenue. The northeast corner of Bath Avenue and Bay Fortieth Street was sold to Isadore Berkelhammer, who paid $1,425 a piece, the adjoining corner being knocked down to Mr. Glickman. The Poulas Realty Company, New York City, purchased the six-lot corner of Bay Forty-fourth Street and Cropsey Avenue, paying $1,150 a lot.

LONG ISLAND TRACT TO BE DEVELOPED

Nathan Stern Buys 335 Acres at Farmingdale for Small Homes.

LONG BEACH STILL ACTIVE

New York Builders Plan Housing Operation in the Lido Section.

A tract of about 335 acres of land at Farmingdale, L. I., was sold yesterday by the Stuyvesant Realty Corporation to Nathan Stern. The property is on Main Street, adjoining the village and has been held by the sellers at $200,000.

The new owners have plans to develop the tract with small homes.

Ten six-family houses on the boardwalk at West Twenty-third Street, Coney Island, were sold by Mark Mave to Dr. Charles Klyde. The property measures 220 by 110 feet, and has been held at $320,000. Pearl & Newman were the brokers.

In one of the most important vacant property deals recently closed at Long Beach, L. I., a syndicate represented by Edward J. Farrell of Long Beach, acquired forty-six plots in the Lido section at the easterly end of the city, which will result in another notable housing operation by a group of New York builders. The property comprises the two entire block fronts on the north side of Walnut Street, between Roosevelt and Pacific Boulevards, and between Pacific and Maple Boulevards. The lots have a total frontage of 700 feet on Walnut Street and 100 feet on each boulevard. The property is a half block from Park Street and faces the new Eastholme development where several hundred homes are to be erected for next year's occupancy.

Manhattan builders have about completed arrangements for the purchase of one of the blocks, for improvement with a group of cottages on the inside lots and duplex apartments on the corners. The remaining block is to be disposed of for a similar operation. The property just sold was formerly laid out in units of 20 by 100 feet, and restricted against building on less than two lots. Recently it was resubdivided after the plan adopted at Eastholme, into units of 50 by 100 feet, with corners 35 by 100 feet.

Activity at Lynbrook.

Rosenzweig Brothers, who have been very active in Long Beach recently, are becoming active in Lynbrook, L. I., and have purchased a parcel situated on the block with Woolworth's, the Lynbrook Theatre, the Soldier's monument and the Five Corners.

The parcel comprises 102 feet on Merrick Road and 117 feet on Blake Avenue. S. M. Mayer was the broker in the transaction.

Lewis H. May Company sold for William Willett a plot 84 by 240 feet, fronting on the north side of Mott Avenue, Far Rockaway, L. I., adjoining the proposed new Moss Theatre, to Maxwell Ochs, operator. The property was held at $175,000.

Butler & Baldwin, Inc., sold to Erie Friberg two block-fronts consisting of thirty-six lots in the Canals of Lido, Long Beach, L. I. Mr. Friberg immediately resold through the same brokers to Louis Margolis.

At Flushing, L. I., J. Barclay Bleecker, as broker, sold for Theodore M. Lay, Inc., the southwest corner of Twenty-eighth Street, and Mitchell, a new Colonial seven-room house to Paul B. Findley of Pinewood-Holleywood Courts apartment. Upon completion of alterations and the construction of a new garage Mr. and Mrs. Findley will reside in their new home. The property was held at $16,000.

Trading in Westchester County.

Edward Swann sold to Dolores Rosenbaum the estate known as Glen Craig at Grand View-on-the-Hudson, one of the finest suburban properties within twenty-five miles of New York, consisting of a large modern residence of about twenty-five rooms and seven baths, being a reproduction of a villa on Lake Como in Italy, at a cost of $130,000.

There are several acres of landscaped gardens and a private beach, besides three large cottages, a garage and other outbuildings.

The property has a frontage of 400 feet on the State Road and 400 feet with riparian rights on the river. The premises are opposite Rockefeller's mansion at Pocantico Hills. The brokers in the sale were G. Tuoti & Co.

Mrs. Russell A. Hibbs sold her property on Sherman Avenue, Gedney Farm, formerly the home of the late Emily A. Watson, to a client of Prince & Ripley. The property is one of the show places of the White Plains section, consisting of a large brick house, twelve rooms and three baths and a private ground of about two acres. The property was held at $65,000.

George A. Powers sold for the Leo Bugg Realty Company of Larchmont Park ten lots on the Boston Post Road, Larchmont, to Thomas H. Fagan for investment. The lots are situated between Beach and Mayhew Avenue. The same office reports the sale of thirteen lots for the same company to the Glen Lake Building Company, Henry Karlstadt, President, on which they have started the building of four residences, and the sale of the residence of Matthew Hilgert on Wendt Avenue, Larchmont Centre, to Alexander B. Murray of New York City. The price paid was $22,500.

The Robert E. Farley Organization sold for the Fox Meadow Estates a large plot to Catherine Sherlock of White Plains, N. Y., and has also sold for the Fox Meadow Estates three large plots to the Theodore Stafaholt Building Corporation of White Plains, N. Y.

$5,000,000 Deal in Camden, N. J.

Morris A. and H. Leon Sarshik, operators, have made in Camden, N. J., purchases of approximately $5,000,000 in central properties.

Through J. R. Tucker, Inc., the Sarshik Brothers bought properties extending from Market to Cooper Street and over Second to Sixth Street, which streets face the entrance of the new bridge in Camden, N. J. The prices range from $1,000 a front foot to $2,500.

The buyers have announced their intention of erecting a fifteen-story office building at Cooper Square.

William B. Kirsch reports the sale of the Benjamin houses located at Westwood Avenue, West End, N. J. These houses have sixteen rooms each, and have a frontage of 400 feet by 500 feet in depth. These cottages were sold to Samuel Hoffman of New York. The same broker also reports the sale of 78 Phillips Avenue, Deal, N. J., a fifteen-room stucco house on a plot 100 by 236 feet. This property was held at $35,000 and was sold to Joseph Sager of New York.

He also reports the sale and resale of a plot located at the corner of Ocean Avenue and North Broadway, Long Branch, N. J., 80 feet on Ocean Avenue and 170 feet on North Broadway, to the Rulian Construction Company of New York, and resold to the American Realty Company of New York, which intends to erect a taxpayer on this plot.

James Mooney, Inc., sold for Boen Brothers a residential plot located on the south side of Hadden Place, Upper Montclair, N. J., 60 by 150 feet. The property was purchased by A. H. Death, who intends to build a modern residence for his own use.

APARTMENTS AND PLOTS SOLD IN THE BRONX

Two Five-Story Buildings on Webster Avenue Figure in $110,000 Deal.

Apartment houses and vacant plots in the Bronx were in demand in yesterday's trading.

J. Fine bought 2,043 and 2,047 Webster Avenue, two five-story buildings, on a plot 75 by 100 feet, accommodating forty tenants, with a rental of $15,400. The houses were held for $110,000. B. Schildhaus was the broker.

Joseph Goldsmith sold for Gussie Stern 302 East 134th Street, a five-story building, 25 by 100 feet, accommodating ten families, to an investing client with a resale pending.

John J. Reynolds sold for the Waring Laconia Corporation, James Meehan, President, the new one-family brick house on the east side of Laconia Avenue, 103 feet north of Astor Avenue, to James and Nellie C. Browne; also sold for A. Engel and Francis Gastinger 2,365 Gleason Avenue, a new two-family brick house, with garage, on a plot 50 by 100 feet.

Strong, Force & Gagnon, Inc., and Charles W. McChesney sold for a client the plot 101 by 103 feet on the north side of East 177th Street, 135 feet east of Jerome Avenue. The purchaser is a builder, and will improve the plot with a five-story apartment house.

Herman A. Acker Corporation sold for Fuller and Halley the northwest corner of Crotona Avenue and Fordham Road, being a plot 25 feet on East Fordham Road by 218 feet on Crotona Avenue, running up to the property of Fordham Hospital. The property is the last piece of a large tract of land which has been in the Halley family for the past thirty-five years.

The same broker also sold the southwest corner of Crotona Avenue and East Fordham Road, being a plot 52 feet on East Fordham Road by 209 feet on Crotona Avenue.

These two corners form the keys to the gateway to East Fordham Road, being directly opposite the entrance to Bronx Park and the Zoological Gardens.

J. Clarence Davies, Inc., sold for Claranna Holding Corporation to Maxwell Cohen the vacant plot 50 by 100 feet on the west side of Longfellow Avenue, 50 feet south of 173d Street.

ADD TO EAST SIDE SITE.

Builders Buy Another Lexington Avenue Parcel.

The unnamed interests represented by Girigs, Baldwin & Baldwin, attorneys, which last week bought from Mandelbaum & Lewine, Inc., the former realty of the late Charles F. Murphy at the southwest corner of Lexington Avenue and Twenty-seventh Street have enlarged their holdings on the block by purchasing from Mandelbaum & Lewine the parcel at 82 Lexington Avenue. This is another of the old Murphy holdings, and consists of a three-story building on lot 19.9x79, adjoining the northwest corner of Twenty-sixth Street.

The realty just acquired is separated by a forty-foot holding from the corner parcel and gives the owners a total frontage of 138.3 feet on Lexington Avenue and 100 feet on Twenty-seventh Street. The deals were arranged by the Payson McL. Merrill Company as broker. The buyers plan to erect on the block a building of probably sixteen stories, largely for their own use.

JERSEY CITY BUYERS IN APARTMENT DEALS

Purchase of Flats and Dwellings Features the Market There.

Sales of apartments and private dwellings were the principal realty transactions closed in Jersey City.

Harry Rothhart of Irvington sold to John H. Young for $78,000 the four-story brick sixteen-family apartment, on a plot 50 by 100 feet, at 121 and 123 Garrison Avenue, between Sip and Pavonia Avenues.

Ludwig Maciszsek bought from Albert Datz for $17,000 the three-story brick six-family tenement at 1,219 Van Horne Street, near Communipaw Avenue.

Miss Helen C. Somers bought the one-family dwelling at 812 Montgomery Street, near the Boulevard, on a plot 27 by 141 feet, from Mrs. Mary C. McKelvey for $15,500.

Melbro Realty Corporation sold to the Jewett Realty Corporation a one-family dwelling, on a plot 32.6 by 105 feet, at 110 Lexington Avenue, held at $15,500.

Maurice R. Seiden sold to Jacob Rauff for $35,000 two two-family dwellings at 216 and 218 Stegman Parkway. The buyer gave in part payment a six-family brick flat, on a plot 36 by 103 feet, at 845 Forrest Street, held at $32,000.

Theodore J. Kramer of Hanover, N. J., sold the four-story brick tenement with stores at 848 Grove Street, near Bay Street, to Anthony Lorcsak. The price was $32,500.

The two newly completed two-family dwellings at 238 and 248 Princeton Avenue, at the corner of Brown Place, have been sold for $28,000 by Frank W. Meixsell to Alexander Maday.

George J. Wolf bought the six-family tenement at 97 Old Bergen Road, near Seaview Avenue, on a plot 33 by 111, for $19,000 from Mrs. Annie McInerney.

TARRYTOWN LOT SALE.

Westchester County Lots Bought for Improvement.

James R. Murphy held a successful sale of the remaining unsold lots at Webber Park, Tarrytown, last Saturday, when he disposed of eighty-five lots and two dwellings for a total of $51,000.

John Sawyer purchased the six-room stucco dwelling on Gordon Avenue for $10,000, and John M. Hoffmann bought the six-room single dwelling opposite for $8,000. These two houses are new and never have been occupied.

The principal lot buyer was Victor Hatten, who acquired a plot of lots on Broadway near the historic Headless Horseman's Bridge for $8,400.

The lots on Gordon Avenue brought from $760 to $450 each. On New Broadway $620 to $450 was obtained for lots. The corner of Broadway and Gordon Avenue was sold for $1,500, and the values established on Holland Avenue were as high as $810.

Don't Lease an Apartment!

LEASES are not required of those guests staying at Briarcliff Lodge, America's Foremost Resort Hotel. Those who rent apartments at Briarcliff Lodge are held here only by their own appreciation of the nice things in life—an attractive apartment, good food, a pleasant environment, a social atmosphere. If you, too, enjoy these things it will pay you to investigate, for an apartment, from one to twelve rooms, may be rented from November until May at a rate more attractive than staying in the city.

The commuting time to Scarborough station is only fifty minutes, a whiz of the motor and you are lost in the quiet, health-giving pine woods—far away from the strife of the city. We will be pleased to furnish you with additional details.

Elevator and Non-Elevator

A moderate payment down and the balance of the purchase price monthly. Every effort is made to meet the financial requirements of desirable purchasers.

No one seeking a permanent city apartment home has seen the 100% co-operative apartments in Hudson View Gardens without wanting to live in one of them! Over 200 already have been bought.

Come and see these charming apartments while there is still a choice. You don't have to have the full purchase price.

Overlooking the Hudson River

Travel the whole City over and you will find no more attractive spot; no locality where the surroundings are more pleasing; no apartments more cosy, comfortable, convenient and economical to keep house in. Historic Fort Washington Heights, with its inimitable vistas of the Hudson and the Palisades; with its charming park along the water's edge; with pure, fresh air and aloofness from the City's dust and dirt it is a delightful place in which to own a home.

Live for Half Your Present Outlay

The cost of maintaining a home in Hudson View Gardens is less than half the rent per room of desirable city apartments elsewhere. Half the rent you now pay will be invested—saved. And, when the purchase price has been paid in full, your monthly check will be cut in half!

Housekeeping is less expensive now; and easier, in these attractive, modernly equipped apartments. The compact arrangement of the kitchens puts everything she uses right at the housewife's hand. An electric dishwasher, automatic refrigerator, built-in kitchen cabinet and other handy helps, maintain her work. Trained servants may be had at hourly rates; and hotel meals when wanted.

Live the way you want to live among the kind of people you like. You can do it within 23 minutes of Times Square, in one of these beautiful apartment homes.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 31.—The disturbance that was central over Western Quebec Sunday night has moved eastward to the lower St. Lawrence Valley and it has been attended by scattered thunder showers in the lower lake region, the extreme upper Ohio Valley, Maryland and Virginia. Local thunder showers have occurred also within the last twenty-four hours in the extreme South, Colorado, Utah and Northern Arizona. Another disturbance of wide extent is central over Alberta and British Columbia and moving eastward.

The area of high pressure from the North Pacific has now overspread the Upper Mississippi Valley, the lake region and the Upper Ohio Valley, and the barometer remains relatively high over the Southeastern States and over the Western Atlantic Ocean. The temperature continued to rise Monday in the Atlantic States, the Northern Rocky Mountain region, the Northern Plains States and Canadian Northwest, but cooler weather overspread the lake region and the Upper Ohio Valley.

The indications are for mostly fair weather Tuesday and Wednesday in the Washington forecast district. However, scattered thunder showers are probable Tuesday in North Carolina and Tuesday and Wednesday in Florida and along the East Gulf Coast. The temperature will be slightly lower Tuesday in the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States and slightly higher on Wednesday in the lower lake region and the upper Ohio Valley.

COUNTRY-WIDE WEATHER CONDITIONS.

COUPLE DEAD FROM GAS.

Notes Indicate Man and Wife Had Made Suicide Compact.

Nils Anderson, 63 years old, a carpenter, and his wife Nellie, 51 years old, were found dead from gas on the floor of their kitchen at Twelfth Avenue and Sixty-third Street, Brooklyn, yesterday. The police, after an investigation, said that they had committed suicide.

The Andersons' two daughters, Mrs. Hugh Saughman of 19 Third Street, Brooklyn and Mrs. Lawrence Stroh of 3,677 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, received notes from their father in the first mail yesterday asking them to look after their mother and indicating that Anderson contemplated suicide.

They both notified the police and with their husbands went to the Anderson home. There another note was found, apparently in Mrs. Anderson's handwriting which said, "We are discouraged. We have lived together and we will die together."

BUSINESS CONNECTIONS.

A BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY.

There is an opening in metropolitan New York for the establishment of a highly profitable and permanent business—in a rapidly developing field.

We are the manufacturers of the best individual cold process gas plant made—thousands are now in use—many of which have already given over 20 years of successful service.

This complete gas producing plant makes the finest quality of gas obtainable. It will cook the meals, heat the water, operate the washing machine and ironer, furnish lighting—in fact, perform every service that city or natural gas can give—and at a lower cost. The phenomenal development of suburban and country homes has created an active and rich market.

We are extending our sales organization. Your territory is open. Our franchise is valuable—it carries the backing of our ample financial resources—our merchandising and national and local advertising cooperation.

Small capital is required—sufficient to finance your personal need and give you the proper standing in your community. We are looking for the man—not for money. Write us fully, stating why you think you are the man we need.

Lishkat Chashaim

Lishkat Chashaim, the Chamber of Whispers or Silence, was a room in the great Temple at Jerusalem where the pious, unobserved, left donations for the needy. Later, in the synagogues, rooms were set aside for the sick, the poor, the orphans and the aged.

The entire history of Jewry is one of philanthropy. The 91 affiliated charitable organizations of Federation bear witness to the fact that the modern Jew has not lost that divine quality of giving. Upward of $3,813,000 was devoted to the sick and needy last year by Federation.

SALESMEN

I WANT to meet five or six salesmen who are today employed and making real money by their own creative efforts, but who are open to a change which will exceed their present basis, as well as offer them an honest-to-goodness opportunity to increase their present earning capacity—men who today are really of the executive type.

¶ I am not the least bit interested in men who call hope and desire "accomplishment." The men I select must have unusual magnetic personalities; must have been selling for at least five years, with a record untainted by failure; must have obvious ability to represent a group of successful business men. In other words, must be men whose entire make-up is unquestionably the type whose desire has always been to become connected with the sale of legitimate securities or financial service.

¶ These men will be placed in the Financial Department of an organization now being financed, whose directorate are outstanding men in the business world and whose product is one of the outstanding industrial developments in American history—a household poduct now in production—with over $750,000 worth of unfilled orders and developed by a group of America's foremost engineers after five years of effort at an expense of over $500,000—A FOOLPROOF SITUATION.

¶ Commission basis—and you can talk to some of our present sales force whose earnings have placed them in the $15,000 class.

¶ Only men who write specifically of their past five years experience will be interviewed and no one will be considered without a frank exchange of business references.
